Jesse Underkofler is putting up an important addition to his business being a large and commodious wagon shop. The building is 18x36, one story and will be run in connection with his blacksmith shop. E. J Lathrop we understand is going to go into the new building. Jesse is also getting in a machine to sharpen disc harrows which will be a new thing here we understand.

Our young friend, W. A. Atkinson has decided to locate at Belmond in the practice of the law and has formed a partnership with John Jamison of the established attorneys of that place. Will is one of the best boys ever raised in Hampton and we shall confidently expect him to make his mark and do himself credit in the career upon which he is just entering.

A man was run over by the cars at Eagle Grove last week being cut into lengthwise and killed immediately. We did not learn his name.

—1894—

John Heuermann and family have moved to Eagle Grove where John will work in the roundhouse for the C. & N. W. The company will find him a faithful and efficient hand.

Late scoop—In checking over the number of votes cast in the recent city election it was found that only 126 votes were for our mayor Ed Kennedy—one vote in the second ward was for C. C. Christie Every citizen has a right to vote for himself.

Although the snow will probably be all gone and winter will seem but a memory, it still isn't too late to mention what a good neighbor Alex Smith is to his neighbors, on the morning after a snowfall the night before. Twice in the past week we noticed him ranging one-half block north, south and east of his corner block cleaning the snow from his neighbors walks even before he tackled his own.

From sixty to seventy Independents are sold each week to those who call at the office. Many of them are regulars—so regular that if we are running short of extra copies we save them theirs. Always first to get their Independent promptly at 8 o'clock on Thursday morning are Elmer Chapman and Leonard Pedersen.

Don't be surprised if you hear and find the rumor to be a fact that some kind of a FHA program for 50 new homes will be underway in Belmond this year.

Spring must be in the air. Henry Johnson and Pete English were out the other day taking the census on northern bound ducks along the river. Incidentally I wouldn't be surprised if Pete were checking up on a few of his favorite fishing holes.

This is just as good a time as any to mention the seven-front Post-War plans that this writer has thought about for some time. With more than 300 men and boys gone from this vicinity and all of them, as far as he knows, expecting and wanting to come home to jobs after the war is over, something should be done in planning to have those jobs ready and waiting.

Many, and ourselves included, think that Belmond is going to grow. How fast, and what kind of a city we have in ten years depends on how well the plans are laid now. It is our suggestion that a Post-war Planning Committee be appointed by the mayor from the city council and the president of the Community Club from that organization's membership to make a complete survey, keeping in mind some of the following: Housing (new homes constructed and old ones repaired), new business buildings, new water and sewer line extensions, new sewage plant, river front improvement and landscaping, lake and park development and an airport.

EASTER DAY

Easter is the festival of Christ's resurrection, and is the most joyous day in the Christian year, the foremost in dignity of all its commemorations. Easter has this pre-eminence, not only because all the other festivals are derived from it, but chiefly because it commemorates the great historical fact and fundamental truth upon which the whole structure of the Christian religion rests.

It corresponds with the Passover of the Jews, and in the early church pascha designated the festival of the crucifixion; later, it meant both the festival of the crucifixion and the resurrection, but after the fourth century it was limited to the latter feast. The term Easter was first used when Christianity was introduced among the Saxons, and is traced to Eostre, a Saxon goddess, whose festival was celebrated annually in the spring.

Easter is the celebration of an event and not an anniversary. No one knows the exact date of the resurrection, and the date which should be celebrated was fixed by the Council of Nice in 325 A. D., as the first Sunday following the vernal equinox (March 21). It may come as early as March 22 or as late as April 25. From 1916 to 1965 Easter occurs forty times in April and ten in March.

Easter determines a long series of ecclesiastical days from Ash Wednesday to Trinity Sunday; for not only the days before Easter but those after it are reckoned from it.

—from "Anniversaries and Holidays"

COOPERATION DOES IT!

Last week we were pleased to see the Dows newspaper—the Wright County Reporter—come out again in a regular, full-size printed edition after several months' publication in a tabloid size.

While all newspapers, particularly the smaller ones, have had hard going the last year or more with the armed services claiming more and more of their skilled workers as well as the editors and owners themselves, it seemed to us that the Dows paper was particularly hard hit when it was forced several months ago, because of the labor problem, to omit one week's publication.

But the very next week, the Wright County Reporter was in circulation again and reached the home of its many subscribers on time. Why do you suppose this was made possible?

We think we know the answer. The subscribers of the Wright County Reporter wanted their own community newspaper, the business men of Dows understood the need, value and importance of having their own home-town newspaper. Everyone interested was willing to cooperate in the finest manner with Mrs. J. Sheldon Thomas, who was pinch-hitting for her husband in the management of the paper while he served in the armed forces, in order that she could continue publication even under the most trying circumstances.

We congratulate Mrs. Thomas on her accomplishment and also offer neighborly good wishes to Carl M. Johnson, who as the new editor and publisher is taking over some of her responsibility.

X-RAY PROGRAM IS HIGHLY COMMENDABLE

In December every family in Belmond had a chance to buy Christmas seals, funds from the sale of which are used to help treat, control and wipe out the disease, tuberculosis.

Recently we had evidence in part of what is being done in this important health program, and it is of particular interest to us because it was done right here in Wright county. We refer to the miniature x-ray film program conducted for high school students and teachers in which there was an exceptionally high participation—Belmond was 100%.

With the plan of repeating these films once every three years, the T. B. eradication program should show better and better results, since these x-ray films constitute a most satisfactory way of checking on the possible early beginnings of the disease in the human body during the years when it so often gets its first hold.

SALVAGE!

We were reminded again last week that there is still great need of salvage. In Belmond we are asked to continue saving TIN CANS, PAPER AND FATS. This is a small thing to do and yet one that really helps.

It will be an easy matter for housewives to do a two-fold job in the next few weeks. Clean house and help the Salvage program at the same time. Housecleaning always means disposing of unsightly collections of tin cans, paper, etc. that have piled up in some corner of the basement or closet or attic. And if you haven't already gotten in the habit of saving waste fats, do that each day. So keep your home free of unnecessary collections of waste and help with SALVAGE.

WITH OTHER EDITORS

A man in the East recently filed suit for divorce because his wife wouldn't let him enjoy worrying about the war. She danced around the room in gay hats, played light numbers on the piano and tooted Yankee Doodle on a tin horn every time he looked down cast and in general tried to keep things on a happy plane in their home.

Such is an extreme case, but we know a couple right here in Clear Lake, who enjoy worrying about the war. We challenge anyone to talk to them for more than two minutes without ending up on the subject. They read all of the newspapers and magazine articles on the subject; listen to every radio program and search through maps by the hour.

Naturally everyone wants to be well informed on the war and world news but people like that should take time off to toot a tin horn and listen to a program of music once in a while instead of 'specializing' on the war until they can't think or talk about any thing else. It almost seems as though wars are designed for people to worry about—and usually those who have no children or relatives in active service do most of it.

We believe this proves more than anything else that entertainment of all kinds is needed for diversion more today than ever before. Regardless of whether it is war or any other subject, it is too bad that some folks can devote so much of their time to worrying over it—and enjoying the worry. They really need a divorce—a divorce from themselves. — Clear Lake Mirror.

We notice that the newspapers over in England are still trying to elect Roosevelt for a fourth term. Why not let the people of the United States elect a president of their own choice? This country is not attempting to tell England who to choose as its prime minister.—Hampton Chronicle.

When a writer refers to himself editorially as "we", how many does they think they are? We would like to try it myselves some time, but when one scratches our heads one never knows which the next thought is coming from.—Ackley World-Herald.

Late scoop—In checking over the number of votes cast in the recent city election it was found that only 126 votes were for our mayor, Ed Kennedy—one vote in the second ward was for C. C. Christie Every citizen has a right to vote for himself.

Although the snow will probably be all gone and winter will seem but a memory, it still isn't too late to mention what a good neighbor Alex Smith is to his neighbors, on the morning after a snowfall the night before. Twice in the past week we noticed him ranging one-half block north, south and east of his corner block cleaning the snow from his neighbors walks even before he tackled his own.

From sixty to seventy Independents are sold each week to those who call at the office. Many of them are regulars—so regular that if we are running short of extra copies we save them theirs. Spring must be in the air. Henry Johnson and Pete English were out the other day taking the census on northern bound ducks along the river. Incidentally I wouldn't be surprised if Pete were checking upon a few of his favorite fishing holes.

This is just as good a time as any to mention the seven-front Post-War plans that this writer has thought about for some time. With more than 300 men and boys gone from this vicinity and all of them, as far as he knows, expecting and wanting to come home to jobs after the war is over, something should be done in planning to have those jobs ready and waiting.

P—P

Many, and ourselves included, think that Belmond is going to grow. How fast, and what kind of a city we have in ten years depends on how well the plans are laid now. It is our suggestion that a Post-war Planning Committee be appointed by the mayor from the city council and the president of the Community Club from that organization's membership to make a complete survey, keeping in mind some of the following: Housing (new homes constructed and old ones repaired), new business buildings, new water and sewer line extensions, new sewage plant, river front improvement and landscaping, lake and park development and an airport.

The Cheapest!

The baby chick business has changed a great deal in the last few years. People have stopped buying "just chicks" and are asking, what is behind the chicks that I buy? What kind of parent stock did they come from? They know that chicks are not going to be much better than the parent stock from which they came.

BUY ALEXANDER HATCHERY CHICKS!

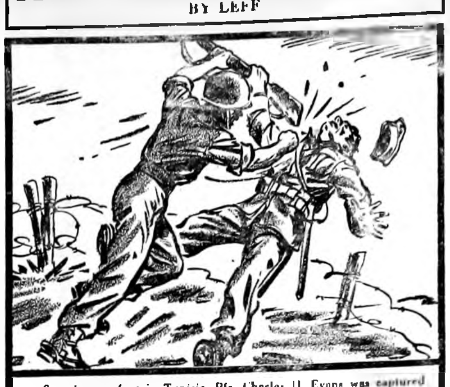
AMERICAN HEROES

BY LEFF



Scouting on foot in Tunisia, Pfc. Charles H. Evans was captured by 30 Italian infantrymen and marched to the rear. A bayonet at his back, Evans whirled, disarmed his guard, and escaped. Although wounded by rifle fire, he hid in a cactus patch till nightfall, slipped back to our forces with valuable information picked up as a prisoner. For this he wears the Purple Heart and the Silver Star. Celebrate Evans' escape with another War Bond.

Beet Growers May Get Ration-Free Sugar

Sugar beet and sugar cane growers may receive part of the sugar produced from their 1944 crops without giving up ration stamps, OPA announced. Heretofore, sugar growers were required to surrender stamps or certificates for sugar produced from their own crops, and were thus limited in the amount of sugar they could use at home according to the basic ration, now set at 24 lbs. per person a year.

OPA points out this is in keeping with rationing policy with respect to other farm produced foods. Beet and cane growers will be allowed a maximum of 25 pounds of sugar produced from their crops for each person in the family—or 25 pounds for each acre of sugar cane or sugar beets grown, whichever is less. The sugar will be obtained from the manufacturer to whom the grower delivers his crops for processing. Announcement is made at this time OPA said, in the hope that it will stimulate sugar beet plantings this year. WFA has already announced a price support averaging $3.00 per ton of sugar beets produced.

Egg Slackers Rob Whole Laying Flocks

War conditions demand that poultry culling be put on a year round basis, according to Dr. J. W. Nelson, Cargill staff nutritionist. Systematic culling should start in brooder house and continue month after month in the laying house. Backward pullets should never be allowed to take up laying house space or feed—and non-laying hens should be removed as promptly as they are spotted.

Only in this way, emphasizes Dr. Nelson, can an increase [illegible] four per cent in eggs be realized on less total feed. It's not [illegible] of the flock but the number of eggs per hen per pound of feed that's going to count in meeting this year's goal. Non-layers not only waste scarce feed but rob producers of needed egg-making materials.

Learn something about your War Bonds from this fellow

THE BEST THING a bulldog does is HANG ON! Once he gets hold of something, it's mighty hard to make him let go!

And that's the lesson about War Bonds you can learn from him. Once you get hold of a War Bond, HANG ON TO IT for the full ten years of its life.

There are at least two very good reasons why you should do this. One is a patriotic reason ... the other a personal reason.

You buy War Bonds because you know Uncle Sam needs money to fight this war. And you want to put some of your money into the fight. But ... if you don't hang on to those War Bonds, your money isn't going to stay in the battle.

Another reason you Buy War Bonds is because you want to set aside some money for your family's future and yours. No one knows just what's going to happen after the War. But the man with a fistful of War Bonds knows he'll have a roof over his head and 3 square meals a day no matter what happens!

War Bonds pay you back $4 for every $3 in 10 years. But, if you don't hang on to your Bonds for the full ten years, you don't get the full face value, and ... you won't have that money coming in later on when you may need it a lot worse than you need it today.

So buy War Bonds ... more and more War Bonds. And then keep them. You will find that War Bonds are very good things to have ... and to hold!

Don Says-- We Must Plant More Victory Gardens In '44

IF YOU HAPPEN TO BE AMONG THOSE "V" GARDENERS WHO HAD A LITTLE BAD LUCK LAST YEAR AND PLAN TO LAY OFF THIS TIME . . JUST REMEMBER THAT OUR FIGHTING MEN ARE NOT QUITTING AND NEITHER CAN WE!

Let Us Be Your Garden Advisors

We will be glad to help you with gardening problems that confront you. Gardening can be a pleasure if gone about in the proper manner as well as a great satisfaction. Don't try to make a hard job of it but consider it a hobby. There's just as much fun in beating your neighbor with the first ear of sweet corn or the biggest potato as there is in catching the biggest fish.

Choose our Certified Seeds and Plants and then consult the Following Planting Table as a Guide to All-Summer Planting Success

PLANTING TABLE

Plant enough to provide sufficient vegetables to can and store for the family for 30 non-producing weeks. Planting dates given are for central Iowa. In southern Iowa gardeners should plant a week earlier in the spring than the dates given, and in northern Iowa gardeners should plant a week later. Reverse this procedure for summer plantings.

A FEW GOOD THOUGHTS

"Success is getting what you want; happiness is wanting what you get."—Anonymous.

"Stars and Stripes" quotes the sagest comment yet heard on the unwise optimism about a short war: "It's all over but the fighting."

A little girl's prayer: "O God, make the people good, and the good people nice." — Harry Emerson Fosdick.

"It is not miserable to be blind; it is miserable to be incapable of enduring blindness."—John Milton.

"The unforgivable crime is soft hitting. Do not hit at all if it can be avoided; but never hit softly."—Theodore Roosevelt.

"Instead of loving your enemies, treat your friends a little better."—Ed Howe.

Democracy means not "I am equal to you "but" you are equal to me."—James Russell Lowell.

"The great use of life is to spend it for something that will outlast it.—William James.

"Sorrow is the mere rust of the soul. Activity will cleanse and brighten it."—Samuel Johnson.

"We can always live on less when we have more to live for."—S. Stephen McKenney.

"Anger is a wind which blows out the lamp of the mind."—Robert Ingersoll.

- Napoleon once remarked (and he certainly knew what he was talking about): "The only conquests which are permanent, and leave no regrets, are our conquests over ourselves."

"A long life may not be good enough, but a good life is long enough." — Benjamin Franklin, "Poor Richard's Almanac."

"Humdrum isn't where you live but what you are."—Harold McGrath.

Primary News

Ruth Ann Fuller celebrated her birthday by treating all the children in the primary department to candy.

Dicky Rat, who weighed 54 grams, now weights 69 and Mickey Rat, the good little boy, who drinks his milk and eats his vegetables and fruits, has gained from 52 grams to 85 grams.

All the children have agreed that they will eat vegetables and drink milk. Some of the children were drinking coffee and have given it up for milk. Some are spending their nickels for apples instead of candy.

Ruth Ann Fuller and Richard Knight received perfect score on their spelling review words for the week.

THE QUESTION BOX

The question for this week is: "What is your favorite type of motion picture? Does it pertain to war, comedy, or drama? Why?"

Gladys Mayhew: "I guess I'm the type that likes everything. I like musicals, but I think my favorite are airplanes. I like flying because there is so much excitement. A good murder isn't so bad! (I mean in pictures).

George Gerdes: "My favorites are war pictures because I like to see how the Americans fight and win."

Darwin Nelson: "The comedy type, because there are no love scenes in those."

INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT THE MONTH

The month of April receives its name from the Latin word "aprivere" meaning "to open" as to flowers. The flower for this usually pleasant month is the daisy, and the birth stone is the diamond, which endows its wearer of innocence.

JUNIOR NEWS

In English literature we have found John Keats a noteworthy poet. Although he was only the son of a manager of a London livery stable, he saw "Fame' personified. To him the most beautiful thing in the world was Beauty. His poem "The Eve of St. Agnes" reaches a point of artistry that is very near "perfection." We thought that it was one of the best selections, that we had ever read.

Over all of the poems, sonnets, and odes of the Romantic Period, we had content cards, which were due last Thursday. Content cards consist of the following: the title of the selection, the author's name and a summary of his life, the length, the rime scheme, the meter, the type of poem and the content of it. April 3rd brought the English Literature class their six weeks exam.

Our next period to be studied is the "Victorian Age," consisting of such well known writers as Alfred, Lord Tennyson, who drew much of his materials from ancient Latin and Greek Classics, Thomas Carlyle, Thomas McCauley, and several others. The period sounds interesting, doesn't it?

"Air Transportation" has kept the senior science class busy. We are "finding out" that we have much more to learn on this topic of today.

The writing of several forms of business letters and the addressing of the accompanying envelopes is keeping the typing class on its toes.

SENIOR NEWS

In sociology we have been studying the causes of insanity and feeble-mindedness. We are starting to study the chapter on leisure time and recreation.

In biology we have finished the unit "Conservation of Living Things" and have started the unit "Biology of the Future," which we think is going to be very interesting.

Stake YOUR Claim NOW with War Bonds

It took a lot of grit for a man and wife to stow their children into a prairie schooner with a few bare necessities and fight it out with all the hardships the frontier had to offer. Yet, these self-reliant pioneers proved their ability to win the finest reward a family can have—security in a land of growing opportunities.

Today, solid citizens are staking their claim in America's future by buying and keeping War Bonds. They know Bonds help to win battle after battle. They know, too, that Bonds will provide security and opportunity for personal initiative when war-supported activity ceases.

Do you know of anything that offers you as much for your money as a War Bond?

A journey's end is the beginning of relaxation. In such a moment, Budweiser will prove a welcome companion. Count on Budweiser to make your simple wartime meals taste better. Every sip will tell you why.

In addition to supplying the armed forces with glider and bomber fuselage frames, wing parts, gun turret parts and foodstuffs, Anheuser-Busch produces materials which go into the manufacture of: Rubber • Aluminum • Munitions • Medicines B Complex Vitamins • Hospital Diets • Baby Foods • Bread and other Bakery products • Vitamin-fortified cattle feeds • Batteries • Paper Soap and textiles—to name a few.

Other important point adjustments include the reduction of canned peas and [illegible] jams to zero.

freight that they cannot handle, this of course applies on freight that they are holding for transportation.

In the case of all empty or partially loaded trucks registered, if the office does not have tonnage registered that the operator should handle, the operator will receive a clearance number that will permit him to return empty. If the office has freight registered that is destined to points near his destination, he will be required to handle the freight.

If the operator is in a city without a registration office, he is required to contact all common carriers for the purpose of returning with a loaded truck if possible. An operator should make every effort to secure a load for the return trip from any one having a load to offer.

Registration may be made by telephone No. 1602 at the Mason City office which is open from 8:30 A. M. until 5:30 P. M.

22, 1876, in Pleasant Township, 1½ miles north of Belmond, passed away at the age of 67 years, 6 months and 8 days, at his home in Belmond on March 30, 1944 after a three weeks' illness.

He attended the public school, and at the age of 17 he started teaching in District No. 2, Pleasant Township, which was then known as the Dipple School.

He taught several years in the country schools, before his marriage on June 27, 1900 in Putnam County, Illinois, to Anna Helena Barneman. He brought his wife to the farm 3½ miles north of Belmond, where they continued to live for 43 years, moving to their present home on November of last year.

His first interest was his family and he spent his life in serving both family and friends. He was interested in community life and gave of his time and energy to many organizations, among which were the services rendered as secretary of the Pleasant Township School Board, which position he held for 22 years, and the office of secretary of the Farmers Creamery Co. of Belmond, which he held for 18 years.

He leaves to mourn his passing his wife, four sons, and two daughters: Mrs. J. M. Johnson (Vida), San Marcos, Texas; Lyle Jenison Y 1/c San Diego, Calif.; Vere Jenison, Belmond; Mrs. Leolo Olson, San Antonio, Texas; Duane Jenison, Belmond; and Donald Jenison, Waterloo; one brother, Ed Jenison, Fort Dodge, Iowa, and 20 grand children.

The funeral was held Sunday afternoon at the Methodist church with Rev. Faris officiating and Fred Fulton in charge of funeral arrangements. Burial was in the Belmond Cemetery.

REWARDS PAY REWARDS

Going to college was the easiest way I ever found to make a living. But it had no future. After four years, father stopped sending checks.

Since then, I've worked. And I've watched other people work. I've even hired some people to work for me.

And I've noticed that the best way to get people to work or think is to pay them for it — give 'em some incentive.

For some strange reason, Americans want rewards for effort, for initiative, for hustling.

Businessmen have learned that a good way to get good work out of good people is to pay 'em good.

Now if the government will learn that a good way to encourage business to take chances and make a lot of jobs, is to let business take the initiative itself and allow it to make some money — well, we'll have postwar prosperity in America to beat the band.

In recent years, politicians have been saying "Why don't you business guys make more jobs? Wham! Sock! Take that and THAT!"

Even I would rather starve than work or make plans with that kind of encouragement.

For Sows and Pigs

The start that your baby pigs get generally determines whether or not they will become thrifty, profitable hogs. Within three weeks after birth, pigs sometimes show signs of anemia and vitamin deficiencies. If the ration is not corrected at once, the damages become permanent. This means lost pork, wasted feed, and profit loss.

Big Gain Pig & Sow Ration is made to assure you of maximum profits from your sows and litters by combining those high quality protein, vitamin, mineral and energy feeds that will prevent nursing loss on the sows, increase the milk flow for the nursing litters, protect the health and speed the growth of the baby pigs by providing essential vitamins and minerals that are not conveyed to them in the sow's milk.

Do your best in assuring pig profits. Ask your dealer for Big Gain Pig & Sow Ration.

Victory Garden Army On March

Give Tips on Planting Fertilizing and Seeds

Wright County's Victory Garden [illegible] is now on the march under full pack, and a successful campaign is anticipated.

Some stragglers have been de[illegible] by the low point values on certain canned vegetables as indicating surplus supplies. The War Food Administration cautions gardeners against this fallacy. Actually point values were reduced to move current stocks, and higher point values appear likely on processed foods in the near future. Food ration points depend, in a large measure, on the output of the 1944 gardens. Government contracts for processed foods are much larger this year than in 1943.

Some tips victory and farm gardeners might keep in mind are:

All vegetable seed should be treated with a good dust to kill disease organisms. Spergon and Aroson may be used on all vegetable seeds, and Semesan Jr. may be used on all except lima beans.

Remember to treat your seed potatoes for scab.

Commercial fertilizer is available for victory gardens. The formula 4-12-4 has been designated for Victory gardens. Some dealers may have some of last year's garden fertilizer on hand which is also satisfactory. Apply at the rate of 2 to 3 pounds per 100 sq. ft. and rake it into the soil. It may also be applied as a side dressing to the row.

Spread your plantings over an interval of time. In this way sur[illegible] can be avoided to some ex[illegible]

Have you tried two crops together? One crop must be quick ma[illegible] Radishes and carrots work together.

If you haven't a garden plot—see your garden chairman, Mrs. Al Mennenga.

If you haven't received a Garden Guide for 1944, a call or post card to the County Extension Service, Clarion will assure you of one.

Up-To-Date?

The Independent wishes to remind the families and friends of service men, whose names are on the subscription list, that changes in address should be kept up to date in order to insure the most rapid delivery of the paper.

Bowman Discusses Soybeans

Key War Crop For 1944

Urges Increase of Acreages

Soybeans are Iowa's key war [illegible] for 1944, County Extension [illegible] Aaron R. Bowman declar[illegible] this week in urging that Wright county farmers make every effort to fit [illegible] into their crop plans [illegible]

T[illegible] acres [illegible] reasonably be expected to yield 12,000 pounds [illegible] beans. That amount of beans [illegible] provide enough calories for 23 [illegible] for 1 year, or the vegetable food fats for 100 people for 1 year

More important to the farmer, probably, is the amount of live[illegible] protein feed which soy[illegible] can furnish. Protein from [illegible] pounds of beans will bal[illegible] the rations for cows producing 820,000 pounds of milk, or supplement the rations for steers [illegible] [illegible] pounds of beef or the hogs producing 23,000 [illegible] of pork. Meal from 10 [illegible] of soybeans can replace 17 [illegible] corn for growing, fat[illegible] [illegible] fed as a sup[illegible] [illegible] up for the re[illegible] [illegible] eans, many Iowa farmers have asked assurance that they will be able to obtain the protein meal they need for feeding operations.

Two such assurances have been announced recently. Authorization has been granted for increasing the number of soybean processing plants in Iowa to 31. Iowa had only eight plants two years ago. This expansion will place Iowa high among the soybean processing states. Farmers agree that the greater the capacity for processing meal, the greater will be the opportunity for obtaining it locally.

War Production authorities have announced that arrangements will be made to allot the protein meal on some basis proportionate to the acres of soybeans produced by individual farmers. With these assurances, Iowa should come much nearer the goal of 47 per cent increase in soybean acreage than was indicated in early reports planting intentions.

47 Represent Belmond In Music Contest

Event Attempts Revival Of Competition

Forty-seven Belmond high school and junior high students will compete tomorrow (Friday) in the preliminary state music contest at Hampton.

This event is an attempt to revive music competition after it was sharply curtailed two years ago. Last year Belmond did not have a single representative in the contests, and two years ago only a few soloists competed.

This year the girls' glee club, the concert band, girls' vocal sextette and several soloists will represent the local school.

Two centers have been selected for final state contests: Vinton and Carroll. These contests will not be for large groups, but only for small groups and soloists.

In the contest at Hampton Friday Belmond's glee club will appear at 3:20 in the afternoon, competing against Hampton, the only other Class B school

The band will appear at 9:25 in the evening, the only Class B entry. The girls' sextette appears at 8:55 p. m. and the soloists at various times during the day.

Republican Women of Wright County to Meet Saturday, April 15

The Wright County Unit of the Iowa Council of Republican Women will meet in Eagle Grove on Saturday, April 15th, at the Odd Fellows' Hall at 2:30, and will be in charge of Mrs. E. C. Johnson of Eagle Grove, County President of the organization. Mrs. Charles Hanson, Clarion, is Vice-president, and Miss Lucille Mecchem, Clarion, is secretary-treasurer.

Senator G. R. Hill of Clarion will speak on the "Interim Committee." This is a powerful committee created by the legislature to perform some of the functions of that body during the interim when the legislature is not in session. Mr. Hill has been chairman of this committee and knows how and why it functions.

Refreshments will be served at the close of the meeting.

Recommendations Made To Parents By Nurse

An immunization clinic, in which 104 school children participated, completed the six-week's school nursing program, conducted by Mrs. Erma Petersen, R. N. of Britt.

This nursing program was sponsored cooperatively by the City Council, the School Board and the Belmond Red Cross Chapter.

Among the 104 pupils who were immunized at the school, 90 were innoculated for diphtheria and 71 for smallpox. The percentage of immunized school children was raised sharply from less than 75% to 91% for diphtheria and 96% per cent for smallpox as a result of the clinic.

Among the other health services conducted during Mrs. Petersen's stay as school nurse was the miniature x-ray program sponsored by the Wright County Tuberculosis Association. All high school students who were present the day the pictures were taken were given chest x-rays photographed on a miniature film.

During her six weeks in the Belmond schools, Mrs. Petersen examined every child in school and, through notes sent home, made recommendations for consultations with the family doctor over specific disabilities that her examinations detected.

Over 300 such recommendations were sent home. Most of them advised the parents to have their child's tonsils, eyes or teeth checked. Cases of overweight and underweight were also reported.

All individual health records have been brought up to date and now form a part of the students' cumulative school record. The health record includes data regarding physical disabilities, their correction, history of contagious diseases and record of immunization.

Parents are urged to follow up the nursing program by consulting their doctors when such a recommendation has been made. It is anticipated that many of the corrections will be made during the summer months, and a check-up is planned for next fall.

Defeat Dows As Baseball Season Opens

Dorr Makes "Miracle" Play

Last Friday, the Belmond baseball team opened the season by handing the strong Dows team its first defeat of the year, on the Belmond field, with the score 13 to 4.

KANAWHA HERE FRIDAY

This week the local team was rained out at Eagle Grove on Tuesday, but will oppose Kanawha here Friday. Coach Lansing announced that the game will start at 3:15 p. m. Fred Fulton and Dr. H. J. Classick will umpire.

The season opener was satisfactory from two standpoints, victory, and a revival locally of some of the lost interest in the national pastime. The weather was favorable and the local nine played well despite the early season.

The game was marked by some fine fielding and hitting. Bob Nelson, Rich Johnson, Rich Michelson and Jack Campbell showed signs of the needed batting punch, while Art Stockseth, Ralph Turner and others are improving rapidly.

The season's introductory contest brought forth a "miracle" in baseball. It happened when Larry Dorr, the local shortstop, made a triple play unassisted. With the bases loaded and no outs, the batter hit a tremendous line drive which Dorr amazingly caught. As a result he cut off the man on second who was off with the crack of the bat The final out was recorded when Dorr outran the man to third base for the forceout.

Paul Quigley started as pitcher and was relieved by Bob Nelson in the fourth inning. Les Classick and Ter Hark shared the catching duties.

TALKING ABOUT POLITICS—

With the primary election in Iowa coming nearer and nearer, much editorial comment about politics in general as well as about parties and candidates in particular is appearing in Iowa newspapers, both large and small, both influential and insignificant.

We believe that this comment represents pretty well the opinions of the Iowa people, since editors are quite likely to form their opinions to a large extent by absorbing and thinking about opinions they hear expressed among the citizens of their own communities.

This week, we are giving our readers a column of comments by Iowa editors on the very timely topic of politics.

—V—

GOVERNMENT BY THE PEOPLE?

Wendell Willkie announced last week that he was withdrawing from the race for the Republican nomination for president, after failure to win a single delegate in the Wisconsin primary election.

Here is just one more instance showing how far away we have come from "government-by-the-people". Our politics has been organized into such hard, tight, uncompromising groups that a candidate for public office, no matter how well qualified or how popular with the people, hasn't a chance to win unless he has the support of his party's political machine.

We still believe that if the Republican party expects a victory in electing a president in November, it would be well for its leaders to reconsider Mr. Willkie's qualifications and his popularity among the people.

—V—

Humboldt Republican says Republican party must have constructive, world wide program:

There is a belief among some "New Deal" Democrats that Franklin D. Roosevelt will be defeated next November. Of course there is no possibility of nominating any other Democrat. Franklin D. has arranged it so that every prominent Democrat is either pushed into a position that kills his popularity or is denied entrance to the inner circle from which comes Democratic presidential nominees. Franklin D. will nominate himself. He will elect himself if the Republicans continue their attitude as obstructionists and backbiters. If the Republican party will come out with a constructive program and a world-wide program, and shake off Col. McCormick—and Spangler too—it can win next fall. There is on doubt of it. The people are tired of Franklin D., but not tired enough to go back to the 1930's.

—V—

Osage Press speaks of Willkie's popularity:

In the republican race for the presidential nomination, Willkie's jump in public popularity in this state of 14 per cent to Dewey's 4 per cent forecasts the tendency of republican opinion which will crystalize at the Chicago convention. About the only thing for Willkie to overcome before the convention is the bugbear of having once been defeated for president.

—V—

Northwood Anchor wonders if voters still believe in democracy:

"What kind of democracy do we have anyway?" asks the Mason City Globe Gazette, "if we have to assume [illegible]t in a 16 year period only one man [illegible]ble of presidential leadership can be developed?" The question might well be extended to include another query: "If the majority of voters DO assume such a thing then are not those voters acknowledging that they do not believe in democracy but rather in a form of government entirely opposed to it?'

—V—

Sac City Sun reminds us it will take the strongest man available tc beat Roosevelt:

There is no question about it, should Roosevelt decide to run for a 4th term, and the supposition is that he will make the race, it will take the strongest man that the republicans can produce to defeat him. The writer believes that Willkie is the only man who can turn the trick. He seems to be gaining ground in most areas.

—V—

The effect of our political campaign on our allied countries is discussed by the Pocahontas Record-Democrat:

Every four years the American people exercise the right as citizens to engage in the election of a president. Foreigners do not know the process in which our political parties engage, perhaps, and of the tremendous business of campaigning with its vile mudslinging which follows as part of the office-seekers procedure.

There is nothing much refreshing about the scene, for politics seems to be a tough business at best. But other nations know something of it, for from what we read of their elections they too have campaign problems and namecalling. However, during a period of war when unity is so highly desired among the Allied nations, the various angles of so-called "dirty" politics might affect the name of a friendly nation.

Winston Churchill has wisely cautioned the British that during our presidential campaign there will be some rough things said about Great Britain, as certain candidates will use this method to gain votes from some quarters. Churchill understands politics and advises his countrymen "not to be unduly concerned by anything that should be said or written in the course of that great constitutional process which is taking place".

And we are proud that we hold the power and the rights as citizens of this country to proceed with our constitutional process of a presidential election.

—V—

Webster City Freeman says that big-shot Republicans don't seem to favor Willkie:

Most of the big shots in the republican party, big because they have been boosted in many instances to important positions with more or less influence, seem to be against the nomination of Wendell Willkie for president, as they were in 1940. That's one reason Willkie is out before the people seeking the support of the average republicans. He knows very well he has no show if the professional politicians in the party have their way, hence is appealing to the voters who are free from the influence of those who want to dictate the nomination in the hope of reaping political rewards through special favors.

—V—

Emmetsburg Reporter mentions the importance of our Congress:

Our citizens must never forget that their duly elected representatives in congress are the greatest sefeguard that stands between their personal liberties and the subjugation of their rights from whatever source. We may have our differences of opinion with congress, but we must not for an instant relax our vigilance in upholding that body as essential to American constitutional government.

—V—

Decorah Public Opinion recognizes Willkie as foremost political thinker:

Whatever we may think about Willkie as a presidential candidate, we are forced to recognize him as one of the foremost if not the foremost political thinkers of ur time.

—V—

Cedar Rapids Gazette on "4th termites:

Already is is apparent that one of the key arguments of the 4th termites is going to be an appeal to fear that failure of American voters to reelect President Roosevelt will be interpreted by our allies and enemies as a repudiation of the war effort and its avowed aims.

Barry-Weyer Wedding Takes Place April 10, 1944

St. Francis Church of Belmond, Iowa, was the scene of a pretty wedding Thursday morning, April 10, 1944, when Miss Rose A. Barry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George G. Barry of Belmond became the bride of Dr. Charles M. Weyer of Waterloo, son of Dr. and Mrs. Charles N. Weyer of Mankato, Minn. The single ring ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. Father R. A. Ormsby at 8 o'clock a. m.

Preceding the ceremony, Miss Maye Tracy played nuptial music and Miss Lorraine Quigley sang Schubert's "Ave Maria." "Panis Angelicum" and the communion hymns.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father was attractively attired in a dressmaker suit of pastel rose wool with black accessories and wore a half-hat of rose flowers with French veiling and a shoulder corsage of deep red roses. She carried a rosary which belonged to her aunt, Mrs. A. E. Webster. Miss Colette Weyer of Mankato, Minn., sister of the groom served as bridesmaid and was dressed in a cream colored dressmaker suit with brown accessories and also wore a shoulder corsage of red roses.

The groom who was attended by Everett Corcoran of Waterloo, brother-in-law of the bride, wore a gray suit and Mr Corcoran wore a navy blue suit, both wore white carnation boutonnieres.

Mrs. Barry, mother of the bride, wore a silk jersey dress of flowered lavender and a lavender hat with a shoulder corsage of gardenias. Mrs. Weyer, mother of the groom was dressed in a two-piece tan spring suit with brown accessories and a shoulder corsage of white gardenias.

Immediately following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served in the dining room of the Odd Fellows hall to some thirty relatives and friends by the Rebekah Lodge. The bride's colors of pink and white were carried throughout the meal and in the table decorations. A three tiered cake topped with a miniature bride and groom centered the bride's table with lighted tapers and vases of pink roses on either side.

Mrs. Weyer was born and reared in this community, was graduated from the Belmond high school and later from Iowa State Teachers college. For the past five years she has been teaching in the Davenport public schools. Disasters Strike Suddenly

AN ACCIDENT or an ILLNESS may be trivial or serious in effect; may cause temporary or prolonged disability. No one can foretell the proportion of disaster any more than they can predict when it may occur. But when it does befall, it is a welcome and maybe vital compensation to be so insured that money is coming in to offset the lost salary and medical expenses.

We offer several types of accident and health insurance. There is one that will exactly fit your needs and the amount of indemnity consistent with your earning capacity or your income.

NOW
YOU HAVE SOMETHING TO SELL

SELL

Perhaps it is an old dresser or table that you no longer are using. Or maybe you have an extra stove you don't need, or a set of books you would like to get rid of, it might be something big, like a house or lot, or farm.

Or possibly a cow, horse, or flock of chickens.

Or it could be that you need something and would like to buy it, but do not know where it can be found.

Possibly it is an electric refrigerator, or a length of rubber hose.

Or a good used automobile tire or bird dog.

ALWAYS REMEMBER — Whatever it is you would like to sell, there is a buyer for it.

And if there is something you want to buy, you can often find a person with that same thing to sell.

CUSTOMER

ALL THREE OFTEN ONE PERSON

In America, everybody is or would like to be and can be a "capitalist."

I don't like the word. A capitalist is usually just a person who has saved a little money and invested it in a business. Most big companies are owned by thousands of scattered small stockholders—not by a few fat men with dollar marks on their clothes.

Anybody who saves is a capitalist. Even buyers of war bonds are capitalists.

There are 67,000,000 policyholders in life insurance companies in America who are all capitalists, because insurance companies invest a large part of their policyholders' savings in businesses.

Many American workers own part of the business for which they work. That makes them capitalists — if that's what you want to call em.

Frequently, too, they are customers of the businesses for which they work and which they partly own.

More and more, the investor and the worker and the customer are the same person in America—so it pays him to get along with himself.

TH UDGE SAYS...

"Quite a stack of new s I left you yesterday, Judge. Aren't in the newspaper business, are you?"

"No, I just enjoy reading different papers so my nephew George sends them to me whenever he takes a business trip. I got a big kick out of some he sent me from several counties where they still have prohibition. Particularly from some headlines that read 'Drunk Driving Arrests Rise', 'Bootleggers must post Ceiling Prices', 'Federal Agents seize 'Trick' Liquor Truck'. Doesn't that go to prove, Joe, that prohibition does not prohibit?

"I watched conditions pretty carefully during our 13 years of prohibition in this country. The only thing I could see we got out of it was bootleg liquor instead of legal liquor...plus the worst crime and corruption this country has ever known."

We are studying "The Essay on Burns" by Thomas Carlyle in English Literature. We find that Carlyle's contributions to literature reveals himself as a masterely literely and dramatic artist. His "phrases and clauses are wrenched apart and crashed again in the most peculiar order" Thomas Babington Macaulay's life and works are being studied also. We find that Macaulay shows his best in this selection.

The subject which senior science is based on at the present is "levers". We find that the lever is a simple machine and probably the oldest known to man, but Archimedes, the great Greek mathematician and inventor, was the first to set forth its exact mathematical principles.

Who will hand the most budgets in has been the chief problem in the junior typing class? We are discovering many new and important business forms of letters. The correct spacing after periods, colons, semicolons, etc. is also being stressed.

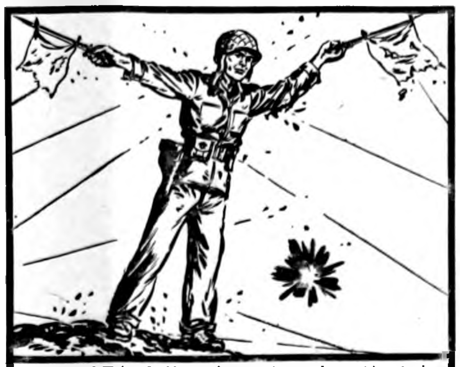
AMERICAN HEROES

BY LEFF



Corporal Walter Bodt's squad was spying out Jap positions in the Pacific. We needed information badly. The squad got it, but was cut off from our lines. Using handkerchiefs tied to bayonets, Marine Corporal Bodt wigwagged the information back. He lost an eye, sustained other wounds from furious enemy fire, but his message was urgent. He stuck and got it through, winning the Navy Cross. Weapons are urgent too, and your War Bonds buy them.

Flumerfelt Stresses Need Of Soybean Crop

Explains Advantages In This Territory And Many Uses

Here's the latest information on soybeans as a cash crop for farmers in Belmond region.

General Mills' new Belmond soybean processing plant, which will be in operation about July 1, has naturally aroused a keener interest in soybeans in Bemond and our trading territory.

To bring us up to date on the subject, Walter Flumerfelt, manager of Belmond operations for General Mills, has prepared the following statement of the advantages of soybeans as a cash crop in a territory served by a modern processing plant with large storage facilities.

Of special interest are Mr. Flumerfelt's suggestions as to future developments in the processing of soybeans and perfection of the ways in which their products are used.

Near the turn of the century, farmers in the grain raising area east of the Mississippi found that clover and alfalfa, as legume crops for rotation with cereal grains, were disinclined to catch hold and thrive. The reason was that the soil had become acid. The U. S. Department of Agriculture recognized the problem and experiments were tried using soybeans as a possible legume crop to replace soil nitrogen which had been exhausted through intensive planting of corn, oats, wheat and the like. It was found that soybeans would grow on slightly acid soil although the crop was poor in comparison with returns from the same seed and efforts applied to soil which had been limed. Thus it is that the soybean first secured its foothold in American agriculture, and, when the history of the corn belt farmers is written, complimentary references may well be made to commend Dr. W. J. Morse of the U. S. D. A., whose foresight and energy made possible the procurement of hundreds of varieties of soybeans for selective plantings.

Now that the soybean has become definitely established as an important unit in American agriculture, it becomes necessary that American ingenuity and enterprise shall develop every possible advantage to be secured from the soybean, which has for centuries been one of the foremost items of sustenance for a large segment of Asiatic peoples. American chemists and commercial enterprises have accepted the challenge and have found means of converting the soybean to human food, animal food and raw material for industrial applications. These developments naturally increase the value of the soybean as a cash grain crop and it is the hope of General Mills in building an extensive soybean processing operation at Belmond, Iowa, that increased values may accrue to the entire community as well as to progress with both state and national scope.

For human food, the ordinary field varieties of soybeans are being studied so that highest possible nutritional values may be made available for public use. Elementary information regarding soybeans indicates the average analysis of field grown soybeans to be 36% to 38% protein, 17% to 20% fat and the balance a mixture of carbohydrates, ash, etc. The raw protein must be properly cooked in order to be assimilated as a body nutrient. Extensive laboratory studies are being made, and in due time, soy flour, or soy flours, will be produced and marketed in such forms as will give highest possible nutritional benefits for human consumption. The protein in soybeans can be cooked too much as well as too little, but it is evident from tests already conducted that soy flours will be tailor-made to suit different cooking applications. The optimum nutritional value of soybean protein, according to our present knowledge, results from maintaining a cooking temperature of approximately 230 degrees F. for about thirty minutes in moist heat. The soy flours now available for human consumption vary widely in taste, color, texture and other qualities. However, the soy flours which set the standards will necessarily have to meet the requirements of discriminating users from the standpoint of both special adaptability and nutrition. It is hoped that, through progress made at Belmond, such soy flours may be produced.

In processing soybeans, the usual procedure is to remove the oil from the soybean. The most efficient methods for doing this are based on continuous processing operations. Technical advances and improvements will make processing more and more efficient, and the quality of soybean oil which is extracted will be continually improved to the extent that it will undoubtedly become a perfected edible oil with excellent color, body and keeping qualities. In the past soybean oil has had a tendency to revert to a beany taste after a few months of shelf life, but considerable progress has been made in overcoming this tendency.

Some public interest has been directed towards development of garden varieties of soybeans which may be used as fresh vegetables or canned for commercial distribution. Several seed companies now have appreciable quantities of these garden varieties for distribution and it will be interesting to observe the acceptance of home grown soybeans as a common household vegetable.

The greatest attention to the use of soybeans seems to have been directed towards their use for animal and poultry feed in the form of soybean oil meal. This meal is the residue which remains after removal of the soybean oil. The principal value in soybean oil meal

Mystery of Generous Red Cross Contributor Is Explained by Letter

For several years, the Belmond Red Cross Chapter has been receiving a $25.00 contribution from Perry E. Canfield, wholesale lumber dealer of Seattle, Washington, but no one in the local community could find out his connection or the source of his interest in the Belmond Red Cross Chapter.

This year a letter accompanied Mr. Canfield's contribution which explains his interest and reads as follows:

"Dear Friend:

"Because self - supporting, self-employing, loyal Americans live in smaller communities and on farms, the enclosed check is sent. Larger centers of population profit and grow with the help of surrounding people. I believe more churches and schools should be built in the free air outside of the larger cities. I believe gifts and contributions should be returned to their source.

"Furthermore, I know this check falls into loyal hands.

"Yours truly,
"Perry E. Canfield."

Anthrax Outbreak On Farm In Wright County

An outbreak of Anthrax, dreaded livestock disease, occurred on the farm of Don Evans, a farmer in Vernon township in southeast Wright County.

State veterinarians are in charge of the case and have quarantined the farm. They will also trace the source of the infection.

Anthrax is not only infectious to livestock, but can also be contracted by man. Anthrax can be largely controlled by preventive vaccination.

Farmers in the vicinity of the outbreak should see that their dogs are tied and not allowed to run around the country since they might spread the infection.

State and local veterinarians have already started a thorough cleanup of the infected farm so as to wipe out the danger of the disease spreading.

Since prompt measures have already been taken to stamp out the disease there is little likelyhood that it will spread to other farms. However, farmers with livestock dying suddenly from an unknown cause should immediately call veterinarian.

Skarr Gives Impressions Of Army Life

Compares Life At Home With Camp Routine

Pvt. Joseph O. Skaar, of Fort Jackson, South Carolina, who recently started his training with the army writes to the Independent some of his impressions of army life as follows: "I have just received my first two copies of the Independent and sure did enjoy them... it brings a fellow back home for a short while when he is reading....If you think home life is sometimes tough, just get in the army or any branch of the service and you will think home life is a good life. Not that I am kicking, but its 5:00 in the morning and drill and march and lectures and pictures. Study this, learn that, and most of the evenings don't even belong to us. It is quite cool here, you're sore and stiff and ache all over, but you hear that whistle and on the double out you go for another full day of marching and drilling.

At inspection if everything isn't just so you get a gig (a punishment to you) and then you get some special detail work. I got a gig last Saturday at inspection because I hadn't shaved that morning.

Of all the states I've seen, I'll take Iowa, and I don't mean maybe. Tennessee was the worst state I saw. It looked as if it were all water. Everything down this way was green when we got here. We saw part of Arkansas and the Missouri mule plowing and a huge factory in Georgia, with hundreds of new automobiles sitting outside, on stilts Going through St. Louis, we sang the Iowa Song, and St Louis gave us a rousing good cheer—we sang "the best state in the land." and they said "hooey". but that didnt stop us.

Here is a Hello to everyone. God bless you all and BUY BONDS.

A Mighty Mite Was He!

The following stary was related to the Independent by George C. Hansen, Prtr 2-c, now editor of the Fleet City News at Camp Shoemaker, Calif.:

"The other day two athletic specialists organized a softball game in Battalion IV. Two captains were selected, these two in turn chose sides from the available players. They were two men short for two complete teams, so the specialists agreed to play.

'One specialist, a tall fellow, was chosen first by the captain of team (A). The other specialist was a small mite of a man and was chosen last by the captain of team (B) with the words. 'Okay Shorty, you can go out and play right field.'

"During the course of the game 'Shorty' collected two doubles and a triple and practically won the game for team (B).

'Imagine the look of surprise expressed on the countenance of team (B's) captain when later he was told that 'Shorty' was none other than Phil 'Scooter' Rizzuto star of the World's Champion New York Yankees."

SCHOOL HEALTH PROGRAM—

Last week's Independent carried a story which briefly reviewed the six-weeks' school nursing program just finished which was sponsored again this year by the City Council, the Belmond Red Cross and the Board of Education.

It is difficult to estimate the value of such a school health program, but it seems to us that no other means could be found which would constitute such a general safeguard to the health of the community as this yearly check-up on the physical fitness of the students in the school.

UNHAPPY SIGN OF SPRING

One sign of spring and not a very happy one, was the report of violent winds, rains and floods in some of our more southern states that took a large toll of human life and caused inestimable property damage.

Every so often we are reminded, and never more forcefully than by Mother Nature herself, of the uncertainty of human life.

—V—

LETS GROW ENOUGH FOR ALL OF THEM

The eyes and hopes of the world turn expectantly to America and her fertile soil from which she coaxes such vast quantities of food . . . they look back despairingly to their own war-torn sod and offer a prayer that we shall remember them and their sufferings. This we will do! However, we know that even the richness of our land cannot yield enough for such an enormous task unless every inch is utilized by each of us. This is not a job for only the farmers-World peace will be shared by all Americans. Show your American spiritedness by starting a garden spot in your own back yard and help produce enough food for us and our fighting allies . . . Help squelch the Axis strategy of starving the subjected people and countries into unwilling submission.

NO REST FOR TAX PAYER

Just as the worried taxpayer completed the perplexing job of making out his 1943 income tax, and leaned back with a sigh of relief, he was jarred by receipt of notice to make a preliminary estimate of 1944 income. There are probablv some who are wondering just when the federal government will leave them alone long enough so they can make some income on which, and with which, to pay a tax.

—V—

NOT ADMIRABLE—

We have no reason to disagree with the verdict of the jury that acquitted Charles Chaplin of the Mann Act charges that had been brought against him, but we certainly have reason to criticize the actions of the women present in the court room who were described as rushing at Chaplin, congratulating him, begging for his autograph, etc.

Though freed of the charges made against him, Chaplin had admitted during the trial some incidents in his personal life that would hardly make him a praiseworthy character. Yet the actions of the women present implied this, and in showering him with such lavish attentions, are they not approving of his type which, if not dangerous, is certainly not admirable.

WITH OTHER EDITORS—

There is much speculation concerning what the Russians will do to Germany. Will they dismember that nation and destroy or attempt to distroy the German nation, or will they destroy the Prussianism of that country while encouraging the German people toward a better life? If we can believe some of the hints of the Russian Red Star, nothing in Germany except the war element will be destroyed.—Humboldt Independent.

—V—

WHY GERMANY HASN'T BEEN BOMBED OUT YET

The impatient layman who, reading day after day about the battering and burning of Berlin, can't understand why the Germans don't crack up and quit can find some explanation—but not good news—in the figures released in a "Memorandum of Information" prepared by the imperial policy group of Great Britain.

The destruction of every one of Germany's 105 cities of more than 50,000 population would require a 1,000-raid 6 year program of bombing – and still would affect little more than a third of the German population, the group estimates.

Berlin is the capital and symbol of Germany, but its 4,243,000 inhabitants represent only 5.8 per cent of Germany's total population. Even the destruction of the 55 largest cities of more than 100,000 population would directly touch only a quarter of the population, and would require three years of 1,000-bomber raids.

"The air war may bring about sweeping changes in Germany, including political ones," the report points out. "Defeatism may grow more widespread, but the nazi leaders are effectively bolstering up morale by painting a dreadful picture of peace. Their technic is to make peace seem a great deal less attractive than war, despite the latter's horrors."

Which explains the battered but still standing Germans . . . and the job that yet remains before us, as well.—Mason City Globe-Gazette.

—V—

Franklin D. Roosevelt has asked congress for $64,390,000 for the Office of War Information activities, for the fiscal year beginning July 1 next. Do you know the duties of the Office of War Information? It is the head of the news and propoganda being given out to the American people. It creates and pays for the propoganda movies, the speeches, the newspaper stuff and all the rest of the program that is built up to influence the minds of the pepple. I insist that this work is necessary—some of it. But instead of having as its object the influencing of the people's thought and reaction, it would be better in my mind, if the people were told the truth and be permitted to follow their own reactions.—Humboldt Independent.

—V—

Now that most every community has erected war service honor rolls as a tribute to the young men and women who are serving their country in the armed forces, we are in favor of erecting some dishonor rolls bearing the names of strikers who are engaged in essential war industries Let those who put a price on their patriotism receive suitable recognition.—Traer Star-Clipper.

—V—

Henry Ford's prediction that the war will be over in two months will immediately carry the mind back over the years to the same Mr. Ford's ill starred peace ship that was going to "get the boys out of the trenches by Christmas"—and didn't. It is still a source of amazement that a man who knows so much about building automobiles assumes to know about so many things about which he knows so little.—Milwaukee Journal.

—V—

The trouble with Washington trying to run farm economy is that it takes a farmer to understand farming. The bright boys just can't figure out why a farmer doesn't want to feed his grain on a low livestock market instead of selling it for a good cash price or why a floor price that seems high in Washington just doesn't represent narity on the farm.—Estherville News.

Prittle... Prattle....

For the second time in five years this column was missing from it's usual place. The first time two readers said they missed it and they were relatives. The second time the score was increased to eight, and they weren't relatives, which, in proportion to the number of subscribers, isn't many yet the increase is encouraging.

P—P

The truth of the matter is that this column can only be as interesting as our readers make it. It is your contributions and help that make it interesting and readable to you. For the past year the writer's nose, eyes and ears have been confined pretty much to the 'back shop' of the Independent's plant which has impaired his ability to see and hear things to write about, little events, etc. that wouldn't ordinarily get into print. So he does need your help.

P—P

It was most embarrassing he said, but a brother of Mrs. Jim Trees laughed with the rest of us when he drove W. R.'s car up to the office the other day after discovering he had the wrong automobile.

Visiting here before he leaves for the Navy, the young man volunteered to get a cake of ice and was sent down to get the Trees Ford which was parked along side the Ramsay vehicle. Keys were in both cars and the lad took the wrong one.

About to investigate the mysterious disappearance just before the car turned up the rightful owner learned that the young man had driven it to the Trees home where the error was discovered. Without stopping to take out the cake of ice he returned at once and made the change and that closed an incident that probably has happened to several of us.

P—P

Note in last week's 40 Years Ago items that an effort was being made at that time to organize a stock company to buy land in the woods southeast of Belmond for a park and lake. The idea is an old one and like whiskey in an oak cask it gets better with age. A park and lake in that area is part of this column's 6-point Post-War Planning Project.

When you thing of cashing in your war bonds think of this story that has been going the rounds in army newspapers and is pretty popular with the soldiers:

A GI had been planning to cash in his war bonds and make a trip back to this country. He changed his mind, however, because of a dream he had one night.

It seems that he was in a [illegible] hole picking off Japs in [illegible] satisfactory numbers. Suddenly a sergeant tapped him on the shoulder [illegible] him.

"What's the idea, Sarge?"

"The guy who lent [illegible] the [illegible] for this rifle wants it back" the sergeant said.

P—P

The first of the year the government asked for a 20% increase in poultry and egg production. A news release in a daily the other day stated that cooks for the 7 million in the army will increase the egg rations to help eat up the surplus. Of the two choices we'll still take the surplus although you can't beat the happy medium.

NEW STYLE IN MANAGERS

The old-time, tight, grouchy, story-book mill owner who used to manage his own factory and bark at his help has gone out of style.

Industries are bigger now and are usually owned by thousands of scattered folks who have chipped in some of their savings to form a company.

These people usually hire an expert manager to run their business, and it often takes a big salary to attract him (most of which salary he now pays out in income taxes.)

A good manager now knows enough to play fair with his help, his customers and the owners of the company. He's enough of an "outsider" to do this.

He usually stands up for the jobholders, because he knows it's the best way to get good work out of good people.

Folks are behind the times who don't know that most new-style managers think fully of the human phases of efficient large-scale production.

The Minuteman is Still the Man of the Hour

The Minuteman was a most resourceful civilian who worked hard for his family and home and was quick to fight when their security was threatened.

He did the very things we are asked to do today. He made things last. He wore things out and did without. He was one of the first to stretch food and fuel.

Farmers, fishermen, sailmakers, smiths or cobblers—all were Minutemen—all were dreamers who loved their America—all were doers who fought and saved and sacrificed. They showed us the way to win.

Americans, since the days of the Minuteman, have welcomed their opportunity to earn security for themselves and their families in a better world.

Today, when wartime trials provoke us, America is recapturing the spirit of '76—America's fighting spirit, so perfectly symbolized by the Minuteman—the spirit that will hasten Victory by hours, by days, perhaps even months.

Americans have always been neighborly. It is quite natural then for Budweiser to be America's favorite beer—for, when good friends get together, Budweiser is a friend that needs no introduction.

In addition to supplying the armed forces with glider and bomber fuselage frames, wing parts, gun turret parts and foodstuffs, Anheuser-Busch produces materials which go into the manufacture of: Rubber Aluminum • Munitions • Medicines • B Complex Vitamins • Hospital Diets • Baby Foods • Bread and other Bakery products • Vitamin-fortified cattle feeds • Batteries • Paper • Soap and textiles —to name a few.

OBITUARY

JOHN SCHULTZ

John Schultz was born April 24, 1877 at Ackley, Iowa, the son of John F. and Carolin Schultz. He spent his early boyhood at Ackley, later moving to Belmond where the family resided on a farm east of town. While a young man he learned the trades of butcher and painter and has served many of the older people of this community in these capacities.

In 1899 he was united in marriage to Mary Parker and to this union three children were born. On Good Friday, 1933, he was baptized in St. Francis Catholic Church and was a devout and sincere member of the Church until his death.

The family lived in Belmond until 1936, at which time they moved to Oxnard, California. Since that time his health failed him gradually and although everything was done for him that medical skill has to offer, hope for recovery was despaired of by the family early in 1944.

During his last illness he suffered long and patiently and death came to him at 3:00 A. M., March 23, 1944 at his home at 261 D St. Oxnard, Calif. Requiem Mass was said at 8:00 A. M., March 25th, and burial followed when his body was laid to rest on the beautiful green slopes of El Rio Catholic Cemetery.

Left to mourn a loving and faithful husband and father are his widow, Mary; two daughters, Mrs Berneice Enge, Mrs. Mildred Nunn both of Oxnard, California; one son, C. F. Schultz of Lodi, California. Also surviving are four grandchildren, a brother, Henry Schultz of Belmond, and a sister, Mrs. Mary Bohning of Santa Monica, California.

Another leaf has fallen,
  Another soul has gone
But still we have God's promises
  In every robin's song;
For He is in His Heaven
  And though He takes away
He always leaves to mortals
  The bright sun's kindly ray.
He leaves the fragrant blossoms
  And lovely forests, green,
And gives us new found comfort
  When we on Him will lean.

Soybeans—

lies in its high protein content which ranges from 41% to 48% depending on the process by which it has been made. Since protein is the nucleus of every living cell, and is, therefore, the basis for all growth ,and since cereal grains are largely carbohydrates, which are conerted into fat and energy, it is obvious that a balanced livestock feeding ration should contain the proper amount of protein to insure vigorous growth. To the Midwestern farmer, whose profits have been largely dependent on raising corn, wheat and oats and feeding hogs, cattle, dairy cows and poultry, the use of soybean oil meal as the protein supplement for the cereal grains has become indispensable. It is common knowledge that twenty-five bushels of corn alone will fatten a hog for market but about sixteen bushels of corn and seventy-five pounds of high quality soybean oil meal will do the same job, probably better, and in a shorter time. Thus, the livestock feeders' insurance against shortage of cereal grains is to properly supplement the feeding of corn, oats and wheat with proper protein concentrates In other words, it appears that the best insurance policy the corn belt farmer and livestock feeder can provide for himself is to grow an ample supply of soybeans as the basis for balanced animal rations.

Since every bushel of soybeans contains more than one gallon of soybean oil, it has been found a gross waste in most cases to feed the whole unprocessed soybeans Not only is the crude raw soybean oil not readily assimilated by the animal, but if it is absorbed into the animal's system it becomes soft, flabby, flat. The solution to the problem is the removal of the soybean oil from the soybean and the production of soybean oil meal by suitable grinding of the cake residue. Also, the excess oil is a detrimental laxative. From the protein standpoint, the feeding of raw soybeans is very wasteful, as has been conclusively proven and described through publications by agricultural authorities. The raw soybean protein, when fed to rats, showed digestibility of only 30 per cent. However, properly cooked soybean oil meal will contain proteins which are 95 per cent digestible and assimilable. It is, therefore, evident that a soybean processing plant serves its community well when it receives the soybeans from the grower, removes the surplus oil and returns the soybean oil meal for use in properly balanced livestock and poultry rations.

Great interest has been displayed over the last fifteen years with respect to the utilization of soybeans as a raw material in industry. The long list of soybean uses embraces products numbering into the hundreds and includes refined oils for both edible and technical uses as well as for special soybean protein derivatives. Edible margarine, mayonaise, pharmaceutical products and the like. Technical soybean oils are used in paints, varnishes, oil cloth, linoleum, leather, core oils, printers' ink, insecticides, soap and many other applications. Study of phosphatides is very interesting and the development of lecithin possibilities has special interest. For instance, lecithin contains phosphorus, which is a valuable food ingredient, feeding the brain and nerve tissues and strengthening the growth of bones and teeth. Protein for human consumption is finding its place in soy flour, grits and flakes for use in bakery products, macaroni, diabetic foods, soups and the like. Specially extracted protein for industrial uses is finding extensive application for paper coatings and sizings, cold water paints, adhesives, textile fibers, molded plastics and other things. In fact, little more than a good start has been made in exploring and using the many wonderful qualities inherent in the soybean.

While the actual cash return from raising a crop of corn is normally greater than the return from a crop of soybeans from the same land, we must bear in mind that soybeans were never intended to replace corn as a cash crop, but rather to supplement corn as a legume crop, thus replacing oats in the crop rotation. Soybeans, as the nitrogen-restoring legume crop, thus replaces the nitrogen-robbing oats crop and help to restore soil nitrogen. We are told that Wright County has very high native fertility with respect to phosphorus content and this factor is very important. Many farmers east of the Mississippi have mined their soils for generations and are now becoming aroused because years of planting corn, oats and wheat have depleted the chemical nutrients in not only the top soil but even from the subsoil. Without refertilization, all soils will deteriorate and it is inconceivable that farmers can continue to grow corn, soybeans, oats, or, in fact, any crop, without replacing soil nutrients. Thus it is that a crop of soybeans is no panacea for restoration of soil fertilization, but it does serve the very useful and valuable purpose of fixing available plant food- nitrogen into the soil.

The value of the soybean processing plant at Belmond to the north central Iowa cash gran farmers is evident. This plant will process about three million bushels of soybeans annually and intentions are to employ about seventy-five men on a year round basis. As an asset to the community, this new plant of General Mills, operating in the area of production, returns to the community every possible benefit which derives from a close linkage between agriculture and industry. Soybeans are a substantial cash crop based on fundamentally sound, inherent properties. The Belmond project will also provide large storage facilities for soybeans grown within a logical trading area around Belmond, and, by continually finding uses and outlets for soybean products, the value of soybeans as a cash crop in an already prosperous community should increase proportionately.

HELPING WIN A WAR

Food is going to help win this war—that's why we're producing more pigs this spring than we ever have and are going to get a decent price for them this fall!

Here's something to keep in mind—a sow needs a lot of minerals to suckle a litter, and pigs need a lot of minerals to build big frames. Dr. Hess Hog Special contains essential minerals — minerals that are often deficient in grain — add Hog Special to your ration.

Give Hog Special to the sows — give it to the pigs just as soon as they start nibbling grain. We believe you'll find Hog Special will help you make still more out of those hogs.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"The war stories I like best, Judge, are the ones by the special writers overseas who live right with our troops. They give us a better idea of how our men react to things going on over there and back here at home."

"I agree with you, Sam. I never miss one of those stories in the papers or magazines. And there's one thing those writers seem to agree on no matter where they are stationed with our men...and that is that the men who have left their homes and families to go away and fight this war don't want to come back and find that prohibition has been put over on them while they were away... either nationally or locally. They have heard about the attempts being made and they resent it bitterly."

"I agree with them, Judge, even though I don't happen to drink myself. Furthermore, I don't think it's fair for us at home to be making any major changes while 10,000,000 of our fighting men are away and have no chance to express their opinions."

★ ★ GARDENS for Victory ★ ★
A Wartime Necessity

How This Community Can Help
WIN THE WAR
Grow A Victory Garden
Buy War Bonds and Stamps
Save Fats - Turn In Tin Cans & Scrap

Today's struggle is being won not only on the field of battle, but on the home front. Everywhere there is the cry for more food to feed our fighting men, our allies and ourselves and that's a job for the Home Rront.

Victory gardens play a large part in winning the battle for food. In planning for a Victory Garden, here are some simple rules of good planting that will help assure success.

1. Select a sunny, level area, with good soil. If trees are near, plant only beyond the ends of the limbs because these measure the extent of the underground roots which suck fertility out of the soil.
2. Space plantings so as to have crops ripening all through the summer. This can be done by timing plantings of the same vegetables several weeks apart.
3. Prepare ground thoroughly, breaking up clods, working sod finely with a rake, removing stones and trash. Knock dirt off clumps of grass and throw them on compost pile to rot for fertilizer.
4. Fertilize well. Use ground that has come from rotted leaves, or from the compost pile if you have one. Apply commercial fertilizer if the ground is not already rich. Fertilizer speeds up growth, and if vegetables don't grow fast they become tough and tasteless.

lies in its high protein content which ranges from 41% to 48% depending on the process by which it has been made. Since protein is the nucleus of every living cell, and is, therefore, the basis for all growth ,and since cereal grains are largely carbohydrates, which are conerted into fat and energy, it is obvious that a balanced livestock feeding ration should contain the proper amount of protein to insure vigorous growth. To the Midwestern farmer, whose profits have been largely dependent on raising corn, wheat and oats and feeding hogs, cattle, dairy cows and poultry, the use of soybean oil meal as the protein supplement for the cereal grains has become indispensable. It is common knowledge that twenty-five bushels of corn alone will fatten a hog for market, but about sixteen bushels of corn and seventy-five pounds of high quality soybean oil meal will do the same job, probably better, and in a shorter time. Thus, the livestock feeders' insurance against shortage of cereal grains is to properly supplement the feeding of corn, oats and wheat with proper protein concentrates. In other words, it appears that the best insurance policy the corn belt farmer and livestock feeder can provide for himself is to grow an ample supply of soybeans as the basis for balanced animal rations.

Since every bushel of soybeans contains more than one gallon of soybean oil, it has been found a gross waste in most cases to feed the whole unprocessed soybeans. Not only is the crude raw soybean oil not readily assimilated by the animal, but if it is absorbed into the animal's system it becomes soft, flabby, flat. The solution to the problem is the removal of the soybean oil from the soybean and the production of soybean oil meal by suitable grinding of the cake residue. Also, the excess oil is a detrimental laxative. From the protein standpoint, the feeding of raw soybeans is very wasteful, as has been conclusively proven and described through publications by agricultural authorities. The raw soybean protein, when fed to rats, showed digestibility of only 30 per cent. However, properly cooked soybean oil meal will contain proteins which are 95 per cent digestible and assimilable. It is, therefore, evident that a soybean processing plant serves its community well when it receives the soybeans from the grower, removes the surplus oil and returns the soybean oil meal for use in properly balanced livestock and poultry rations.

Great interest has been displayed over the last fifteen years with respect to the utilization of soybeans as a raw material in industry. The long list of soybean uses embraces products numbering into the hundreds and includes refined oils for both edible and technical uses as well as for special soybean protein derivatives. Edible margarine, mayonaise, pharmaceutical products and the like. Technical soybean oils are used in paints, varnishes, oil cloth, linoleum, leather, core oils, printers' ink, insecticides, soap and many other applications. Study of phosphatides is very interesting and the development of lecithin possibilities has special interest. For instance, lecithin contains phosphorus, which is a valuable food ingredient, feeding the brain and nerve tissues and strengthening the growth of bones and teeth. Protein for human consumption is finding its place in soy flour, grits and flakes for use in bakery products, macaroni, diabetic foods, soups and the like. Specially extracted protein for industrial uses is finding extensive application for paper-coatings and sizings, cold water paints, adhesives, textile fibers, molded plastics and other things. In fact, little more than a good start has been made in exploring and using the many wonderful qualities inherent in the soybean.

While the actual cash return from raising a crop of corn is normally greater than the return from a crop of soybeans from the same land, we must bear in mind that soybeans were never intended to replace corn as a cash crop, but rather to supplement corn as a legume crop, thus replacing oats in the crop rotation. Soybeans, as the nitrogen-restoring legume crop, thus replaces the nitrogen-robbing oats crop and help to restore soil nitrogen. We are told that Wright County has very high native fertility with respect to phosphorus content and this factor is very important. Many farmers east of the Mississippi have mined their soils for generations and are now becoming aroused because years of planting corn, oats and wheat have depleted the chemical nutrients in not only the top soil but even from the subsoil. Without refertilization, all soils will deteriorate and it is inconceivable that farmers can continue to grow corn, soybeans, oats, or, in fact, any crop, without replacing soil nutrients. Thus it is that a crop of soybeans is no panacea for restoration of soil fertilization, but it does serve the very useful and valuable purpose of fixing available plant food- nitrogen into the soil.

The value of the soybean processing plant at Belmond to the north central Iowa cash grain farmers is evident. This plant will process about three million bushels of soybeans annually and intentions are to employ about seventy-five men on a year round basis. As an asset to the community, this new plant of General Mills, operating in the area of production, returns to the community every possible benefit which derives from a close linkage between agriculture and industry. Soybeans are a substantial cash crop based on fundamentally sound, inherent properties. The Belmond project will also provide large storage facilities for soybeans grown within a logical trading area around Belmond, and, by continually finding uses and outlets for soybean products, the value of soybeans as a cash crop in an already prosperous community should increase proportionately.

HELPING WIN A WAR

Food is going to help win this war—that's why we're producing more pigs this spring than we ever have and are going to get a decent price for them this fall!

Here's something to keep in mind—a sow needs a lot of minerals to suckle a litter, and pigs need a lot of minerals to build big frames. Dr. Hess Hog Special contains essential minerals - minerals that are often deficient in grain—add Hog Special to your ration.

Give Hog Special to the sows—give it to the pigs just as soon as they start nibbling grain. We believe you'll find Hog Special will help you make still more out of those hogs.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"The war stories I like best, Judge, are the ones by the special writers overseas who live right with our troops. They give us a better idea of how our men react to things going on over there and back here at home."

"I agree with you, Sam. I never miss one of those stories in the papers or magazines. And there's one thing those writers seem to agree on no matter where they are stationed with our men...and that is that the men who have left their homes and families to go away and fight this war don't want to come back and find that prohibition has been put over on them while they were away...either nationally or locally. They have heard about the attempts being made and they resent it bitterly."

"I agree with them, Judge, even though I don't happen to drink myself. Furthermore, I don't think it's fair for us at home to be making any major changes while 10,000,000 of our fighting men are away and have no chance to express their opinions."

★ ★ GARDENS for Victory ★ ★
A Wartime Necessity

How This Community Can Help
WIN THE WAR
Grow A Victory Garden
Buy War Bonds and Stamps
Save Fats - Turn In Tin Cans & Scrap

Today's struggle is being won not only on the field of battle, but on the home front. Everywhere there is the cry for more food to feed our fighting men, our allies and ourselves and that's a job for the Home Rront.

Victory gardens play a large part in winning the battle for food. In planning for a Victory Garden, here are some simple rules of good planting that will help assure success.

1. Select a sunny, level area, with good soil. If trees are near, plant only beyond the ends of the limbs because these measure the extent of the underground roots which suck fertility out of the soil.
2. Space plantings so as to have crops ripening all through the summer. This can be done by timing plantings of the same vegetables several weeks apart.
3. Prepare ground thoroughly, breaking up clods, working sod finely with a rake, removing stones and trash. Knock dirt off clumps of grass and throw them on compost pile to rot for fertilizer.
4. Fertilize well. Use ground that has come from rotted leaves, or from the compost pile if you have one. Apply commercial fertilizer if the ground is not already rich. Fertilizer speeds up growth, and if vegetables don't grow fast they become tough and tasteless.
5. Keep weeds down.
6. Be ready to fight insects with insecticides. Experienced neighbors can tell you when insects are most likely to arrive.
7. Utilize everything you grow. Don't let anything go to waste, even if you have to give it away. Tomatoes should be canned at home in as great quantities as possible for they are rich in vitamins.
8. Always get the best advice you can. The Department of Agriculture has helpful bulletins. Neighbors who have gardened before can give valuable help with time tables and knowledge of the soil of our community.

Baseball 9 Defeated By Kanawha 3-1

Team Plays Thornton Here Friday

Last Friday the local baseball nine travelled to Kanawha and were defeated for the second straight engagement in a close game, with the score ending three to one. The game was a nip and tuck battle, and the contest was not decided until the last inning.

The Kanawha team started the scoring in the second inning when Johnson, the center fielder, struck a terrific three-base hit with a man on base. Belmond's only run came in the fourth inning when Jack Campbell singled went to second on a sacrifice and scored on Bob Nelson's drive to left field. The last inning, however, brought defeat to the home team after two men were out and the third struck out but reached first on a break on the third strike. The next man to bat, Kervin, hit a two-base blow to right to drive in the winning runs for Kanawha.

Last Tuesday's inclement weather made it impossible for the local team to play Eagle Grove. However, this coming Friday, April 28, the Belmond team will oppose Thornton on the home field at 3:15 p. m. Batteries for the local club will be Quigley on the mount with Leslie Classick behind the plate.

Time To Get Hunting And Fishing Licenses

All 1943 licenses issued by the State Conservation Commission expired March 31, and new 1944 licenses are now on sale at the county recorder's office and at various other places in the county.

All persons must have a license to hunt, regardless of sex or age, with the exception of owners or tenants of the land and their children who may hunt, fish and trap on their own land without a license. Resident children under 16 years of age may fish without a fishing license. Women must have a fishing license to fish in all state owned lakes, but they may fish in the rivers without a license.

Resident fishing or hunting licenses are $1.00 each, but the combination resident fishing-hunting license is $1.50.

Proper Planting Rate Increases Corn Yield

Proper rate of planting and spacing of rows, together with uses of a high-yielding hybrid seed, can help increase Iowa corn yields this year.

Planting rates now in general use are somewhat low for maximum production, according to Iowa State College agronomists. Available data indicate that over most of Iowa larger yields would be obtained by increasing the planting rate from two and three to four kernels per hill. At the customary planting rate of three kernels per

It is An Important Job

Wanted: A Housekeeper

5 Little Children Need Care

For the past four months Joe Stocker has been advertising in the want ad column. Behind this ad is the story of Mr. Stocker and his five little children, Dale, age one year, Sally Jane, two and one-half years, Sydney, three and one-half, Virginia, five years, and Marilyn almost seven. They live on a farm one mile north of Clarion, and Mr. Stocker is operating the farm. Known as a hard-working man, and reliable in his dealings, neighbors have shown their respect and sympathy for Mr. Stocker by coming in to help with the care of the children, until the first housekeeper could be found. Asthma made it impossible for the first one to stay long, and again the ad appeared for housekeeper wanted. Since then two have stayed temporarily until another housekeeper [illegible] be found. Taking care of [illegible] children who call each [illegible] "mamma" and want [illegible] attention of a mother [illegible] important job.

It means home and their father to the five young Stockers, and it means keeping his children together to Mr Stocker. Because it means so much to all of them Mr. Stocker is willing to consider a combination of arrangements—a widow, a widow with a child, or a couple. The main thing is to find someone who has a real interest in children, and understands them. The wage includes a home and cash. Earning a wage himself the Aid to Dependent Children's Program is making it possible for Mr. Stocker to care for the children in his own home.

It seems possible in a county of 20,000 people there might be someone interested in a home, and in taking on the challenge of meeting the need of five young children and making it possible for them to stay in their own home.

If there are such people, contact Joe Stocker of Clarion, telephone 767J12, or the Child Welfare Services in the court house at Clarion

Will Hold Canning Clinics In County

Mrs. Lynn Thompson, county nutrition chairman, and Miss Elizabeth Deihl, county extension home economist, announced this week that canning clinics will be held in the county to answer timely questions pertaining to methods of canning, causes of spoilage, and canning equipment. Dates have not yet been set.

1944 goals for canning and freezing have been set at 100 quarts of fruits and vegetables per person. This includes 30 quarts tomatoes, 20 quarts of green vegetables, such as peas, beans, asparagus, etc., 10 quarts of other vegetables and 40 quarts of fruit. These foods should be supplemented with dried, brined and stored food.

Homemakers are advised to get their equipment ready now for canning. Pressure cooker gauges should be tested for accuracy. This may be done locally, or the guage may be sent to the manufacturer, or the Household Equipment Laboratory at the State College. The county extension office has ordered a gauge tester that will be used at the clinics. Jars and caps should be looked over carefully.

Clinics will be held in each town. Miss Deihl will also be available for canning demonstrations or clinics at club or community meetings.

4-H Officers Met Saturday For Training

Bowman Talked To Group About Leadership

Responsibilities of officers and parliamentary procedures were the chief subjects of discussion at the county 4-H girls' club officers' training school Saturday, April 22, at the court house in Clarion. Miss Shirley Jean Hodgson, county president, presided at the meeting. The meeting was held for the purpose of comparing problems of different clubs, reviewing the responsibilities of each officer in the leadership she assumes, and becoming better acquainted with parliamentary procedures.

Aaron R. Bowman, county extension director, talked to the group on the challenge to youth in assuming leadership. Mr. Bowman pointed out that it was up to the youth to prove that they could accept this responsibility.

A model business meeting was conducted by the county officers and club presidents to point out common errors in parliamentary procedure. Some errors made were failing to accept a committee report and not voting on motion for adjournment.

The group was divided into discussion workshops for the purpose of discussing in detail the duties of each particular office. Discussion leaders were: for the presidents' groups — Shirley Jean Hodgson, county president and Mrs R. K. Uhr, county 4-H committee chairman; vice presidents—Joyce Anderson, county vice president; secretary-treasurers — Virgil Bruhl, county secretary-treasurer, Mrs. J. E. Kirstein, county committee member; historians—Mildred Wanken, county historian, Mrs. Clarence McBride, county committee member; reporters, Miss Elizabeth Deihl, county home economist. Miss Joyce Sanders of the Monitor office talked to the secretaries and reporters on points to consider in writing a newspaper story. The discussions were summarized by the county officers.

Mrs. C. W. Sankey, county chairman of women's division of bonds and stamps, talked to the group on new bond campaigns and promotion plans for selling war stamps.

Shirley Hodgson closed the meeting by leading the group in the 4-H pledge.

STOP CONFUSION—

The frequent and quick changes which are being made in draft regulations are causing considerable damage. There is confusion, uncertainty and broken morale among those subject to the draft. Draftees cannot plan, even briefly, the lives they must live in or out of the service. They are selling out their business interests, making sacrifices in changing their modes of living while anticipating immediate draft. Only to discover that often the rules have been changed suddenly and they are without a business or a job and still without a uniform.

In this connection the four-point program suggested by Senator Taft of Ohio is very timely. He suggests: (1) A long range draft plan based on manpower needs, with executive heads in agreement on clear, definite, permanent classifications; (2) make this final except in extreme emergency; (3) stick to the plan and give draftees an opportunity to make at least short-term plans for their lives; (4) stop confusing every draftee in the country between the ages of 18 and 38 so the whole population can get down to the serious business of winning the war.

BIBLE-MINDED ARMY—

A recent news item quoted a chaplain who had returned from North Africa as saying, "America has the most Bible minded army in the world today." Wonder if such a fact might not have a great deal of significance in the eventual outcome of the war.

Few of us in America have been trained to believe that war is right, and yet there are few of us who are not convinced that when war is forced upon us it is our right and duty to fight for the preservation of our freedom.

Such convictions coupled with a firm faith in God's being on the right side should provide greater stimulus to our fighting men than any amount of preaching from power-crazed dictators to their armed forces.

SABOTAGE

Happened to hear a waitress in a restaurant sputtering one morning about finding it necessary to dump the sugar from several bowls because some customer, or customers, had thought it smart to mix in some salt and pepper.

Said the waitress, "It's sabotage on the home front, that's what it is."

No doubt this incident was the prank of youngsters, but this is no time to waste precious, rationed foods. And youngsters big enough and smart enough to think about such pranks are also smart enough to know about the war going on, and the cooperation necessary from men, women and children to win the war.

WITH OTHER EDITORS

We notice various towns in Iowa are reviving the curfew law. In some places teeth in the law puts the bite on the parents if their children are caught disregarding the ordinance. In other words, the parents are reminded that they have a measure of responsibility in the proper care and supervision of their own children. Home is not a bad place for a teen age youngster around 9:30 or 10:00 o'clock in the evening, in the opinion of many Iowa city councils. But that does not relieve the towns of providing some measure of entertainment after school hours and up to and including the time when the curfew rings. Eagle Grove simply must have some kind of a recreation center before another school year starts. We can have one if we want to bad enough.—Eagle Grove Eagle.

We noticed a streamer head in last Sunday's Des Moines Register to the effect that Iowa has an acute manpower shortage. Trust the Register to keep on top of the news at all times. We could have told the Register that over a year ago and so could hundreds of other publishers of small newspapers over the state. If you interview any farmer you meet on the street he will tell you the same. So will any business man. Here in Grinnell, at least, we know all about manpower shortages. In view of the existing conditions, the Register's big head line comes in the nature of an anticlimax. However, we are glad that the Register has found it out.—Grinnell Herald Register.

Bet a lot of those strong, physically fit men doing time in prisons would make good fighters on the European front—and would welcome the chance. After all why wouldn't it be O. K. for them to serve time with the armed forces? It is said that the prison population in some states is buying more bonds than many of those who are enjoying their freedom. —Albert Lea Tribune.

The treasury department reports that government bond redemptions were greater in March this year than in any previous month. That may be explained by the fact that people had more income taxes to pay than ever before and perhaps many had to cash a part of their bonds to get the money to pay their taxes.—Webster City Freeman.

The discussion on foreign policy of these United States is very interesting in the dumbness of the way some people approach it. Prior to 1917 the Monroe Doctrine was the foreign policy of this country—live and let alone. Now the shrinking of the relationship of Time to Distance has made such a policy out-moded. Ever since 1918 this country has been in the birth pangs of a new foreign policy—but it takes time to work it out. This administration, nor the next, nor probably the next after that, will not have the answer. And the administrations themselves won't have much to say about it except from a guidance standpoint, for a foreign policy is formed in the minds of the public.—Kossuth County Advance.

What would farm women of the corn belt like to have improved around the farm? An investigation conducted in Minnesota indicates that, in prewar days, women in one farm community wanted more savings, a bathroom, vacations, and a sewage disposal system—in the order we have named.

Therefore, farm women should approve the present tendency of families in the country to put heavy reserves into war bonds. It makes the women feel more secure concerning the future.

But the bathroom, the sewgae disposal system and the vacations will have to wait until after the war. Some of the war bonds should be ear marked now for these things.—Wallace's Farmer.

Why all the fuss about the soldier ballot? The constitution clearly provides that the states shall control their elections, so why should the federal government expect arbitrarily to take over this clearly defined state right?— Coon Rapids Enterprise.

It is suggested that if we eat more stuff like soybeans we will be able to render greater aid to the unfortunate foreigners. Let's reverse the plan: If soybeans are nourishing food, as they are said to be, let's send them to the hungry people who no doubt will be thankful for them. What's the matter with that plan?—Creston News Advertiser.

A baby girl is making its home with Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Shoemaker. Mr. Shoemaker is naturally very much delighted.

—1894—

A young farmer south of Clear Lake was accidentally shot last week. He took his shot gun to the field with him to kill gophers and was found dead. It is the supposition that he carried the gun as he was cultivating in grain and that it was accidentally discharged.

Prittle... Prattle...

Worried when they discovered that their son, five year old David, had disappeared, the Clarence Petersen's were non-the-less happy to learn that he was taking an interest in school.

It all came about when Dave decided to go for a walk and accompanied a youngster to and into the school building. Undiscovered by a faculty member he made his way to the third floor and knocked on the door of Supt. Johnson's classroom. Although surprised at his appearance and amused at his ability to appear calmly before a group the class and its instructor made David welcome while has parents were notified.

It wasn't so long ago, we learned that the sight of the schoolhouse always caused David to burst into tears.

P—P

With only a few exceptions most of the boys graduating in this year's Senior class will leave, after they get their diplomas, for the Army and Navy. Most recent of the recruits is a group of seven, Ralph Turner, Marshall Hake, Robert Kalkwarf, Bill Coulson, Larry Jones, Bob McBride and Jack Baker, who passed a tough Radio Communications exam that required a lot of preparation and review. The boys all agree that much of the credit for their good record should be given Don Faris, principal of the high school, who spent many hours of his time in helping the boys review for the test.

P—P

The record of the seven boys appears even better to us when we learned that only eight of the seniors in the county who wrote the examination passed it. The seven from Belmond who passed were the only ones from this high school to take it.

P—P

My nomination for a club that probably has the most fun of any in Belmond is that group of eight who are fondly called by their sons and daughters the "Grandparents Club." They are, namely, the W. R. Ramsays, C. I. Williams, G. F. Elders, and H. L. Gowdys

They are a compatible group who have been meeting when they can for the past five years, at least, for an evening of bridge . . It used to be, since the four ladies are the city's best cooks. . . a statement that will be emphatically upheld by their husbands and children. . . that they would fill up on all kinds of delicious foods preceding the evening of cards. Now the custom is to serve each of the eight a quarter of a pie topped off with ice cream or with cheese on the side and that takes some saving of sugar in these days of rationing.

HUGE WOLF

A wolf measuring six feet from the tip of the nose to the tip of the tail was shot by Virgil Ten Hagen of Knoxville. It was the first gray or timber wolf shot in Marion county in a long time.

JUNIOR-SENIOR BANQUET TOOK PLACE APRIL 21

The most colorful event of the school year took place Friday evening, April 21, at the Coonley Hotel in Hampton when the Junior Class played host to the Seniors and faculty in the annual Junior-Senior Banquet. The room was decorated in keeping with Mexican Fiesta theme which was observed. Colorful guitar players adorned the wall and the nut cups were in the form of wide brimmed Mexican hats. The menus, printed in Spanish were shaped to represent the gay, colorful, ever present Mexican water jug.

The following program was presented with Merle Harris serving as toastmaster:

Welcome—Merle Harris
Response—Donna Benson
Duet—Lillian Bohlen and Marlc Westaby, accompanied by Miss Smith
Class History—Merlin Johnson

Adios—Mr. Hutchens

The menu consisted of:

Fruit Cocktail
Spring Salad
Tenderized Steaks
Mashed Potatoes Creamed Corn

After the banquet the juniors entertained their guests at the theatre. All the guests pronounced the affair highly successful even to the "Spook Show", at the Windsor Theatre, which was the final event of the evening.

A CHAPERONE FOR EVERY CITIZEN?

I wonder if there will ever be a country which will divide its population into two halves — one half government employees and one half "ordinary" citizens?

There might be one government person to take care of every ordinary citizen.

This government nurse could take, say, half of the ordinary person's income as it came in, regulate his working hours, regulate his production and look after his diet.

This keeper could also read all the ordinary citizen's bulletins from the government, make out income tax reports, tie the citizen's necktie, blow the citizen's nose, and tuck him into his bed at night.

This would make sure the ordinary producing citizen observed all the regulations, and it would enable him to get some work done.

I hope it won't be our country which tries this experiment, though I sometimes fear our country has made a few steps in this direction.

6 Stew-pendous Ways to Stretch Meat Rations

There's not a more versatile dish in the archives of American culinary art than the famous meat stew. Found on the tables of rich and poor alike, it is a standard item on the national bill of fare.

Even with American meat production at an all-time high, the multiple requirements of the armed forces, lend-lease, and civilians necessitate that meat be conserved and extended. The nation's cooks and homemakers, searching for ways to extend meat dishes and conserve precious ration points, have discovered that merely by adding one or two ingredients to the basic American stew they can achieve almost an endless variety of meat dishes with an international flavor.

Following are recipes for six stews which speak various languages:

Hungarian Goulash

1 pound beef (for stew)
2 medium onions, chopped
Lard or drippings for browning
1 tablespoon paprika
1 clove garlic, minced
2 cups water
4-6 potatoes, diced
1 teaspoon salt

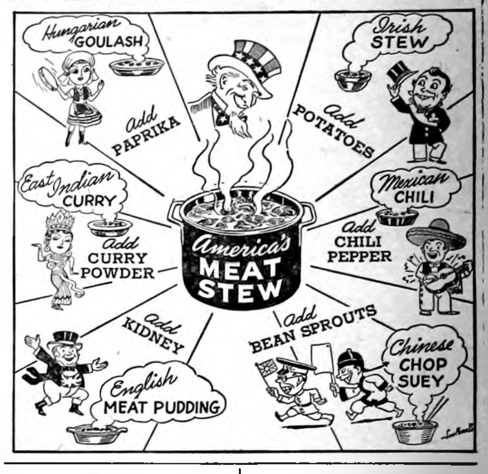
Cook onions in drippings about 5 minutes. Add the meat and seasonings and water. Simmer one hour. Add diced potatoes. Simmer until tender, about 30 minutes. Add bread dumplings if desired.

East Indian Curry

1½ cups cubed lamb
Lard or drippings for browning
¾ cup chopped onion
¼ cup chopped green pepper
½ cup chopped celery
½ clove garlic, finely chopped
1 tablespoon curry powder
1½ teaspoons salt
2 cups lamb broth (stock made from bones removed from lamb roast)
2 tablespoons flour
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce

Cover meat with water and simmer until tender. Brown vegetables in drippings, then combine them with seasonings, broth, and meat. Simmer for 30 minutes. Thicken with flour. Serve the curry with rice.

STEW TALKS MANY LANGUAGES



English Meat Pudding

1 beef kidney
1½ cups water or soup stock
1 pound chuck steak

Salt and pepper

Wash kidney, cut into pieces. Cover with water and simmer about 30 minutes. Cut steak into strips and brown. Add one-half cup water and simmer until tender. Combine steak and kidney. Season. Thicken gravy. Serve with or without a top of pastry or biscuits.

Mexican Chili

1 pound coarsely ground or chopped beef
Lard or drippings for browning
½ cup onion, chopped
1 tablespoon garlic, minced
2 tablespoons chili pepper
1 tablespoon paprika
1 cup tomatoes
3 cups cooked red beans

Brown meat and onions in lard or drippings. Add garlic, chili pepper, paprika, and tomatoes. Cover and simmer 1 hour. Add cooked beans. Heat and serve on boiled rice, if desired.

Chinese Chop Suey

1½ pounds pork shoulder, cubed
Lard or drippings for browning
1 cup celery, cut in 1-inch pieces

Free Spray Service Offered Fruit Growers Of Wright County

Every fruit grower should make plans now to do a good job of spraying this year to control pests which normally reduce the value of Wright County fruit by thousands of dollars annually, says County Extension Director Aaron R. Bowman. Spraying to control fruit tree pests is one way to help conserve food which is especially important in wartime.

A free service telling when to spray and what to use to control the insects and diseases that attack fruit trees is available. Any fruit grower desiring this information throughout the summer should contact the county extension office at Clarion.

Notice of the proper time to apply each of the necessary sprays will be sent to any Wright county fruit grower. This service is free of charge and will tell when to spray and what to use to control the insects and diseases that attack Wright County fruits.

Present indications are for a fair to good crop of fruit this year. During the war we should conserve all the food possible. Pests normally reduce the value of Wright county fruit by thousands of dollars annually. Everyone with a fruit tree should make plans now to do a good job of spraying to control these parts.

Another serious pest this year is anthracnose on black raspberries These should be sprayed when the leaves are out less than one-fourth inch, using liquid lime sulfur (1 quart in 5 gallons of water.)

Last year brown rot rotted many of the plums. The dried and rotted plums under and on the tree should be picked up and destroyed and the trees should be sprayed the first time before blossoming time.

The Entomology, Plant Pathology and Horticultural specialists of the Agricultural Extension Service of Iowa State College are cooperating with the local County Extension Director in preparing the Orchard Spray Service.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF IOWA IN AND FOR WRIGHT COUNTY

C. C. Benson and Onnalee Benson,
Plaintiffs,

vs.

The Unknown Claimants to the North Half (N½) of Lot Two (2) in Block Twelve (12), Morse Brothers Addition to the Town of Belmond, Iowa, and the East Twenty-Eight Feet (E28') of Lot Four (4) in Block Three (3), Bartholomew's Addition to the Town of Belmond, Iowa; Clarence E. Hyde, Floss M. Hyde, Rexford Hyde; and all administrators, executors, heirs, spouses, assigns, grantees, legatees, devisees, and beneficiaries of each and all of the above named defendants, Defendants.

Original Notice

To the above named defendants:

You are hereby notified that a petition of the above named plaintiffs in the above entitled action is now on file in the office of the Clerk of the above named Court, claiming that the plaintiffs are the absolute and unqualified owners in fee simple of the following described real property, to-wit:

The North Half (N½) of Lot Two (2) in Block Twelve (12), Morse Brothers Addition to the Town of Belmond, Iowa, and the East Twenty-Eight Feet (E28') of Lot Four (4) in Block Three (3), Bartholomew's Addition to the Town of Belmond, Iowa, and praying for the establishment of their estate and title against the adverse claims of the defendants and that each and all of them and all unknown claimaints and all persons unknown having or claiming any right, title, or interest in or to said premises and all persons claiming by, through, or under them be barred and forever estopped from ever having, asserting or claiming any right, title or interest in or to the said premises or any part thereof adverse to the plaintiffs or the plaintiffs' title therein and that the plaintiffs' title to the said premises be quieted, establish and confirmed.

(For further particulars see petition now filed.)

You are also notified to appear before said court at Clarion, in Wright County, Iowa, on or before the 25th day of May, A. D. 1944, and that unless you so appear, your default will be entered and judgment and decree will be rendered against you for the relief demanded in the petition.

Spring Fever

By Mildred Newgord

It's spring again—ah, wonderful thought. It seems that everyone is thankful that spring is here again, even though the sun hasn't been too generous with its rays.

With spring, a change seems to come. New hope is brought about in many things. Everyone seems to have a new way of looking at things. The winter, with all its snow, wind and blustery days, is gone. School, in our case, is practically over, and this too, seems to be a relief, judging from the talk of the students.

When you come to the end of anything, a sense of satisfaction and a sort of thrill comes. But looking ahead into the unknown future brings even more of a thrill.

Looking into the future is more important, too, than reminiscing over the past.

So with the spring, along with spring fever and vacation, comes something much more important—new hope with which to go forward into life.

Features of the Week

Hello everyone! Well, it won't be very long before our paper will be through for the year.

QUESTION BOX:

"Who is your favorite singer Why?"

Thelma Berhow: "Bing Crosby—I don't know. It couldn't be because he is so handsome. To me Frank Sinatra doesn't know how to sing. He can't even come up to Bing."

Cleola Boller: "Dennis Day. He seems to have such a nice voice, and he emphasizes the words he should. You can understand all his words.

Junior Mayhew: "Any one who can sing—but Sinatra. I don't like swooning."

Loring Fjetland: "Frank Sinatra, because he has such a lovely voice, especially when it is mixed in with the scream of those female wolves."

A CHARACTER SKETCH

A person that has lots of pep, a joke for everyone, and many friends; is a certain freshman girl. Her special sport is basketball which she handles with the best of ease. She has a special jaunty walk that is a matching trait for her hazel-colored eyes, brown hair. Yes, she has a nickname, which she has had for many years; it is "Coky." As I said before, a peppy person is—Cleola Boller.

T. A. Knight, as Executor of the estate of Thomas L. Knight deceased vs. Margaret Belle Robinson. A petition in equity Plaintiff, T. A. Knight, as executor of the estate of Thomas L. Knight, deceased, asks the court for directions as to disposition of certain real estate and that the court construe the provisions of the said will as to the power and authority of the executor to make sale of the real estate and he asks that he be authorized to make a sale in such manner as the court may direct for purposes of making final distribution of the property and funds of the estate.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"We can't argue with the Judge on that point, can we Mabel? It's not fair to penalize the many for the actions of the few."

"That, folks, is exactly what we would be doing in this country if we ever voted for prohibition again. Authorities who have made a careful study of the problem, report that only about 5% of those who drink abuse the privilege occasionally... 95% drink sensibly. Probably doesn't compare with the number of folks who overeat and do other things to excess. Prohibition certainly isn't the answer. It's not that simple. We had nearly 14 years proof of that, didn't we?

"The real answer is education and better control. In fact, the responsible members of the distilling industry are working constantly toward that end. They don't want anybody to abuse the use of their product any more than the three of us do."

"If everybody would take that sensible attitude, Judge, and cooperate as more and more are now doing, we'd be a lot better off a lot quicker."

PLANTING RATE—

hill, only 2.4 plants per hill reach maturity. If the planting rate were increased to four kernels per hill, 3.04 plants could be expected to mature resulting in an increase of 1.4 bushels an acre.

Spacing of rows and plants in the row also may influence yield. Data from experimental plots show highest yields from 21 by 21 inch spacing, but the differences in yield are not significant. Two disadvangtages for this row and hill spacing, too, are the general impossibility of adjusting farm equipment to these row widths, and the lodging which is more severe with the closer spacings.

Apparently it makes little difference in yield as to whether corn is checked or drilled, provided the weeds are killed.

POULTRY LOSS CUT

In meeting 1943 production goals, the nation's poultrymen also succeeded in reducing poultry losses for the first time in many years. A similar reduction this year, based on chickens 3 months of age or older on January 1, 1944, would mean an extra 70 million pounds of poultry meat for military and civilian needs.

Data collected in recent midwest experiments, according to a Cargill Agricultural Service Bulletin, show that when death losses stay under 5 per cent, 410 pounds of feed are required to produce 100 pounds of chicken. When death losses climb to 25 per cent or higher, 560 pounds of feed are required to produce the same amount.

These figures show how high death losses not only wipe out profits but waste feed. They emphasize the need to make feed count by redoubling sanitation and management efforts to hold mortality rates down.

Assure Chick Profits

Baby chicks are entirely dependent on good care and good feed for their chance to live and grow into healthy, productive and profitable chickens.

The care is easily controlled; but the hours spent in painstaking care as well as the money spent for the chicks can easily become a poor investment if the feed is not right.

Big Gain Chick Starter is made to rapidly transform your baby chicks into sturdy, healthy chickens. It is made of the highest quality proteins, minerals and energy feeds. Damaging fiber is removed. The chicks like it; and it is amply fortified with the natural source vitamins in yeast, fish liver and glandular meal and dried whey solubles, which contain those vital unnamed vitamins not found in synthetic vitamins. Many hatcheries and poultry raisers will use no other chick starter. For maximum returns, ask your dealer. for Big Gain Chick Starter.

$120,000 Of County Road Bonds Retired

Reduces Total Of Bonds Outstanding To $210,000

Announcement has been made that Harold Sullivan, Wright county treasurer, would retire $120,000 worth of county road bonds on May 1. This payment, to the Merchants National Bank of Cedar Rapids, holder of the bonds, will reduce the total of outstanding bonds to $210,000 which are due to be paid off during the next two years or by May 1, 1946.

Of the amount paid off on this May 1, $70,000 are 1¾ per cent bonds and $50,000 are 1¼ per cent. Of the remaining amount $110,000 are 1¾ per cent interest bearing bonds and an even $100,000 of 1¼ per cent.

Bonds Voted in 1932

The county voted to issue bonds in the total of $1,400,000 on April 30, 1932. At that time in the depths of the depression one of the hottest election contests in history of the county was waged with the people voting for good roads carrying the election by a good majority. Since then $1,190,000 worth of these bonds have been retired on time and all interest paid.

Along with the road paving, Wright county got at least three new bridges which were not paid for out of the county primary road bond fund. The cost of these bridges came out of the state's general primary road fund. This refers to the new bridge across the Boone river on Primary south of Eagle Grove, the new one across the Boone west of Goldfield and the one across the Des Moines river near Belmond. The cost of these bridges was not paid out of the $1,400,000 Wright County primary bond issue. This cost came out of the state fund. And there was not enough left in the county bond issue fund to complete the final 2½ miles of paving on Primary 10 west of Goldfield.

Whatever was lacking the state paid for out of the general primary road fund.

Since it was necessary to back the bonds with Wright county real estate many people objected strenuously fearing that it would be necessary to levy higher real estate taxes to retire them. This has not proved so as they were assured at that time. Every cent has been paid by gasoline tax and automobile license fees.

"Lady In The Dark" At Lyric May 7-8-9

Ginger Rogers, Ray Milland Warner Baxter and John Hall head the cast of "Lady in the Dark" which will be shown at the Lyric Theatre on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, May 7, 8 and 9.

"Lady in the Dark" is a study in psychiatry, the story of a successful business woman—Ginger Rogers—head of "Allure," a women's beauty and fashion magazine, who, thinking she has everything she can ask for, consults a psychiatrist in her desperate groping for relief from the nameless terror which constantly besets her. Through his accurate interpretation of her dreams, in which she is a glamorous being entirely different from her severely tailored, workaday self, and the three men in her life, Ray Milland, her advertising manager, Warner Baxter, her financial backer, and Jon Hall, a Hollywood glamor boy, she arrives at a happy solution of her problems. In fact, the solution is hilarious.

The Need Is Still Great

Save Your Waste Fats

13 Prove How Simple It Is

To prove how simple it is to save waste fat, thirteen women of Belmond township reported saving a total of 76¼ pounds of waste fat in a period of four weeks. These figures were reported by Mrs Herschel Johnson, township chairman.

Waste household fats still are needed for war purposes. Removal of restrictions on glycerine use should not be taken by Iowa homemakers as a signal to quit saving fats, points out Miss Elizabeth [illegible], county extension home economist.

The salvage is needed just as [illegible] as before, although [illegible] diverted to other uses than glycerine manufacture The glycerine shortage [illegible] eased by decreased requirements by allies of the United States, and by an increased production of fatty acids, of which glycerine is a by-product.

Despite the eased glycerine supply, there still is a shortage of 150 million pounds in fats needed for the manufacture of synthetic rubber and for treatment of military soaps and the coating of army textiles, including parachute cloth.

Under the present War Production Board salvage plan, every pound of salvage fats turned in by the homemaker to her meat dealer brings 4 cents and two meat ration points.

"The Center Of Friendly Service"

In the classified section of this newspaper, today, is a form that we would like to call to the attention of everyone in Belmond who has a room or rooms they would consider renting. Your prompt attention to this matter is respectively requested.

Within the next few days there is going to be an even greater need for rooms to house workers at the Soybean Mill in Belmond and this office has agreed to act as a clearing house on rooming information. It is our intention to render a service both to the community and to General Mills, Inc. in the hope that adequate rooming facilities may be provided in the shortest possible time.

Although we cannot assume responsibility for room applicants, every reasonable means will be taken to reccomend desirable people. It will be necessary to bring in a number of skilled construction specialists whose background is somewhat familiar to the contractors and they should be desirable roomers.

Occasionally it will be found that both man and wife will be seeking rooms and it is hoped that several places can be found for light housekeeping facilities.

Let's welcome these newcomers to Belmond with open arms and convince them that the city's slogan "Center of Friendly Service" means something!

3 PETERSON BROTHERS SERVE OVERSEAS

Following is a clipping from the Mason City Globe Gazette, about three Peterson brothers who with their parents formerly made their home in Belmond:

Tech. Sgt. James R. Peterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Peterson, 110 1st N. W. is home from more than 2 years of service in Australia and New Guinea. He will be here for about 3 weeks after which he goes to Miami Beach for a rest period of several weeks.

Tech. Sgt. Peterson recently figured in an Associated Press story telling of a close call he had in New Guinea. At that time he was one of a crew saved from possible serious injury when the flight engineer of their 4-engined liberator repaired the landing gear in the air. Previous to that, according to another AP story, he had suvived a sea crash landing during a bombing mission from New Guinea. Peterson was attending his senior year at the University of Iowa when he entered the service in February, 1942.

Still overseas are Lt. (j. g.) Dean Peterson, twin brother of James, who has been stationed with the coast guard in England the last 8 months, and in the service since June, 1942, and Cpl. Bill Peterson, who has been in Iceland with the air signal corps for about a year.

83, He Doesn't Look Older Than 65 Years

Wednesday, April 26, marked the 83rd birthday of Theodore Wright, Belmond's oldest man in active business. Judging from looks and actions—he is on the job every day representing the J. I. Chase Implement Company—he might not be more than 65.

Mr. Wright came with his parents from Niagara Falls to this community 75 years ago and and holds in his keen memory many interesting tales of those early days. As a young man he was a herder of cattle on the Iowa prairies, living close to nature. Some of his snake stories can make one's hair curl.

On his recent birthday, Mr. Wright's wife maneuvered a surprise dinner in his honor at their home.

Senior Class Presents Play Friday, May 12

Is First Major Event Of Commencement Week

"Everything Happens to Us" a comedy in three acts, will be presented Friday night, May 12, by the graduating class of Belmond high school as the first major event of Commencement week.

The story of the play deals with the members of the Ross family who are very interesting because Rhett, their oldest son, is going East to marry the daughter of a multi-millionaire who owns a string of 5 and 10 cent stores, in one of which Rhett has been working. Mrs. Ross, who always tries to "live up to the Joneses" decides that their old home isn't good enough for such a wealthy daughter-in-law, so she takes advantage of the Federal Housing Act to buy a new one, which she and her two younger sons frantically try to redecorate themselves before Rhett comes home with his bride.

Each of the characters successfully muddles things up for the harrassed family and the tragedy comes when Rhett telephones from New York to say that the millionaire has suddenly changed his mind and will not allow Rhett to marry the girl! Oh, how fast and furiously things happen from then on! The surprising manner in which everything is straightened out goes to make up the balance of the play

Seniors who make up the cast include Marshall Hake, Lorraine Quigley, Bill Coulson, Dan Veeder, Jack Baker, Marcia Pierce, Donna Waddington, Ed Banning, Cleo Trees, Bob McBride, Abbie Doris Bonte and Nelda Fulton.

No reserved seats will be sold in advance. A single admission of 40c, tax included, will be charged in the evening. A matinee for school children will be given in the afternoon.

AAA Surveys County To Ascertain Corn On Hand

About 200 farmers, truckers, corn shellers and elevator men attended a mass meeting at the court house in Clarion the evening of April 25 to discuss the procedure in Wright county relative to the governments freeze of corn. The meeting was called by H. A. Vanderlip, county chairman of the AAA. John Schipull assisted in conducting the meeting.

AAA field men will take a canvass of the county, meeting with each farmer to ascertain the amount of corn he has on hand and the probable amount he will need for feeding purposes before the new crop is in. The balance he will be urged to sell under the new sales orders which no not require the farmer to pay for his shelling or hauling. However, forced selling is not a part of the recently issued orders concerning corn freezing, but unless the government can get the required 80 million bushels forced selling would then be the next step said the officials in charge at Omaha.

Under the present marketing plan the corn sheller takes over at the crib. He receives 5 cents a bushel and out of that must shell, shovel and truck the corn to the elevator. Formerly all of these expenses were the responsibility of the farmer. However the sheller must shell out any amount of corn that each farmer may have, whether it is 100 bushels or 1,000.

Elevators now are merely the agent for the corn. They take it in and send it to only government authorized processors. However no corn can move from the farm without permission of the AAA. That also means from farm to farm. Had a farmer purchased a crib of corn from his neighbor several months ago and paid for it he still cannot move the corn without this permission. Every trucker moving corn on the highway is required to have a permit in his possession saying where the corn is going.

A feeder who can get permission to move the corn is allowed only a 30 day supply either in storage or at his feed lot. The difference in ceiling price of shelled corn and ear corn is such that should one neighbor try to sell to his neighbor in violation of the freeze order he will be liable to prosecution by the OPA for violation of ceiling prices.

Under the present market plan the farmer will gain on an average of 2½ cents per bushel and the sheller will gain about the same amount. The 5 cents per bushel paid the sheller will be paid by the Commodity Credit Corporation, when the elevator handling the sale bills them for it.

Wright county is in the middle of the surplus corn producing area and a considerable amount of corn is expected to reach the processor from this area. The conclusion of the canvass being taken by the AAA field men will determine the exact amount. A record of every corn owner and the amount he has on hand and his expected needs will then be on file in the AAA office.

Army Signal Corps Wants Girls Or Women For Confidential Work

The Army Signal Corps is looking for girls who know how to keep a secret.

Lieut. Richard Diamond will be in Fort Dodge May 10, 11 and 12 to employ girls and women for highly confidential work connected with the war program.

He will be stationed at the U. S. Employment Service office, 218 State Bank Bldg., to recruit applicants who are high school or college graduates. However, appropriate experience may be substituted for the educational requirements in many cases Lieut. Diamond said.

So closely are these jobs connected with the war program that the ancestry and background of every applicant is checked and rechecked by federal agencies.

"Full salaries, which range from $1750 to $2190 per year, will be paid while these girls and women are learning their work, with most of them assured further employment in private industry when the war is over," Lieut. Diamond said.

Hiring will be done with a minimum of red tape, Lieut. Diamond declared It is often possible for applicants to be enroute to the job within a few hours after they are interviewed, he said.

TAKE THE CHALLENGE—

Last week's Independent published a feature story entitled "Wanted: A Housekeeper" which urgently brought to the attention of the public the great need of a farmer near Clarion for a housekeeper to take care of his five little children.

In the story, the following statement was made, "It seems possible in a county of 20,000 people there might be someone interested in a home, and in taking on the challenge of meeting the need of five young children and making it possible for them to stay in their own home."

While this family's need for help may be greater than that of many others, it is a well-known fact that the need for help—in business, in the office, in industry, in the home—is universal these days. Folks can get sick, have accidents, go through disaster and misfortune and there isn't the available help to see them through emergencies. Even the drastically curtailed routine of the usual jobs in business and in the home is difficult to accomplish because there is a man-power shortage, a woman-power shortage.

Surely there never has been a time of greater challenge to every able-bodied man and woman to help get the job done. THEY are drafted for the jobs on the War Fronts., We need more willing volunteers for jobs on the Home Fronts.

CONSISTENT ADVERTISING—

Here's another plug for consistent advertising:

The president of a big eastern manufacturing concern has been quoted as saying, "I not only have always been a great believer in the power of the small town press, but I know from experience that it pays out for the advertiser. The trouble with most advertisers is that they want to use half a dozen little ads and then see an immediate flood of business. They don't realize that the small town market takes the longest to get, but once obtained it is the easiest to hold, provided the trade is given a square deal.

HOUSING PROBLEM—

People in Belmond, especially new people that have come to our city recently, are very much aware that we have a housing problem. In fact, we have learned that there are a half dozen workmen employed at the GMI Soybean Plant who have temporary residences in Clarion and drive to Belmond each morning to work.

In connection with the housing problem and what might be done about it, we have heard rumors of schemes underfoot. One interested citizen, we were told, has made a survey of the town and found that there are 47 large homes here, each of which is occupied by just one person.

If Belmond can't qualify for a housing project, isn't it quite possible that some of the more adequate living accommodations in some of our Belmond homes could be shared with those in real need of a roof over their heads?

WILL BE BACK BEFORE 1945 SEASON

One of the most encouraging statements we have heard for some time about the war comes from Bob Feller, famous baseball pitcher who has been on active sea duty with the U. S. Navy for a year and a half. According to an article in the daily sport page about baseball, Bob has written, "Will be back with you before the 1945 season gets underway."

WITH OTHER EDITORS—

Most people think of coal mining as a pick and shovel operation. As a matter of fact, modern methods and devices have revolutionized coal mining. Air conditioning, mechanical loading and hauling, and the safety of battery-stored electricity for power head a list of many beneficial changes.

In a modern bituminous coal mine, raw coal becomes a factory product, tailor made to meet today's numerous, strict customer requirements.

After the coal is blasted and loaded it goes by train up a slope to a rotary dump which automatically empties the cars. It then goes to the "tipple" or processing plant which is really a modern coal factory where coal is sorted, blended, and laundered. Impurities are disposed of and the clean, washed coal is oil treated to eliminate dust. Various sizes are blended to make possible delivery of any required mixture to home or industry.

From its fifty-million-year resting place to the railroad car, coal is hardly touched by hand in the modern bituminous mine. Machinery has done most of the work and taken the ancient, back-breaking toil out of mining. This is how American mines, with fewer men have produced record breaking quantities of coal to meet every war need.—Belle Plaine Union.

—v—

People in this period of the war should weigh their thoughts and reactions rather carefully to see if they are not the victims of war nerves. Everybody has more than the normal things of life on their mind as the invasion of Europe approaches. The "normal" things of former years are also extra complicated by war conditions.

There is a pent-up reaction against the regimentation of war time, and against the unfairness of men killing each other, that often results in a flareup in an individual who would otherwise be calm and collected.

These are unusual times—there is an unusual strain on the mental processes, and the mind is kept working double time—one part being always mindful of war—the other mindful of the ordinary things of life that must be accomplished.

A busy mind tends to unconsciously resent more burdens, and the effort to relieve tension causes the unmindful to "pop off" without a mature consideration that might be given in normal times. Little things are irritating—much more so because they are little and because they intrude on thoughts of bigger items.—Kossuth County Advance.

We can see nothing wrong in a man owning both republican and democratic newspapers. It is purely a matter of business and partisan politics has no business in business. The gentleman to whom Editor Henry refers puts the editorialship of the democratic papers in the hands of democrats and puts republicans in editorial control of republican newspapers. But he doesn't care a snap whether or not his business managers are democrats or republicans, as it is none of their affair what the political affiliations of the editors may be. They are there to make the property pay and are not interested in spreading partisan propaganda.—Webster City Freeman Press.

The latest war news from the far east indicates a Japanese victory in which 4000 Russians were lost. It is difficult to tell which side of the Yalu river the Japs are on now but we conclude that they are on the other side and are just touching the high places in their pursuit of the Russian Army.

Monday morning the business men resumed the commendable practice of cleaning the main street in front of their stores. This work was innaugurated during the term of ex-mayor Bartholomew and should be continued as it no doubt will be. It keeps our main street in which we take a pardonable pride, in excellent shape. Now for that dilatory street sprinkler for which we were continually harping last spring.

OUR SENSE OF PROPORTION AND DECENCY

The interest in current events seems out of proportion these days. The war would seem to be the leading thought and the one which concerns us most, but in looking over the columns of the dailies we discover big headlines over trivial events.

One of them which in itself is not trivial, but which would make one think that our sense of decency was imperiled, was the birth of some illegitimate quadruplets.

There is certainly something radically askew with the people of a town which 'a'dopted" Nora Carpenter because she became the "proud mother" of these quadruplets, and showered her with presents and admiration.

P—P

If everyone in the world accepts as a normal and rightful thing the making of a heroine out of any unmarried mother merely because she happens to produce three more than the usual number of illegitimate children, we are certainly losing our sense of decency. The birth of one illegitimate child might still be regarded, even in these days of war as slightly disgraceful, but four make the mother a heroine. Perhaps, the unknown father, if his whereabouts could be located, might come in for a share of the honors.

You pick up your paper on a day when perhaps 20 million human beings are actually engaged in fighting a war, and countries disappearing and re-appearing, but the biggest headline is that Lonergan Beats the Chair." Thousands of our boys are beating the Germans and Japs, but it seems more important that Lonergan beats the electric chair.

P—P

And Charlie Chaplin crowds the war right off the front page as he "wept" when the jury pronounced him not guilty in a sex violation of the Mann Act. Who is Chaplin that his doings and undoings fill the eye? A comedian grown important because he did not dissipate his earnings; a professional clown who used to wear big shoes and more recently made a political speech that was truly wonderful—for a clown.

P—P

What we are waiting and looking for headlines about is for Roosevelt and Churchill to speak about Teheran. And we would like to know how come that the Chinese attacked Russia in Sinking. So what does it matter that Charley Chaplin weeps. Whq does not weep? Let it pass.

P—P

Also we see that Lt. Rother got 25 years for killing his sweetheart; that frogs are superior to rabbits as tests for pregnancy, but they used the x-ray to discover quadruplets. Then there is that gentleman who for some reason married the mother of his mistress with the object of keeping the younger lady's affections and attentions, upon losing which he hit her with a hatchet. Can that be blamed on the war? Or is it astrology. Or perhaps numerology? Or maybe it is because America is not sufficiently conscious of her obligations to the world.

P—P

Still there is no news about why the Japanese have succeeded in the movement into India, and most of the comment on the termination of the Russia-Japananese Sakhalin treaty is slanted away from the truth, which is that the Japs need and get more fish from the Russians.

P—P

Sakhalin oil is not as important as Russian fisheries for the people who now have access to conquered oil, but must have fish because fish is what they eat. Who really cares about the moran slashing his daughter-in-law's head when we need to know why the Russ let the Japs have more fish? Well, nobody can think of everything, and the hatchet-man is more picturesque than fish. At least he appears that way when you see the half-page illustration in the dailies.

P—P

Just as Lonergan is more picturesque than V-mail. It is not a sense of proportion that matters, but a sense of disproportion.

And, as we said in the beginning, a sense—or loss of sense—of decency. What counts is what sticks out like a sore thumb,—Livermore Gazette.

Obituary—John Modderman, Sr.

John Moddenfan, Sr. was born at Laudschafts-Polder in Germany on October 9, 1861.

As a young man, 17 years old, he came to the United States and settled at Hampton, Iowa. In 1889 he was united in marriage to Anna Wibben, and for about six and one-half years they made their home at Hampton.

In 1896 they moved to a farm northwest of Alexander. Here they lived and worked together until they retired in 1913. For the past 31 years their home has been in Alexander.

In 1911 Mr. Modderman (and his wife also at the same time) became members of the Reformed Church, and remained so until death. For a number of years he served as a member on the consistory.

Last fall (in November) he submitted to a major surgical operation. He gradually improveo, so that he felt a lot better than he had for a good many years. Even two weeks ago he was as busy and active as ever. About 12 days ago he became ill, and when a stroke developed, his condition became critical. All that loving care and helping hands could do, could not halt the approach of death. He passed away Sunday morning just after midnight on April 30th, the same day on which Mrs. Modderman died 5 years ago. He reached the age of 82 years, 6 months and 21 days.

Preceding him in death were an infant son in 1906, a daughter in 1918, his wife in 1939; also three sisters: Mrs. Mary Johnson, Mrs. Trientji Schmidt and Ade Modderman and a brother, Eilert Modderman. He is survived and mourned by 9 children: Mrs. Gertie Bohman of Alexander, John Jr. of Belmond, Mrs. Alice Scott of Waterloo, Claas, Eilert, George Herman, Fred and Henry all of Alexander; also 19 grand children, 9 great grand children; one sister, Mrs. Theda Dirks of Meservey and many friends and neighbors.

The committal and burial will be made at the Alexander cemetery.

CONSERVE & PRESERVE

A late garden season makes for a late canning season. And that only makes it more important for the homemaker to get all possible details taken care of ahead of time.

To see that equipment and supplies are clean and ready for use is not enough. A thorough knowledge of tested techniques will save both time and energy when the rush is on. Using the right method and following authoritative directions for each food are important.

For processing acid foods like fruits, tomatoes and pickled vegetables, a boiling bath is necessary. A steam pressure canner is more desirable for non-acid vegetables and meats. However, under Iowa conditions, the boiling water bath may be used even for non-acid foods if satisfactory arrangements for sharing a pressure canner or using a community food preservation center cannot be made.

Oven and open kettle canning are discouraged, because of dangers and waste involved. Oven canning is dangerous, both because bacteria may not be made harmless and because serious accidents to persons and property may result. Open kettle canning is wasteful, because bacteria can get into jars and spoil the food, and vegetables may never become hot enough to destroy the bacteria.

Boiling water bath canners, ration-free, will be on the market this year. In addition, they may be constructed at home. Any big, clean vessel that is deep enough to let water boil over the tops of the jars is satisfactoory if it can be fitted with a tight lid and a rack to keep the jars from touching the bottom. If a steam pressure canner is deep enough, it can be used for a water bath. Set the lid on loosely; don't fasten it. And have the petcock wide open, so that steam escapes all the time the water boils.

Public Notice!

TO BELMOND RESIDENTS

Spring is here and with it comes the Annual Clean-Up Time. And we are asking this cooperation on the part of Belmond people. Don't delay raking the leaves on the lawn — burn them, and keep the premises neat. Don't throw trash into the alleys. Property owners are responsible for keeping alleys clear — this is not the duty of the city. Remember that in case of fire or other emergency the alleys are very necessary.

HAUL AWAY

ASHES - GARBAGE - TRASH

Get busy now — burn the leaves, clean up the ashes, trash and garbage, and have it hauled away. Trash and leaves should not be burned in the street or on pavement. A little effort spent will do wonders toward improving the appearance of the entire city.

LET'S WORK TOGETHER TO HAVE A CLEAN BELMOND

Dogs and Chickens

This year every owner of dogs and chickens must make an earnest effort to keep his dogs and chickens on his own premises. Because you have a dog license does not permit the dog to run on the property of others. Victory gardens must be protected and it will be highly unpatriotic to have your dog or chickens destroy a garden. Therefore, every dog and chicken must be kept on its own premises.

PERSONAL GLIMPSES

One afternoon Mark Twain, who lost more than one hard-earned fortune by investing it in hairbrained schemes described to him in glittering terms, observed a tall, spare man, with kindly blue eyes and eager face, coming up the path with a strange contraption under his arm. Yes, it was an invention, and the man explained it to the humorist, who listened politely but said he had been burned too often.

"But I'm not asking you to invest a fortune," exclaimed the man. "You can have as large a share as you want for $500." Mark Twain shook his head; the invention didn't make sense. The tall, stooped figure started away.

"What did you say your name was?' the author called after him.

"Bell," replied the inventor little sadly, "Alexander Graham Bell.'—Vansant Coryell in "The Christian Science Monitor.'

An Arab folk tale relates that Pestilence once met a caravan upon the desert-way to Bagdad. "Why," asked the Arab chief "must you hasten to Bagdad?"

"To take 5,000 lives," Pestilence replied. Upon the way back from the City of the Caliphs, Pestilence and the caravan met again. "You deceived me," the chief said angrily. "Instead of 5,000 lives, you took 50,000"

"Nay,' said Pestilence. "Five thousand and not one more. It was Fear who killed the rest."—Maurice Duhamel, "We Are Not Afraid."

Daniel Boone was asked if he had ever been lost in the woods.' "No, I never got lost," Boone replied reflectively. "But I was bewildered once for three days."—Constance L. Skinner, "Pioneers of the Old Southwest."

A bowl stood on a secluded hall table at the home of Sarah Bernhardt, and one day I noticed that a few of her guests, in leaving, after looking around to make sure they were unnoticed, slipped something from it into their pockets. I asked about it, and Sarah explained that, as many of her friends were in need, she kept the bowl filled with coins.

"They know it is there; and for what purpose," she said. "In this way I can help them without putting them to the necessity of asking for it.—Elsie de Wolfe in "Ladies Home Journal."

Chauncey Depew, asked, what kind of exercise he took, answered: "I get my exercise acting as pallbearer to my friends who exercise'.' Thomas Collison in Portland "Sunday Telegram."

Features of the Week

Hello, everyone! Say, this spring weather really makes a person feel swell.

THE QUESTION BOX:

"What is your favorite song? Why?"

Mrs. Emmons: "I have many many song favorites. In the world of jazz "When They Ask About You" is the first choice. I heard and saw Jimmy Dorsey's orchestra play this tune. His petite brunette vocalist sang the number which in the words of Durante was "colassial."

In the classical world opera thrills me particularly "Une Voce Poca Fa" if sung by the colortura Lily Pons."

Mrs. Lewis: "I like "Who" from "Sonny.' Its peculiar melody is my reason.'

Lee Robbins: "Pistol Packin' Mama."

Pasture Not Enough

For countless ages good pasture has provided enough nutrients to support the cow and her offspring; but common sense tells us that she cannot eat enough grass to support herself and the tremendous milk production we demand of her today. Experienced Dairymen have found it practical and profitable to feed cows the year around.

BIG GAIN SPRING PASTURE 32% DAIRY CONCENTRATE is tailored to the needs of the dairy cow. It amply provides the high quality proteins, vitamins, and minerals she needs to build strong healthy calves and keep dairy profits at the highest level at all times. It is a favorite with many prominent dairymen. Harold Schoeman, Cedar Falls, Iowa, who has the highest producing herd of Guernseys and highest producing individual cow in Iowa, has used BIG GAIN SPRING PASTURE 32% DAIRY CONCENTRATE since it was first made.

For top milk production and better calves feed BIG GAIN SPRING PASTURE 32% DAIRY CONCENTRATE the year around.

You'll Get Pre-War Quality In The TWINE
You Buy From Us This Year

Before the war binder twine was made from hard fibers such as manilla, sisal and henequen, but the Japanese conquests limited our sources of these materials. At the present time all binder twine processors are making such twine using approximately 12½% jute fiber and 87½% henequen.

However, this firm was fortunate in securing a stock of twine made from sisal before the WPB issued its general preference order prohibiting the use of sisal and manilla fibers in the manufacture of binder twine.

We will be glad to take your order for immediate delivery of binder twine as long as our stock lasts.

Conservation

Will Aid The Invasion

To Cooperate with our Government's Nation-wide Campaign to Save Man Power, Transportation, Fuel and Critical Materials . . . You Are Asked By The War Production Board To SAVE WATER! . . .

Everyone can have a part in conserving water daily. By developing the habit of turning off faucets or drinking fountains firmly, a substantial saving of water can be effected. All plumbing and faucets should be checked for leaks and worn-out gaskets replaced. One tiny drip can waste gallons of water weekly. In summer months sprinkling of lawns and gardens should be held to an absolutely necessary minimum. In cooking and bathing, using less water helps conserve both water and fuel.

SAVE TRANSPORTATION! . . .

Before making a journey the individual American is urged to ask himself: "Is this trip REALLY necessary?" Remember millions of troops are on the move. In local transportation, shoppers are urged to trade between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m. Both shippers and carriers can conserve the use of equipment and facilities, eliminate wasteful routing and obtain maximum use of cars, materials and manpower.

SAVE ELECTRICITY! . . .

Householders can save electricity in countless ways, such as: turning off all lights not needed, also fans, radios and other electrical appliances when not required. Both gas and electricity can be conserved by refrigerator care. Never leave the door open, don't keep the temperature of the refrigerator too low, defrost regularly and let cooked foods cool before placing in refrigerator. Commercial users of electricity can help conserve by a minimum use of ornamental, display lighting and signs and by burning not later than 10 p. m.

SAVE COMMUNICATIONS! . . .

With telephone and telegraph lines both employed to their maximum with vitally necessary communications pertaining to the war effort, civilians can be of tremendous help by curtailing their personal messages to a necessary minimum. Your telephone company asks your cooperation by: "Limiting conversations to 5 minutes when the operator requests it" and "avoid calling between the hours of 7 p. m. and 10 p. m. so members of the armed forces can get calls through." It also suggests "avoid calling Information" and "take proper care of telephone instruments."

June 9 Is "V Pledge Day" In Wright County

[illegible] To Sign Bond Pledges For 5th War Loan

June 9 has been designated as "V Pledge Day" in Wright county, Paul Henry, chairman of the Wright County War Finance Committee announced this week.

On Friday, June 9, which is three days before the opening of the Fifth War Loan campaign (June 12 to July 8) citizens of Wright county, both on the farms and in the town and cities, will be [illegible] to appear at the various polling places in the county between the hours of 12:00 noon and 10:00 p. m. to sign their bond pledges for the Fifth War Loan. These polling places will be manned by persons chosen by the town and township chairmen.

The pledges to be signed on "V Pledge Day" are to be fulfilled by the purchase of bonds at the bank serving the territory some time before the end of the drive on July 8.

Roy Henderson is chairman of the city of Belmond. L. B. Oberhauser is rural chairman of this vicinity which includes Pleasant, Belmond, Norway, Iowa and Grant townships. H. A. Vanderlip, John Schipull and Oscar Hanson make up the committee responsible for the organization of the rural divisions of the county.

The quotas for the Fifth War Loan have not yet been announced, but Mr. Henry says, "The Fifth War Loan quota to be assigned Wright County will be, without question, the biggest request ever placed upon Wright county citizens. Also, we will be assigned a [illegible] definite E bond quota as in the Fourth War Loan."

THREE MORE MEN ARE INDUCTED

Three more men from Wright county inducted into the Army and Navy in April, according to Selective Service reports are as follows:

NAVY—
Lowenberg, Sylvester Duane, Belmond, April 10.

Names Of Licensed Slaughterers Released

Announcement Made By U. S. D. A. War Board

In order that the people of Wright County may know whether they are obtaining meat which is slaughtered in conformity with government regulations the names of those having valid licenses to slaughter livestock have been released by H. B. Vanderlip, Chairman of the Wright County U. S. D. A. War Board.

No person in Wright County, whether a farmer, butcher or wholesale meat packer, may slaughter livestock for other than home use without a license—except that hog raisers have been granted authority to slaughter an unlimited a[illegible] of pork without a permit" said Mr. Vanderlip.

Slaughter licenses are issued by the Office of Distribution, War Food Administration, after recommendations are made by the Wright County War Food Committee, of which Mr. Vanderlip is Chairman. The committee is made up of representative citizens and is constituted as a sub-committee of the County U. S. D. A. War Board by instructions from Marvin Jones, War Food Administrator, in order to curb black market operations.

The following farmers in this vicinity has been granted farm slaughter permits by the Office of Distribution:

[illegible] W. Leonard, Ralph Wendel, Alfred H. Martin, Harold R Bay[illegible], Kermit Thompson, Clarence Whitten, Nick DeWaard, Clifford M Olson, Howard G. Box, H. C Sorenson, Joyce Boelman, Carl [illegible]arkema, Andrew Pals, Harry Sorenson, S. S. Craigmile, Orphie Anderson, Gerhard Thompson, John McAlpine, George Braun, John J. Chapman, J. D. Campbell, Bert Kalkwarf, John Leebrick, John Mennenga, Vern Treec.

Custom slaughter licenses, to slaughter only livestock owned by others but not by the licensee, have been issued to two firms in Belmond:

Tip Top Grocery & Storage
Peterson & Son Market

In order to qualify for a slaughter license, all except the custom slaughterers and small farm slaughterers were required to submit written certified records of their slaughtering operations in the year 1941, or if not in business that year, 1942. Slaughtering quotas granted were based on the volume of slaughter in these base years in order to stabilize the wartime meat slaughter pattern as of the last normal year thus enabling the government to purchase the meat needs of the armed forces.

Licenses have been issued only to those slaughterers who have sanitary slaughtering facilities which conform to local and state standards. If a slaughterer is found to be slaughtering under unsanitary conditions, his permit will be immediately revoked.

Mr. Vanderlip pointed out that anyone who is eligible may still apply for a license to slaughter but warned all farmers that they must have permits to slaughter (other than hogs) if any of the meat is to be sold or given to anyone outside the household. Such permits

More Rooms Needed-

In last week's Independent through advertising and editorial comment, your newspaper urged the people of Belmond to show their hospitality to newcomers to the city and also help solve the problem of a shortage of living facilities by listing rooms for rent at the newspaper office.

To this publicity and advertising, there were only three responses. Meanwhile, individuals and families are continuing to come to Belmond to make their homes, some temporarily and some permanently.

Persons having extra rooms which they would rent either as housekeeping rooms or sleeping rooms are urged to leave their names at the Independent office.

2. Oct. 3rd is the average date for the first killing frost in the fall.
3. Wright County has an average growing season of 148 days.
4. The average annual rainfall is 31.86 inches.
5. In 1917 we had a killing frost May 23rd.
6. It is the earliness or lateness of the corn crop and not the earliness or lateness of the frost that determines the amount of corn damage by frost. A warm June indicates that very little corn will be frosted. All the important frost damage to immature corn has followed a June temperature 2 degrees F or more below normal.

MOTHER'S DAY—MAY 14

On Mother's Day, Sunday, May 14, our prayer is that the nations of all the world have good mothers. In times of war, as in moments of great emergency, it must be Each Mother for All Children. The World needs more MOTHERS who can bring joy to the heart of a small child and still listen to the longings in his heart when he grows to manhood . . .

YOUNG MOTHERS who like laughter, music, red roses and who are pals as well as mother.

MOTHERS who are just like a mother to another mother's child.

MOTHERS who make the world forget the adage "a daughter's a daughter all her life, a son's a son until he gets a wife.

Grant us, God, MORE MOTHERS like these and we can truly say:

"A partnership with God is Motherhood;
What strength, what purity, what self-control,
What love, what wisdom should belong to her
Who helps God fashion an immortal Soul."

GOOD FORTUNE ATTEND YOU, GRADUATES.

Our good wishes alone are not enough—the future which will be yours must depend in great measure upon the effort that you will make. The future of America, too ,in some measure at least will be influenced by the kind of life that you will live. For truly it may be said that the greatness of America is the greatness of her sons.

Athough at this time, tragic as it may be, a great war is shaking the very foundations of the world's social, economic and political structure, you cannot escape the incontravertible fact that the world, good or bad, is the place in which you are compelled to live. You should want to play a part in the rehabilitation of that world, and the success—small or large —which you may carve for yourself by sheer merit and industry is important. Remember also that in the final analysis, no one other than yourself can assure you a worthwhile place in that world.

Regardless of present anxieties and uncertainties, ponder this: When the present conflict has spent its force, the desirability and the benefits of peace will again influence the thoughts and actions of mankind. Resolve right now that a helpful and useful life will be the least contribution to this new world that you can afford to make. You have passed one small milestone in your careers—now go on to bigger things, and good luck to you.

WHEN? WHERE? HOW?

The uncertainty of waiting for "D Day", the name given for the invasion of western Europe, without being able to figure out how, when, and where it is going to be accomplished is keeping all of us here in the U. S. A. in a state of terrific nerve tension.

Wonder what effect the suspense is having on the Nazi armies and the people who are waiting behind the wide-spread German fortifications? ?

WITH OTHER EDITORS—

One of our readers asked what we were going to use for news after the war, suggesting that we wouldn't have much to print if we eliminated all stories that were directly and indirectly connected with the war effort. We don't ordinarily look forward to trouble, but that's one problem we will be mighty glad to face—and the sooner the better.—Sheffield Press.

Are they going to last forever, these critical materials that we are exhausting as we keep on with the war, supplying the needs of allies, as well as ourself, with those important raw materials as oil, steel, minerals and timber? America has been named as a country having the "most." If we keep drawing so heavily on our wealth for say four or five years more of war, we will lose this rating. Bauxite, which is the chief source of aluminum, is not able to withstand more than five years of the present rate of consumption, without more discoveries. High-grade copper reserves are hoped to last up to 15 years and this is spoken of good grades of coal. There can be a bottom to even a "most" and if we dig unceasingly into our stores, we rob our future of security. Let us plan wisely, use sparingly, utilize substitutes if necessary, but let us use foresight in place of hindsight while we can.—Pocahontas Record-Democrat.

TEN POINTS

They cost so little. They are worth so much.

1. You cannot bring about prosperity by discouraging thrift.
2. You cannot strengthen the weak by weakening the strong.
3. You cannot help small men by tearing down big men.
4. You cannot help the poor by destroying the rich.
5. You cannot lift the wage-earner by pulling down the wage-payer.
6. You cannot keep out of trouble by spending more than your income.
7. You cannot further the brotherhood of man by inciting class hatred.
8. You cannot establish sound security on borrowed money.
9. You cannot build character and courage by taking away man's initiative and independence.
10. You cannot help men permanently by doing for them what they could and should do for themselves.—Land O' Lakes News.

One thing certain, when this war is over there will be new men and organizations in the saddle. The Veterans organizations and Labor will be running that part of the world known as the United States of America. How smoothly the wheels of government run will depend on how smoothly the American Legion, the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O. work together.—Britt News Tribune.

There is one good argument against the fourth term. It is Eleanor Roosevelt. If we reelect her husband, we automatically have to accept her fourth term travels, My Day, socialized ideas and impulsive schemes for regimenting American life. We also have to listen to her chit and chatter with the Hollywood stars who parade through the White House and we have to listen to her expert advice on every subject in this complex life.—Red Oak Express.

Psychologists are trying to discover why man is grouchy in the morning and talkative at night. Perhaps he remembers in the morning some of the things he shouldn't have said the night before.—Davenport Times.

One of the lesser reasons why one should like the war to end soon is to bring the catsup bottle back on the counter for burgers and hotdogs.—Osage Press.

While visiting in the office the other day, Carl Wenzel who is on a vacation from his job in an aircraft plant in California, gave us an interesting sidelight on the weather in New Guinea. His son-in-law, Reese Townsan has been weathering [illegible] out down there and in a recent letter Reese remarked that he now has no fear of Hell because that place could be no hotter than New Guinea. You go to bed in soaking wet clothes at night and in the morning they're still dripping.

Over in Eastern Iowa, Lt. Gov. Blue was waiting in a hardware store, to see the proprietor, who was busy up front. In the back of the store, a lady was asking about rat poison. The clerk was showing her "Red Squill poison but did not seem to know much about it. Customer and clerk looked inquiringly at Bob and he explained that this rat exterminator caused other animals to vomit, but a rat cannot vomit, therefore the rat dies.

The boss was listening in and when the lady made a substantial purchase, he came up and told Bob if he did not win the race for governor, he could use him as a clerk.—As told by Ward Barnes in his "Human Interest" column in the Eagle Grove Eagle.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Glad you dropped in, Judge. I was just trying to explain to Mary what you told us down at lodge last night . . . about all the grain used to distill war-alcohol not really being used up. She didn't realize it, either."

"It's true, Mary. Wherever the government has permitted distillers to purchase the equipment necessary to reprocess the used grain, at least 50% of the feed value (25% by weight) of the whole grain is being recovered and returned to farms like yours in the form of premium-quality livestock feed. Only the starch is removed during distilling . . . the part recovered is a highly-prized concentrate containing valuable proteins, fats and carbohydrates. The distilling industry really has taken a leading part in the development of new cattle and poultry feed products from reprocessed grain . . . products rich in vitamins B_1 and B_2 . . . so essential to satisfactory growth and production. And the recovery of grain will apply also to the making of whiskey when production is resumed."

"My Mom gives her chicks ACIDOX"
IN CASE YOUR CHICKS GET COCCIDIOSIS
Give Them the Help of Acidox, Too!

When Coccidiosis strikes give them the help of Acidox and Germozone. They are used on alternate days. Both are easy to use—just put in the drinking water in any kind of fountain. Acidox is a controlled acid preparation which does not throw birds off feed—they like it! Probably most loss in cases of Coccidiosis results from failure to make proper use of feed. That is where Acidox comes in. Acidox helps birds do just that. By helping maintain a normal digestive process, Acidox helps nature rebuild destroyed tissue with cells that are immune to Coccidiosis. And the one object should be to carry the birds through the attack until they can establish an immunity to the disease. Coccidiosis infection is frequently accompanied by other germ infections. Germozone gives very valuable assistance to birds in resisting many of those infections. Inexpensive. 150 chicks for 2 weeks: 12-oz Acidox, $1.00; 12-oz. Germozone, 75c. Larger sizes even more economical.

Natural Vitamins Best

Science has proved that vitamins from natural sources are superior to synthetic vitamins by demonstrating that animals and poultry soon break down on mixtures of synthetic vitamins but recover and thrive on mixtures containing liver meal and yeast which are rich in natural vitamins.

BIG GAIN CHICK STARTER is rich in:

Natural vitamin sources, assuring maximum good health, enabling the chick to make the most of its natural capacity for progress.

Carefully selected yellow corn and other grains to provide the sugars, starches, and fats for energy.

The proper combination of high quality proteins for maximum growth.

EDITORIAL REPORT

By Mildred Newgord

The doctrine of human equality reposes on this: That there is no man really clever who has not found that he is stupid. There is no big man who has not felt small. Some men never feel small; but these are the few men who are.—G. K. Chesterton.

Praise is not only gratifying—it is the source of fresh energy which can be measured in the laboratory.

Dr. Henry H. Goddard, in his years at the Vineland Training School in New Jersey, used the "ergograph", an instrument devised to measure fatigue. When an assignment said to a tired child at the instrumnet, "You're doing fine, John" the boy's energy-curve soared. Discouragement and fault-finding were found to have a measurable opposite effect.—Gretta Palmer.

I find that a great part of the information I have was acquired by looking up something and finding something else on the way.—F. P. A.

Merely having an open mind is nothing. The object of opening the mind, as of opening the mouth, is to shut it again on something solid. —G. K. Chesterton.

A motorist, bivouacked for the night in a small Pennsylvania town, took a stroll after dinner, and came to a church where a prayer meeting was being held. He attended; and everything went according to custom until the preacher, an aggresice octogenarian, offered a prayer of thanks for our country's great men. "Oh Lord," he said, "we thank Thee for the great leaders of this land: for Washington, for Jefferson, for Cleveland, for Roosevelt—I mean Theodore."

Elmer Gerdes is absent because of illness. Harvey Larson and Bernard Halfpop have returned after a two weeks' absence.

Freshmen and Sophomore News

I suppose you folks are tired of reading the same thing over and over, so now we'll try something new. Here is the ninth and tenth grade pupil's opinion of school this year.

"Lois Ann Avery: "School went so swiftly that I guess it was all right."

Cleola Boller: "It was all right at the beginning of the year, but now it surely is tiresome."

Elsie Gerdes: "The school year seemed to go fast, and I enjoyed it this year. The rest of the years seemed to go so slow."

Rosie Lauden: "I enjoyed school this year, but I would have enjoyed it more if some things had been done differently."

Norma Peterson: "I didn't like it!"

Gerald Van Buskirk: "I didn't like it!"

Lee Robbins: "It went so fast that I didn't mind it so bad, except one subject I didn't like."

Junior Mayhew: "All right, because it went so fast.

George Gerdes: "All right, if they would have more time for athletics."

Darwin Nelson: "All right until the last of the year."

Gladys Mayhew: "We have been so busy with our studies and many other things that school went very fast."

Junior News

We have been studying Robert Louis Stevenson's selection "The Sire de Maletroit's Door" and find it very interesting. We find the style quaint, the suspense interesting, and the French words difficult. We are now past the Victorian Period and started on "Recent And Contemporary Literature," which stars Rudyard Kipling, Thomas Hardy, Robert Bridges and many others.

We are still on Safety Precautions in senior science and we really learn "alot" about driving there.

I guess the banquet went just splendid last Thursday night, May 4. Further details next week.

Senior News

In sociology we have finished the chapters in the book and are now studying the glossary of the book.

In biology we are studying about fish and we have had many interesting reports about them

"Tip"

7th and 8th Grade News

We are finishing all of our books.

In English we have finished our book and have written poems. We are now making a small paper of our own with Joan Lowenberg as editor, Eulalia Boller, feature editor and Eugene Waage, sport's editor.

A CHARACTER SKETCH

If you have [illegible] the Goodell High School, you have probably seen a girl who fits this description — fifteen years old, brown hair, blue eyes, and also has a brother who is a sophomore. She has two younger brothers, too. She is very good in her studies, and always finds time to have lots of fun. Oh! I almost forgot her name; it is Elsie Gerdes.

"Tip"

FINAL SCHOOL ACTIVITIES

Well, here it is the last two weeks of school! Many things are happening. May 4th was the junior-senior banquet, May 14 is baccalaureate; May 18 is commencement, and last of all, May 19 is the picnic.

"Tip"

THE QUESTION BOX

"What is your idea or opinion of this lovely spring weather we have had?"

Eva Marie Evenson: "We can't expect much else after the wonderful weather we had this winter. It's really not so bad.

Merlin Lowenberg. "It is the darnest weather I have ever seen. When are we going into the fields again? Does anyone know?"

Thelma Berhow: "Gosh! I don't know. I think it is pretty cold for May, but everyone should know, "We don't rule the weather." And it is the way it's supposed to be."

Norma Peterson: " wish it would dry off so you wouldn't have to swim wherever you go."

"Tip"

JUST A LITTLE JOKE!

"I seem to be running out of gas" he said. "Here's where I have to do some plain and fancy footwork."

His girl's face, small and round and white was turned up to his ,her eyes glowing dizzily from beneath the heavy lids, her head swam. Slowly he bent over her. Why not? He was her dentist.

You Know the Minuteman..
Now . . . Meet the Missus

The hand that rocked the cradle had to have a good trigger finger, because the Minuteman's wife often did her "marketing" in the forest with a gun. She was a Jill of all trades, too—cook, spinner, weaver, pork salter, candle maker, baker, laundress and gardener.

How are her great, great granddaughters doing? Very well, thank you. Some are serving with our armed forces. Some work in war plants. Others grow Victory Gardens, preserve fruits and vegetables, cook, serve, sew . . . save fats, cans and paper . . . make things last, wear them out and do without. They carry their own bundles, keep the family cheerful—in a word, they are doing their share to win the war by taking over on the home front—for their husbands and sons.

The women of America have proved their resourcefulness in the kitchen in countless ways. Many have discovered that a glass of cold, golden Budweiser makes their simple wartime meals taste better.

In addition to supplying the armed forces with glider and bomber fuselage frames, wing parts, gun turret parts and foodstuffs, Anheuser-Busch produces materials which go into the manufacture of: Rubber • Aluminum Munitions • Medicines • B Complex Vitamins • Hospital Diets • Baby Foods • Bread and other Bakery products • Vitamin-fortified cattle feeds • Batteries • Paper • Soap and Textiles—to name a few.

OUT of the welter of war will come many things of practical, usable value to post-war America. Now needed for victory, they will prove equally needful in the days to follow.

As in war, your arteries of transportation are destined to play a major role when America returns to its peaceful occupations. Freight cars will speed over the nation, within their sturdy walls the essentials to better living and increased happiness—essentials in the form of raw materials for manufacturers and process— —finished products for consumer outlets.

Freed from war duty, the ROCK ISLAND LINES will devote all of its equipment, rolling stock and personnel to peacetime effort. With the improvements that war has brought, plus the replacements available when fighting ceases, it will be the finest transportation service ROCK ISLAND can provide!

Of this be assured—the arteries of a new, free America will be ready whenever peace comes. Speed the day!

Wright county is asked to purchase $1,034,000 in bonds as part of Iowa's quota of $202,000,000 in the Fifth War Loan campaign which begins on June 12 and ends on July 8, according to an announcement this week from the Iowa War Finance committee.

Citizens of Wright county will be asked to make pledges for bonds on "V Pledge Day", June 9, at the various polling places in the county which will be manned by persons chosen by [illegible] and township chairman. These polling places will be open between the hours of 12:00 noon and 10:00 p. m.

Iowa's quota is the greatest amount so far asked by the Treasury Dept., but is not in excess of the purchases of Iowa people in past war loan drives. In the Fourth War Loan, Iowa sales totaled $228,000,000.

The division of the quota as outlined by the Treasury department in Washington asks for sales to individuals in Iowa amounting to $118,000,000, $74,000,000 of this amount to be in E. Bond sales.

The theme of the campaign will be "Back the Attack—Buy More Than Before." The national goal is 16 billion, 6 billion of which is sought from individuals.

Will Establish Agricultural-OPA Advisory Council

Organization Meeting In Des Moines May 22

Iowa agriculture and related interests will have opportunity soon to assist and advise the Office of Price Administration (OPA), according to information received here today by C. C. Benson, chairman of the local War Price and Rationing Board.

He was advised by the Des Moines OPA district office that the first step in the program will be the establishment of an Agricultural-OPA Advisory Council for the Des Moines district of 66 Iowa counties. The organization meeting will be held in Des Moines on May 22.

Taking part in this meeting will be representatives of Iowa farm organizations, commodity producers' co-operatives, agricultural associations; individual farmers representing various types of agriculture, and executives of state and federal agencies concerned with agriculture.

The Council organized for the Des Moines OPA district will be the second such group established in the United States since the announcement of Chester Bowles, national OPA administrator, that he intended to formulate a nation-wide Agricultural Advisory program. The first one was organized in Colorado only last month and created such wide-spread interest that it was decided to organize the next one in the center of Midwestern agriculture.

Chairman Benson was informed that the primary purpose of the Advisory Council is to make it possible for OPA to obtain facts on farmers' problems arising from the rationing and price control program, and at the same time give OPA opportunity to explain its problems to farmers.

Receive Home Canning Sugar In 2 Periods

Spare Stamp No. 37 Must Accompany First Applications

Applications for home canning sugar are now being received on a two period basis instead of the original system of approving applications for the full canning season allowance.

The new ruling provides that applicants who file canning sugar requests from the present time until July 15 will be granted a maximum for the first period of 10 pounds per person instead of the maximum annual quota of 20 pounds per person for the entire canning season. Applicants receiving the first period allotment of 10 pounds per person may apply to their local boards for an additional 10 pounds in the second period extending from August 1 to October 15.

The primary purpose of the new plan is to prevent immediate withdrawal of the maximum allowable quota of canning sugar from available stocks. Obviously, the two period plan of handling applications will spread withdrawals. Another advantage is that the two period plan will permit the local boards to limit allowances on the basis of the amount of fruits and vegetables actually becoming available for canning.

First applications must be accompanied by Spare Stamp 37 from Book 4 for each person covered. A record of receipt of Spare Stamp 37 will be kept in local board offices so that no additional stamp will be required for second-period applications.

Spare Stamp No. 37 Must Accompany First Applications

Applications for home canning sugar are now being received on a two period basis instead of the original system of approving applications for the full canning season allowance.

The new ruling provides that applicants who file canning sugar requests from the present time until July 15 will be granted a maximum for the first period of 10 pounds per person instead of the maximum annual quota of 20 pounds per person for the entire canning season. Applicants receiving the first period allotment of 10 pounds per person may apply to their local boards for an additional 10 pounds in the second period extending from August 1 to October 15.

The primary purpose of the new plan is to prevent immediate withdrawal of the maximum allowable quota of canning sugar from available stocks. Obviously, the two-period plan of handling applications will spread withdrawals. Another advantage is that the two-period plan will permit the local boards to limit allowances on the basis of the amount of fruits and vegetables actually becoming available for canning.

First applications must be accompanied by Spare Stamp 37 from Book 4 for each person covered. A record of receipt of Spare Stamp 37 will be kept in local board offices so that no additional stamp will be required for second-period applications.

IOWA PRESS ASSOCIATION

AMERICAN CITIZENS HAVE IMPORTANT THINGS TO DO—

Three things of national scope will require the attention of all good American citizens during the coming month of June, and all three will require serious thought and planning ahead of time.

One is compulsory, the payment of the second installment of the 1944 Federal Income Tax on or before June 15. The other two are voluntary, but should be generously supported by all taxpayers.

On June 5 adult Iowa citizens will have the chance to exercise again one of our precious American privileges—casting their votes for persons whom they would like to see in public office. It has never been more important than now for every citizen to support his government by helping to select desirable and qualified candidates for township, county, state and national offices.

June 9 is "V Pledge Day" for the citizens of Wright county, when they will be asked to sign pledges for the purchase of bonds in the Fifth War Loan some time between June 12 and July 8, the official period for the drive all over the nation. We are told that quotas will be even higher than in the Fourth War Loan, which was conducted in January of this year. Many people have already set aside funds for this purpose. Others will have to dig down deep in their pockets and make sacrifices in order to buy their share of bonds in June.

THE TEACHER PROBLEM—

Iowa had a turnover of 8,000 teachers in 1942-43 and one of 7,500 in 1943-44. In 1943-44 there were 470 who received less than $600 in wages and 11,500 who received less than $1,200. Of the turnover it is estimated that 800 went to the armed forces and 1,200 to industry. If these estimates are correct they do not account for a considerable number who drifted into domestic or other fields. The scarcity, together with the wage scales which do not compete with salaries in industrial and other fields, is raising problems to supply teachers. This forms a basis for agitation of reforms. Some of these may affect our taxation as well as our local control of schools. Probably the strongest force in school reform at the present time is the educators themselves. Quite naturally their income and their working conditions have something to do with their aims.

CONTROLLING THE WAIST LINE

The man who can control his waist line, a local philosopher said yesterday, can control any situation. Controlling the waist line reveals a strength of purpose, determination, will power and self-control that will get any job within the range of human power done. Show me a man who controls his waistline and I will show you a winner. I don't include the fellows whom nature has endowed with a trim waistline. They can eat like a horse, never denying themselves a thing and never show it. They are getting assistance from a peculiar gland condition or a tape worm. I refer to the fellows who can't eat a good meal without having to let out their belt the next day because of added girth. When these boys control their waistline a real job of self-discipline is being done.

WITH OTHER EDITORS—

It has been going on long enough for us to become somewhat accustomed to it, but many Americans haven't yet been able to face gracefully self-denial in lines of food, transportation, and clothing. Crabbing about butter shortages. lack of meat points, not enough shoe coupons, no train reservations, too little gasoline, is just as plentiful now as when it first started to affect the great American public.

The chap who sorrowfully bemoans the lack of thick steaks and the one who laments long automobile trips for the annual vacations that used to be, are not rare cases of complaining. There are many Pocahontas county folks who would protest the need of such limiting and rationing, if they themselves were pinched. But also there are the largest majority who, thank goodness, quietly and patiently accept a reduction of goods and count it well that they aren't suffering the deprivations of other countries. They are cooperating and waiting that day when the war ends principally to call a halt to bloodshed rather than a return to a heavily stocked larder and new auto tires. The war's end will not bring an immediate end to rationing, we are advised.

The British people don't expect a normal supply of milk until 1948, of eggs, tomatoes and candy in 1949 and of meat and butter in 1950. We may have a bit of waiting to do on our own part, over here, who can tell. —Pocahontas Record-Democrat.

Women have tried and succeeded in virtually every line of endeavor occupied by men, and have contributed materially to victory, to the preservation of representative government, to a return to religion, and to fight against juvenile delinquency, said Mrs. Lucy Dickinson of Keene, N. H., new president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, at the national convention's close here.

"Yet there is one task that women have a special talent for," she added, "and that is the career of homemaking. Let us specialize in homemaking so that in the postwar world there will emanate from our homes serenity, faith, justice, discipline and an awareness of the brotherhood of man and the Fatherhood of God."

Without discounting in the least any of the federation's other objectives, it may be said that this small town housewife, with inspiring brevity, set the ideal goal toward which all may well work. — Mason City Globe-Gazette.

Writing in the Saturday Evening Post of April 15, Ed Will, the operator of a small farm near Odessa, New York, shows how the grip of bureaucracy is tightening on the farmer.

A subsidy which independent farmers do not want, is forced on them to offset the cost of feed which the price of milk is not allowed to cover. It has grown from pin money to one-fifth of the dairyman's income, thus making him dependent on political handouts.

The inevitable conclusion to be drawn from Mr. Will's article is that the farm subsidy is a political expedient to hold the price of food below its production cost, at the expense of the taxpayer, at a time when the consumer is best able to pay the true cost of food.

As the subsidy program increases its hold on the farmer, he becomes less and less a free man, and government grows in its position of overlord toward him. This is indeed a "new order" for the United States.—Jefferson County Union (Ft. Atkinson, Wis.)

One of the real "headaches" of the peace days will be over the disposal of the government war material. If it is all thrown on the market at one time it will ruin thousands of dealers who have stocks of goods competing with what the government releases. Just stop and consider the trucks, jeeps, earth-movers, the shoes and coats and caps and socks and other material that is now going to the men and women under arms, that will then be thrown on the market. — Wright County Monitor.

Prittle... Prattle....

Somehow or other when the plate glass in the post office door gets broken it always seems to be someone from this office that was the last one through the door. In 1917 it was Larry Miller, former owner of the Independent who narrowly escaped the shattering glass and last week it was our society editor who was the victim of a capricious wind. On the same day she received this communication on a PO letterhead.

"Dear Miss (not Mrs) Smith:

Please stop in at your earliest convenience and settle for the door.

Thank you.
The Management."

P—P

Now since part of the management was heard by a good reliable witness to have warned another part of the management of said post office six weeks ago that the glass in the door would be broken if the air stop wasn't fixed, the management of this firm has agreed with Mrs. Smith that the management of the post office doesn't have a leg to stand on and the entire matter, in case they turn it over for collection, has been put in the hands of our attorney who is prepared to fight the action to the highest court of the land. In addition he has been authorized at his suggestion, to file a counter suit in the name of our Mrs. Smith asking for damages in the sum of $10,000 for shocks, embarrassment, cuts and mental anguish sustained by the said Mrs. Smith. So there!

P—P

Anyway quite a few of us realized our dream of walking through a closed door on that day.

P—P

It was bound to happen now that General Mills, Inc. has added the impetus that is putting Belmond on the upgrade. New business firms can be expected to open up on Main Street and some of them will probably be drawn from our neighboring county towns. Sure enough that is just what happened as Belmond will have a new restaurant opening in a few days and the owner will move here from Clarion.

P—P

It looks as if the city's fishing champ has lost his grip. A three hour fishing trip to Morse Lake one day last week end, that was enjoyed by Clyde Jennings, Pete English and this novice, resulted in 8 bullheads for Jennings, one for the Greek and twelve for the novice.

THE JUNIOR AND SENIOR BANQUET

The junior and senior banquet was held Thursday night May 4th, at the Hotel Hanford in Mason City.

The program was centered around the theme—"fairy tales" The nut cups were in the shape of yellow flowers with a fairy land character attached to the handle.

The table had a bowl of yellow daisies and white carnations as a cynosure. The menu consisted of shrimp cocktail, chicken, whipped potatoes, yellow wax beans, chef's salad, rolls, coffee and chocolate parfait.

The welcome was given by Norma Robbins who acted as toastmistress and Lula Peterson, the only senior girl, gave the response. A very interesting speech was given by Mrs. Ernest Lewis. Her topic was "My Favorite Fairy Tale." Eva Marie Evenson, with the assistance of her class, composed an enlarged fairy tale which she read. Rhymes in honor of the seniors was given by Mildred Newgord. The epilogue was presented by Norma Robbins.

The evening was brought to a close by going to the Cecil Theater.

The afternoon will be spent participating in various kinds of recreational sports—such as races, and baseball.

The highlight of the day will be the consumption of "ice cream."

"SENIORS—1944"

By Mildred Newgord

Our senior class is very small
Only three to be explicit
But to these three we fondly hope
"Success" will make her visit.

We hope she visits Lula
With a fairy wand of gold
To make her hopes and dreams come true
And a happy life unfold.

We hope she brings to Christie ,
All things good and true
And may they bring him happiness
Which each year will renew.

To Lorin we surely wish the best
As he honors his country true
May his "ship of life" be chartered as straight
As the one he'll serve in blue.

"Tip"

"RECESSIONAL"

It is May, 1944, and another school year is at a close.

Some of the pupils will not be coming back next year, for they are graduating. Their "school days" are over. They are through with their preparatory course and are going out into life. Some will go in to college for further study. For all of them, however, a certain period in their life is over. They are through with childhood; they are now young men and women. The future of our nation depends upon these young men and women, for they are the future.

Many of the boys that are graduating will leave to serve their country. Possibly, some of the girls will, also. They are certainly preparing for the future, for they are preparing our nation for the future, by fighting for it.

The seniors of 1944 are leaving their school days behind. They are going out to face life. To each and every one we all say, "Good luck!"

"Tip"

We wish to thank the Belmond Independent for allowing space in their paper for the "Tip." We appreciate it very much.

Announcement!

It seems as though there wasn't anyone with any political ambition or desire to file for the Office of County Supervisor in District No. 1 on the Republican ticket so I have decided to enter the race and am asking the Republican voters for their support to write my name, F. D. Geitz, in the blank space for County Supervisor and place a cross in the square which makes it a correct vote according to the ruling of the Attorney General and the opinion of the attorneys who say stickers should not be used in this particular case. So, let us all turn out and avail ourselves of the sacred privilege of voting, and keep both of our major parties alive, which will keep the "isms" out of our beloved country.

Owing to the tire and gas situation I will not be able to make a house to house campaign. Your support will be greatly appreciated.

F. D. Geitz

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Guess we're pretty lucky in our town, Judge, that we don't have the youth problem you read about in other places."

"Don't know as you can call it lucky, Harold... we saw it coming with the war and we did something about it before it hit us. We gave our 'teen age youngsters the recreational facilities they needed and really wanted. Those familiar with this wartime problem know that young folks go to places they shouldn't only when the proper places are not provided for them. Young people always want to be with others of their own age... want their own type of entertainment. Town after town has found out that once these simple wants are met, the problem is well on its way to being licked."

"Guess I didn't really know how farsighted our town really is, Judge. If we hadn't looked ahead we wouldn't have had anybody or anything to blame but ourselves, would we?"

Advantage in good start

Pigs that get off to a poor start mean wasted feed and valuable hours of extra care. A poor start can not always be blamed on the sows, poor care or bad weather. Very often, the starting feed is at fault, and pigs show signs of vitamin deficiencies or anemia. The symptoms of vitamin deficiencies and anemia are similar to a variety of baby pig diseases, and the [illegible] frequently spends good money for tonics and medicines to no avail.

Assure your pigs of a good start and keep them coming with BIG GAIN PIG AND SOW RATION. It is rich in vitamins, high quality proteins and minerals. It helps to make pigs grow healthy, strong and fast—shortens the nursing period and saves nursing losses on the mothers.

A Letter from Joe...

Camp life is fine. It would be a lot tougher than it is except for those wonderful diesel tractors we have over here. Please save the money so we can have one like it when I get back.

Last night.

ANSWER IT WITH WAR BONDS!

WHILE your boy is away fighting, he's not only growing up into a man who will be glad to take his place beside you on the farm when he gets back. He's getting used to first class equipment—learning how to handle guns and machinery and jeeps. He isn't going to be pleased with run-down farm buildings and worn-out equipment. He's going to know what's what—and it's going to be up to you to see that the farm comes up to scratch.

Right now, War Bonds are helping to provide our boys with that fine fighting equipment, and thereby hastening the day of Victory. But afterward, you get $4 back for every $3 you put in, if the Bonds are held to maturity. And you can use it for all the things you'll be needing. Put it into new buildings and fences, new stock and maybe a home with modern comforts—and that super-duper tractor!

On farms and ranches all over the country, far-sighted owners and tenants are keeping careful track of places where money will have to be spent when the war is over. Against these future expenses they are salting away their dollars in War Bonds. It's the safest, easiest kind of postwar planning. The safest, because Uncle Sam stands behind them. The easiest, because you can get large or small denomination Bonds to suit your needs, at your bank, post office or Production Credit Association. Between trips to town you can order through your rural mail carrier, or write direct for them yourself.

But, however you buy, keep right on buying them!

YOU NEVER GET LESS THAN YOU LEND! And you can get ⅓ more than you invest. When held 10 years, Series B War Bonds yield 2.9% interest compounded semi-annually. You get back $4 for every $3.

Of course, no one should cash a Bond unless he has to; but if an emergency comes along, Uncle Sam will redeem them in cash—at full purchase price—any time after you've held them 60 days. Don't hold back a single dollar unnecessarily from the purchase of War Bonds. YOUR HELP IS NEEDED TO WIN THIS WAR.

FACTS ABOUT WAR BONDS (Series E)

You LEND Uncle Sam	Upon Maturity you get back
$18.75	$25.00
37.50	50.00
75.00	100.00
375.00	500.00
750.00	1000.00

You can buy War Bonds from your bank, Postmaster, Rural Mail Carrier or Production Credit Association. Don't wait. Do it by mail if you can't get to town!

For America's future, for your future, for your children's future—keep on buying WAR BONDS

Let's [illegible] KEEP BACKING THE ATTACK! ★ ★

How many Bonds can YOU put behind our (Belmond) boys in Servi e?

VOL. 25 NO. 31 — BELMOND, WRIGHT COUNTY, IOWA, THURSDAY, MAY 25, 1944 — THE FAMILY NEWSPAPER

Heavy Rains Delaying Work On Many Farms

Labor Recruits Needed To Solve Problems

Heavy rains have delayed field work to such an extent that "around the clock" shifts will be necessary on many farms, if Wright County is to meet war food production goals of corn and soybeans.

Farm workers are needed now. Thirty-six requests for farm workers received at the County Extension Office at Clarion remained unfilled last week. Only five farm workers could be obtained for placements.

Recruitment of farm workers of high school age is being conducted through the schools of Wright County at the present time. However, the registration shows that most high school boys with farm experience have already accepted farm employment.

Later labor requirements to detassel the 2400 acres of hybrid seed corn under production in Wright County will require approximately 800 detasselers. There are 500 acres more of hybrid seed corn under production this year than last.

Cooperation by civic groups and business enterprises have been and will continue to assist farmers with their crops during this emergency. In Belmond the Commercial Club, under the leadership of their president, C. C. Christie, solicited part time farm workers to fill the request, received at the Belmond Independent Office. All male workers in the cooperative elevator at Woolstock have been assisting farmers after working hours. Some employees at the Sampson Motor and Farmers Elevator at Clarion are also working after regular working hours helping farmers get in crops. Retired farmers in most communities are assisting on their own farms or for other farmers. Mayor Martin at Eagle Grove assisted by his farm labor committee, has solicited farm help for placement on farms.

Many instances of cooperation between neighboring farmers have been received, showing how tractor and other farm equipment and manpower is being shared in getting in crops.

Every able-bodied man, woman or youth is urged to register his name, telephone number and available time for farm work at his nearest placement center. Rosters of volunteers will be consolidated and maintained at the County Farm Labor headquarters in the County Extension office at Clarion.

Workers in this vicinity can register with Belmond Independent Office, Belmond; County Extension Office, Clarion; W. A. Rietz, Rowan.

Farmers Must Apply For Seed Certification

Wright County farmers who wish to have their hybrid corn, small grain or forage crop seed certified must apply to the Iowa Agricultural Experiment Association, Ames, before June 10.

County Extension Director, Aaron R. Bowman, announces that inspection of small grain fields, mainly oats, will start about June 15. Checking of hybrid corn fields will begin about 2 weeks later, according to Joe L. Robinson, secretary of the Iowa Agricultural Experiment Association, an organization of farmers and seed producers cooperating with Iowa State College in the certification program.

Hybrid corn, to be eligible for certification, must yield satisfactorily in comparison with other hybrids in the area where it is adapted. Certified seed stock must be used. Hybrid seed fields must be isolated from other corn. Each ear or female parent row must be properly detasselled in order for complete crossing to occur. Robinson says 900 fields, totalling 24,000 acres of hybrid corn, were inspected for certification in 1943. These produced sufficient seed to plant about two-thirds of the 1944 Iowa corn acreage.

Small grain or forage crop seed to be certified is checked for freedom from mixture with other varieties, and for freedom from primary noxious weeds.

When seed meets all specified requirements, the grower is authorized to sell the crop as certified seed. And that designation, Robinson says, gives the purchaser reasonable assurance that the seed conforms to the standard prescribed and is in excellent condition for planting.

Application and instruction for certification may be obtained from the county extension office. The minimum fee for certification of an acre or less of corn is $10.35; for grain or forage crops, $9.00 minimum for one acre plus 35 cents for each additional acre.

Rural Eighth Grade Graduation Exercises At IOOF Hall Tonight

A committee made up of directors in the three townships decided to hold the exercises indoors in the evening this year, since uncertain weather conditions made plans for the usual picnic unfavorable.

A PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, this country faces an over-all bituminous coal shortage of 20 million tons, and this shortage is expected to grow due to the manpower shortages at the mines, decreases in transportation facilities, and the unprecedented demands for coal for our armed forces, every man mining coal must be kept employed ALL SUMMER LONG if next winter's fuel shortage is to be kept at a minimum; and

WHEREAS, Your Government is faced with the tremendous task of attempting to meet the nation's coal requirements, and can be successful only to the extent that we, the coal users, cooperate, and the only protection afforded to the residential user, schools, public institutions, and business establishments is the opportunity to order and store now their coal requirements for the coming burning season;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Ed Kennedy, Mayor of Belmond, Iowa, do hereby proclaim June 1 through 15, 1944 as "Buy Your Coal Now Period", and I urge the citizens of this community to heed your Government's warning and to exert every effort to buy and permit delivery at your dealer's convenience, your next winter's coal requirements, as the coal cannot be stored at the mine. Your coal dealer is faced with manpower and equipment difficulties and can no longer take care of hurried last-minute requests for coal. Because certain coals are scarce, consumers are urged to protect themselves by taking the coal their dealers recommend instead of waiting for some particular kind which may never be available to them.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have set my hand and caused the seal of the City of Belmond to be affixed.

DONE at the City of Belmond, this 23rd day of May, in the year of our Lord, ninteen-hundred and forty-four.

(Seal) ED KENNEDY, Mayor.

Poppy Sale Is Saturday

Mrs. Stephen Hardwick Is Chairman

The annual poppy sale of the American Legion Auxiliary will be held in Belmond on Saturday, May 27, and is under the direction of Mrs. Stephen Hardwick, poppy chairman.

The biggest poppy sale in the history of the American Legion is predicted by Mrs. Ted Zook, president of the local Unit, who said yesterday she would not be surprised if more than double the usual number were sold.

As few people know what the arrangements are for making these Memorial Day Flowers, Mrs. Zook explained that the materials are furnished free to the veterans by the American Legion Auxiliary. Volunteer workers teach the disabled men to make the poppies. The entire poppy program, from the supply of the poppy materials to the distribution of the finished flowers to the American public, is under the management of the Auxiliary.

"The veterans and their dependents are the ones who benefit from our poppy sale," she said, "not only from the money that results from selling poppies, but also from having something tangible to do instead of having to rest, read or talk. These men in the government hospitals are delighted to keep their fingers busy and their minds occupied with the intricacies of fashioning the poppies. Needy wives and children also reap benefits from the sale of the flowers.

"We have been selling these Memorial Day flowers for twenty-four years and each year the poppy becomes more closely identified with the American Legion Auxiliary and with our disabled men. We hope the service will continue indefinitely."

POPPY DAY PROCLAMATION

Saturday, May 27, was proclaimed Poppy Day in Belmond by Mayor Kennedy, in a proclamation issued today. The Mayor called upon all citizens to observe the day by wearing memorial poppies in honor of the men who have given their lives in the nation's defense.

The proclamation stated:

"Whereas, the United States of America is again being forced to crush powerful enemies seeking to establish their tyranny over the world, and

"Whereas, the young men of Belmond again are offering their lives in the nation's service, and

"Whereas, the memory of those who have given their lives is cherished by us all and is an inspiration to us all in these grave days, and

"Whereas, their service and sacrifice is symbolized by the memorial poppy of The American Legion Auxiliary, now therefore

"I, Ed Kennedy, Mayor of the City of Belmond, do hereby proclaim Saturday, May 27, 1944, to be Poppy Day in the City of Belmond, and urge all citizens to observe the day by wearing the memorial poppy in honor of the men who died for America in the battles of World War I and World War II.

INDEPENDENT CLAIMS "5" IN SERVICE

When Dick Gowdy left for induction in the U. S. Navy last Thursday, May 18, it brought to "5" the number of personnel from the Independent who are now serving in the armed forces: George Hansen, Dick Gowdy, Merle Obrecht, Bob Wallace and Daryl Dillon.

Each time the trained and experienced staff of our organization has been affected by the needs of Selective Service, we have wondered how their leaving would affect the quantity and quality of service we would be able to give.

But like all business organizations on a war-time scale of operation, we have continued to give the best possible war-time service and are determined to keep on doing just that, even though some times such service may have to be somewhat curtailed.

It is impossible to look ahead in the near or distant future and see all the personal or community problems that may need to be solved, but your newspaper stands ready at all times to help promote whatever is good and desirable for the community and its citizens.

To Dick we say "goodbye, good luck and God speed the day when you and your 11 million or more fellow workers in Uncle Sam's armed forces can finish the job and come home."

MEMORIAL DAY MAY 30—

Memorial Day was known as Decoration Day for a good many years after it was originated. Memorial Day had its beginning in 1868 although the graves of soldiers killed in the Civil War had been decorated with flowers before that year, especially in the South. Records show that the women of Columbus, Mississippi, put flowers on the graves of both Union and Confederate dead as early as 1863. On April 26, 1865 a party of women under Mrs. Sue Landon Vaughn decorated soldiers graves near Vicksburg. In May of 1865 a party of women in Winchester, Virginia, formed a Stonewall Jackson Memorial Association and on June 6 went to the Confederate cemetery in Winchester, said to be the first cemetery especially laid out for soldier dead, and decorated the graves with flowers. In May, 1865 the G. A. R., an organization of Union soldiers made arrangements to decorate the graves of Union soldiers throughout the country on a uniform date. An order was issued to all G. A. R. posts by General John A. Logan. The order designated May 30, 1868, as the day on which the ceremony of decorating with flowers the graves of Union soldiers be observed. State legislature passed acts designating the day as a legal holiday. In time regulations were adopted by the Army and Navy for observation of the day. The day originally observed as a time to decorate the graves of soldiers of the Civil War later became a time when the graves of all those of all wars were included. The practice has grown until it now extends to all graves. On Memorial Day the nation as a whole stops for a few hours to lay a wreath of flowers upon the graves of its departed.

BELMOND BOYS ARE TOPS

Along with the story regarding the graduation of 40 seniors from Belmond high school last week, there was also an announcement in the Independent that seven of the senior boys were already members of the armed forces in special branches, waiting to be called for service shortly after graduation, with several others having qualified.

The most gratifying information revealed in the announcement was that eight of the Belmond senior boys had taken a difficult Navy test and all eight had passed. This record is even more outstanding, on the part of both the boys and the school that prepared them, when we learn that only one other high school boy in the county had passed the examination.

SITUATION IS WELL IN HAND

The farmers seemed to be quite worried this spring about the threat to crop expectations caused by an extremely late spring, and the business men in this vicinity even started to worry a little along with them. Furthermore, the persistent rains were so widespread all over the country that Washington agencies began talking about the seriousness of the delays in preparation of the soil and in planting.

We believe now that there isn't any real cause for worry, in this vicinity. A couple of weeks ago the Community Club of Belmond offered to help the harrassed farmers, who were way behind schedule in the fields, by recommending city men with good experience who would go out on farms and drive tractors at night. To this offer, there were only three inquiries.

This goes to show that the farmers in the Belmond community have the situation well in hand, in spite of the many handicaps that the weather has created this year.

WITH OTHER EDITORS—

Every person, who has returned from overseas agrees that the one thing the American boys want more than anything else is letters from the home town. Mail from home is the one thing that the armed service, Red Cross or the Salvation Army cannot bring them. We never heard of anyone who liked to write letters, but the effort it will take to write once a week to some boy you know is so insignificant compared to the pleasure that he will derive from it that every adult should write an occasional letter to some lad in the service. He does not have nearly so much time to write as you do, so don't expect a reply to every letter. Mail from the home town will do more to keep up morale than all service officers and USO entertainers.—Forest City Summit.

—V—

The Germans and British have exchanged a few prisoners, and a London newspaper has reported on the authority of one of the repatriates that guards at a German internment camp where this man was confined had been overheard saying among themselves "Krieg nicht gut," (war is not good.)

The important thing in this war is to make all Germans know that so thoroughly that when 25 years from now some erstwhile paperhanger proposes war they will put him down if it takes civil war to do it.—Kossuth County Advance.

—V—

Winston Churchill made it plain that England does not intend to nor will she release any of her possessions in what is known as American waters. That is, the islands that make such excellent air bases and that contain fine ship harbors will remain in England's hands and ownership. It is true that she has leased some of them to the United States, but that is as far as she will go. It seems that the United States is late in its request. The time to have made the proposition was before the United States had entered the war. Then it would have been granted promptly. Now that we are in the war up to our necks Britain has nothing to gain by granting our request.—Wright County Monitor.

Prittle... Prattle...

R. H. Gowdy, A. S.

Dear Staff:

It was a swell night for the Navy when four of us left last Thursday evening for the induction station in Des Moines via bus from the Greyhound. Bert couldn't have picked a wetter night, even if he had been the one to pick it.

P—P

Will have to tell you of a coincidence after I name the group who went with me: Dick Carpenter, a brother of Mrs. Jim Trees and 28 years old; Leland Johnson of Rowan, 32, a brakeman on the Clarion to Oelwein run; and George Miller of Clarion, 21, a former employee of Boeing Aircraft at Seattle.

P—P

Miller was inducted and went to Farragut with Geo. Hansen on March 3, 1943. Now he is being re-inducted and will be in my company on the trip to the same place. That's one for Ripley, isn't it? Here's how. Boeing needed more employees last winter and somehow got some of them right out of the Navy. The first that Miller knew about it was when they called him to the personnel office, after he had received his Ph. M. 3|c stripe, and given an honorable discharge on the 13th of January of this year. He didn't like that so well and four months later was reinducted.

P—P

Got into Des Moines Friday a. m. about 12:30 and found our hotel. Somehow or other we hadn't been provided with lodging and a breakfast ticket, but the clerk was very nice about it and saw to it that we had a good bed. Next morning we found a Bolton and Hay restaurant and signed the backs of our meal checks which fixed that up.

P—P

Rather enjoyed the five hours we spent during Friday at the Recruiting Station and thought it a picnic after Camp Dodge. If the way they handled us there, efficiently and courteously, is any criterion of the days to come, my respect—at least for the Navy—has gone up another notch.

P—P

After signing various papers, getting our family allotment taken care of, finger printed, and checked just briefly (stripped from the belt line up) for a few things, we were excused until 1:00 p. m. and sworn in at exactly 1:30 p. m. Friday, May 19, 1944.

P—P

Somehow or other while riding on the bus—even now the whole affair seems like a dream—the trip seemed like an anti-climax since about 11 million have gone before me. But I'm glad to be in and plan to work hard, play hard, and keep my nose clean.

P—P

Anyway we are due to be shipped out on Saturday, May 20, and as I write this I know it will be Farragut which, even though I wanted Great Lakes, will be O. K. with me.

P—P

You know I miss the family and look forward to seeing them soon, but I didn't tell you how I'm going to miss Wallace, Eva, Sofie, Louise and Imogene. We had a lot of fun the past 15 months that it took the Navy to catch up with me, and I enjoyed every argument that I had with Eva and Louise. It's swell to know we have an operator like Sofie who takes a lot of pride in getting her work done correctly and swiftly and even chips in her two bits worth when she runs across something in the copy which she isn't sure is correct.

P—P

I'll miss Wallace's humor and understanding and his good-natured advice that has helped so much to keep our partnership on an even keel. And I would certainly like to be around to hear the droll witticisms of Imogene, our new printer 3|c, who is going to be a printer 1|c by the time George and I get back.

P—P

I see this is running long—will have to get used to how much space copy in longhand will fill. Hope to have time to send you something next week. My best to everybody. Dick.

Announcement!

It seems as though there wasn't anyone with any political ambition or desire to file for the Office of County Supervisor in District No. 1 on the Republican ticket so I have decided to enter the race and am asking the Republican voters for their support to write my name, F. D. Geitz, in the blank space for County Supervisor and place a cross in the square which makes it a correct vote according to the ruling of the Attorney General and the opinion of the attorneys who say stickers shouldn't be used in this particular case. So, let us all turn out and avail ourselves of the secred privilege of voting, and keep both of our major parties alive, which will keep the "isms" out of our beloved country.

Owing to the tire and gas situation I will not be able to make a house to house campaign. Your support will be greatly appreciated.

Reception for Roser Family Held at Meservey On Sunday Morning

On Sunday morning after the worship service at Salem Evangelical Church at Meservey, Rev. and Mrs. Roser and son, David, were honored by a very cordial reception given by the members and firends of the congregation. Rev. Roser has recently been re-appointed to the Meservey church.

Previous to the sumptuous pot-luck dinner, Mrs. Frank Nissen presented Rev. Roser with a boutonniere and Mrs. Roser with a beautiful corsage of gardenias. Following some group singing, Garfield Raecker in his own unique way welcomed the parsonage family back for another year. The joy of having been returned to the church was then expressed by the minister who said in part, "Because of the homely atmosphere which prevails in Meservey and because of the willingness and cooperative spirit on the part of the congregation, we are very happy to come back to this village which we have learned to call "our home" and the first favorable impression of this community is still maintained!"

Several of the folks presented a fine program consisting of vocal selections and timely and humorous readings. On behalf of the congregation, Frank Guth presented the minister and family with a very substantial purse after which prayer was offered by Mrs. L. B. Hulsebus. The program was closed by the group heartily singing "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

The atmosphere of this splendid reception disclosed a mutual goodwill on the part of both minister and people that is indicative of their desire to extend God's Kingdom in this community.

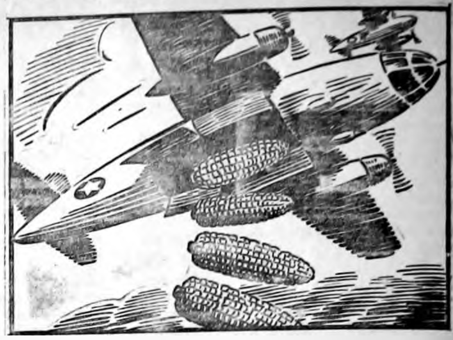
PLANTING CORN



This sketch depicts a scene that is being enacted every day on the various war fronts. We actually are planting corn on the Axis in our bombing raids. Not exactly as pictured, but in the form of bombs and shells. Yes, corn goes into the production of munitions. Furthermore it's used in the casting of airplane motors; in lacquer and protective coatings for aircraft, guns, and gun mounts; in smokeless powder for ammunition; in rubber for bullet-proof gasoline tanks; and in photographic film for the military.

CONSERVE & PRESERVE

To help Wright County women be certain to have their canning equipment in condition for operation when the canning season begins, Miss Elizabeth Deihl, county home economist, is planning to set up information centers in Eagle Grove, Dows, Belmond and Clarion At this time Miss Deihl will test pressure cooker gauges for accuracy and answer questions pertaining to canning and freezing. The new "Canning Fruits and Vegetables" pamphlet put out by the Extension Service at Iowa State College will be distributed. It is planned these centers be set up at different times during the canning season to answer timely questions and to help with the surplus garden exchange.

To use a pressure canner as a water bath canner for fruits and tomatoes, set the lid on loosely. Don't fasten it or let it stick. And have the petcock open so that steam escapes all the time the water boils. Use the rack and have the water come well up over the top of the jars.

For any water bath canner count the time from the time the water comes to a rolling boil, keeping the water boiling steadily for as long as the timetable directs for the food you are canning. Lift the lid occasionally to see if you need to add boiling water to keep the jar tops well covered.

Wash all jars and lids except those edged with sealing compound in hot soapy water and rinse well If you use metal lids edged with sealing compound, wipe them with a clean damp cloth; then dip them in boiling water just before you put them on the jars.

When you fill containers with boiling hot food, have hot glass jars and lids ready. Put the clean glass jars and lids, except those with sealing compound, in warm water and gradually heat them to boiling. Boil jars for 20 minutes to assure sterilization.

Acid foods like tomatoes and fruits may be processed safely in a boiling water bath. But temperatures higher than boiling—240 degrees or more—are desirable for non acid vegetables. The only way to get these high temperatures is to hold steam under pressure, so those who can should use a steam pressure canner. Under Iowa conditions, however, even non-acid vegetables can be processed in boiling water.

Thick mixtures like corn and greens heat through very slowly So follow the directions carefully; can the corn whole-grain style, and pack loosely. Cut through the greens crosswise.

OPA Announces Formula Prices On Bushel Corn

The Office of Price Administration announces formula prices per bushel on number 2 yellow corn, bulk, shelled, at basing cities used for Area A pricing as follows:

Chicago, Ill.	$1.16
Minneapolis & St. Paul.	1.12⅜
Omaha, Neb., and Council Bluffs, Iowa	1.10
Sioux City, Iowa	1.09

The formula price (sometimes called "track price") at an interior rail point in Iowa is computed by taking the price at the appropriate terminal city above listed and deducting freight (including 3% tax) from said city to the interior point in Iowa. Select the terminal city which, after said deduction, gives the highest price at the interior point.

Where a fractional cent is other than one-eighth or a multiple thereof, adjust to the next higher one-eighth cent on carload sales. Where a fractional cent is other than one-quarter or a multiple thereof, adjust to the next higher one-quarter cent on LCL sales.

Sales by Farmers Bulk (Including Landlords.)

(a) If delivered to the purchaser at the farm where grown the maximum price for shelled corn is the formula price at the nearest interior rail point, less 4c. This is the maximum for farmer sales on the farm to a trucker, a feeder, neighbor, or any other person.

(b) If delivered to the purchaser at any other point than the farm where grown, the maximum price for bulk, shelled corn is the formula price of the interior point nearest to the point of delivery to the purchaser, less 2½c. There may NOT be added a transportation charge.

Discounts for excessive moisture content vary from one-half to one cent.

White corn has a maximum 15c per bushel higher than for a like sale of yellow corn. Prices lower than these maximums may, of course, be paid. These maximum prices also apply to auction sales. Deductions must be made for grades below No. 2 if for other reasons than excess moisture. (See regulation.)

If ear or snapped corn is sold the maximum price must be reduced by the amount necessary to make the conversion from ear to shelled corn. This amount will vary from 1½c to 2c per bushel. Therefore in paragraph (a) above the maximum price for sales of ear corn would be the formula price less 5½c or 6c per Bushel.

AAA Office Now Making Feed Subsidy Payments For March and April

The AAA Office, Clarion, Iowa, is now making March and April Dairy Feed Subsidy payments. The payment rates are 50 cents a hundred weight on whole milk and 8 cents a pound on butterfat. The sales for March and April will be combined and the dairy feed subsidy check will be issued on both months under one check. Deadline date for accepting March and April dairy feed applications is June 30, 1944. Persons who have not as yet turned in their cream slips or made application for payment are urged to do so at an early date so payment can be made before the deadline. Persons who have turned in only slips covering March sales, are asked to turn in April slips as soon as possible so that they can be included with March totals in making payments

The deadline for payments on previous months is past, so it will be impossible to make payments on sales before March 1st.

Report On Work Of County Health Nurse For Month of April

Report on the work of Miss Wilma Soehren, Wright county Public health nurse, for the month of April is as follows:

Communicable Disease Control Nurse's visits to patients, 14.

Tuberculosis Control: Nurse's visits to patients, 10.

Maternity Service: Nurse's visits to patients, 5.

Infant and Preschool Hygiene Nurse's visits to patients, 5.

School Hygiene: Inspection of pupils, 234; visits to homes, 58.

Sick Calls: Nursing visits to patients, 8.

Crippied Children Service: Nurse's visits to patients, 6.

The nurse has completed visiting all rural schools. She inspected each child present and home calls were made to homes where defects were found. The problems were then discussed with the parents as to the best procedure to take and the patient was advised to see his doctor, dentist or eye doctor, which ever the case may be.

Thirty rural schools as well as one town school have received the dental certificate for having 100% of their dental cards returned. Last year 18 certificates were awarded to rural schools and none awarded to town schools so the increase is most gratifying.

During the year there were numerous "bouts" with scarlet fever and other communicable diseases wherein the nurse inspected the children, taking home any children who had red throats or having elevated temperatures and urging them to see their doctor before returning to school. She also instructed the teachers as to what symptoms to look for in the case of communicable disease. They were asked to report cases not under a doctor's care to the nurse.

Storage Campaign To Avoid Damage To Fabrics Is Launched

A storage campaign is an order of the day for the conservation army of American homemakers.

Miss Elizabeth Deihl, county extension home economist, reports that attempts to estimate the annual loss from damage to wool, feathers and furs ranges from 1 to 5 million dollars. In addition, rubber, rayon and cotton clothing and furnishings must be taken into account in figuring losses preventable through conservation measures.

It is doubtful if 1 per cent of all homes afford conditions that guarantee the safety of stored garments susceptible to moth attacks alone. It has been said that the annnual damage from moths is equal to half the annual loss from fire. But in war time, even more important than the money loss is the waste of scarce materials and manpower.

In putting away wool garments and blankets, Miss Deihl says, label each box or bag clearly. This will enable anyone to find an article without breaking the seal on any other package. Brown paper gum tape is good to use to seal garment bags and boxes. When hanging garments, be sure to tape around the hanger hole and the entire opening that is folded over.

Storage planned so that those garments and blankets that will be used first are on top also is advisable to save unnecessary lifting and handling.

Paradichlorbenzene flakes sprinkled generously between the folds of materials kill moths. Napthalene crystals and many other moth preventatives only repel moths, so the consumer should read the label carefully before buying. Extension specialists recommend using the flakes at the rate of one-fourth pound in an average-size box or trunk. Flakes may be placed in bag and hung on the same hanger as clothing stored in garment bags.

Where would we be today if our forefathers had gone their separate ways at their own convenience? When this nation was in its infancy, neighbor gave neighbor a helping hand. That spirit expanded 13 struggling colonies into a vast, united nation.

Today our country is calling upon every one of us to enlist in a great awakening of that early American creed of helping ourselves by helping our neighbors. Sharing our automobiles is as easy as it is helpful. Wherever we go, there's somebody going our way. When we give him a lift, we give Uncle Sam a lift on the way to Victory.

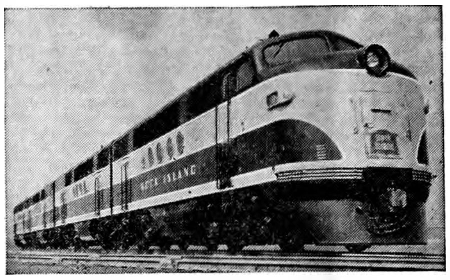
NEW POWERFUL FREIGHT DEISELS PULL ROCK ISLAND WAR TIME FREIGHT



This "Hercules of the Rails," the first of nine new Diesel-electric locomotives to be delivered to the Rock Island Lines, is among the largest and most powerful in the world. The 5,400 horsepower giant, with an engineer's cab at each end so that it can be operated in either direction without being turned around, is 190 feet long, and is geared for speeds up to 70 miles an hour. On its first assignment, "Hercules" left Chicago pulling 135 loaded freight cars, a train a mile and one-quarter long, carrying over 4,600 tons of war freight. Three of these locomotives are now in service on the Rock Island System.

The addition of the new freight locomotives is part of the Rock Island's Diesel-electric power program inaugurated in 1937, when the road placed in service the first of its 15 streamlined Diesel-powered passenger trains, the Rockets.

The first of this type of locomotive was built by the Electro-Motive Division of General Motors in 1939, and the following year proved its power, speed, flexibility, availability and economy of operation in an 83,000 mile run over the major railroad systems, including the Rock Island Lines.

One of the first railroads to utilize Diesel-electric power extensively, the Rock Island now has a total of 113 Diesel locomotives, 19 of them operating on passenger runs and the remainder in road freight, and switching and yard service.

Because of the extensive use of the Rock Isand's Diesel-powered Rocket trains over the entire 8000-mile system, the road is already well equipped with facilities for fueling and maintaining the new freight locomotives.

The Rock Island established a separate Automotive Equipment maintenance section of the operating department in 1941, and this department is staffed by a group of technicians who have been especially trained in the maintaining of Diesel power.

PERPETUAL HALLOWE'EN?

When I was a small boy we kids used to go out every Hallowe'en and upset chicken houses and culverts and things. It was fun.

There are some parlor economic pranksters in this country who get this same sort of fun out of upsetting any American institution a few years old.

Somehow I, myself, feel there must have been a lot of good in American business or it wouldn't have brought the country the many long stretches of prosperity it has enjoyed through the years.

Just because America had a share of the world-wide depression in the 1929-30's I can't see why we should have continuous Hallowe'en henceforth, upsetting the factories, businesses and industries which are really the sources of jobs.

Change 'em, some, sure. (I don't know a business man alive who wants to go back to a lot of the old ways.)

But as for pushing industry completely over into the creek — that's just a Hallowe'en whim of economic imps, I think.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Did you hear that Tom is going to be inducted into the Army next week, Judge?"

"Yes, Frank told me this morning down at the barber shop. Our town's got a lot of men in the service now, Jim. In fact, all towns have. I was just reading in the paper where there are more than 10,000,000 men away from their homes in the armed forces. And, from all reports, they're doing a grand job bringing victory closer every day.

"We folks at home have a mighty big obligation to those 10,000,000 fighting men. We've got to produce the food to keep them well fed. We've got to keep them supplied with the ammunition and equipment they need to finish their job. We've got to help the Government pay for all these supplies our men need by buying more and more War Bonds. We'll have another big chance to do that by helping to put the 5th War Loan drive over the top, Jim.

"And, in addition, we must be sure that while they're away and can't express their opinions, we don't go voting on and deciding any things that will displease them when they come back."

Miss Casey, a graduate of the two-year course at Iowa State Teachers College, is a teacher of many year's successful experience, having taught at Hubbard, Parkersburg, and this last year at Hampton. She is attending summer school this summer at the University of Colorado at Boulder.

The high school corps will again include three men if present draft policies remain unchanged during the coming school year. Miss Margaret Hansen, who was graduated from Iowa State Teachers College this spring and who lives in Cedar Falls, has signed to teach vocal and instrumental music next year. Miss Hansen is a major in public school music and has had considerable experience and training as a musician in both the vocal and the instrumental field. She is an accomplished organist and pianist, and also plays the flute. As a flutist she has been for several summers a member of the well-known Cedar Falls municipal band. She has also been a member of the college band and orchestra, as well as the college women's chorus.

Several candidates are being considered for the third grade position, and it is expected that the vacancy will be filled by the middle of June. At that time Superintendent Johnson plans to leave for Minneapolis for six weeks, where he will attend the first term of the summer session at the University of Minnesota.

Lt. Clara Jane Courson

A WAC In Australia

G-I's Want News From Home

Mrs. R. E. Courson received the first letter from her daughter, Lt. Clara Jane Courson, dated May 14, after she had arrived with a contingent of WACs "somewhere in Australia." Lieut. Courson writes an interesting description of what she has seen of Australia, and particularly of the homesickness of the American boys who have been away from the U. S. A. for many months. Her letter, in part, is as follows:

"Dear Mother and all—

It really was a wonderful trip, but you simply cannot imagine the joy we felt when land was first sighted. . . As we pulled up to the dock, the band was playing and we were royally welcomed by a bevy of news-reel cameras, flowers, Aussies and G-I's . . . Then on to awaiting busses, through the city and to the camp.

"The people waved to us as we went through the streets, and we really looked around. All the houses have red tile roofs, and most of them are small with very well-kept lawns and lots of flowers. We are in the autumn season here and the leaves are beginning to turn. . . every yard it seems has big, beautiful poinsettias in bloom. . . The climate is similar to that of San Francisco, warm during the day when the sun is shining, and unbearably cold at night and in the morning.

"The two meals a day we had on the ship were okay, but the food these G-I's cook for us is far superior even to that of the Officer's mess in Oglethorpe—or maybe it's just that we are so hungry.

"The Australians are very nice and very like Americans except for their accent . . . Australia seems a lot like the States, although they are several years behind us in modern improvemens.

"The first night we were here they gave two big dances in town for us. . . We had about ten minutes to get ready. . . that was time enough for a quick shower, but when I turned on the water and it was hot, it was almost too much for my feeble mind to conceive! Funny how quickly one gets accustomed to washing one's self and one's clothes in cold water in a helmet—and being grateful just to have water and not salt!

"Getting off the busses and into the dance was a terrific experience. Numerous policemen vainly attempted to hold back the clamoring G-I's who just wanted to see or touch an American girl. They were so terribly happy to see us that I know we all felt like queens.

"Most of the boys have never seens Wacs before, as they have been over here so long. Most of those I talked to have been here 21, 28 or 33 months, and these men I am speaking of are combat troops, not white collar workers. They clamor for news of home. More than anything else they say, "Tell us what it's like back in the States. Are they having a hard time of it? Is there much rationing?" and always they add, "Have they forgot-

BUY MORE THAN EVER BEFORE—

The crucial hour is at hand! Right now. Uncle Sam needs the help of every fighting American both at home and abroad—more than at any time since the war started.

The boys in uniform are doing O. K. Workers in our industrial plants are turning out the planes and guns and tanks on schedule. Farmers and ranchers are breaking records in food production, despite handicaps.

But when it comes to buying War Bonds to pay for all this, we've got a job to do—the biggest job of its kind in all our history.

Uncle Sam can't go on supplying our fighting men with the tools they need and must have to win this war unless the money is there to pay for it. The money must come from the people—from YOU. And because War costs are mounting higher than ever before, we must buy MORE BONDS than ever before.

Belmond and Wright County will open the Fifth War Loan campaign with "V-Pledge Day" on Friday, June 9, when all citizens will be asked to appear at their various polling places and sign pledges for bonds to be purchased sometime between the dates of June 12 and July 8.

Make up your mind now that you are going to BUY MORE THAN BEFORE. . . Uncle Sam is depending on our boys over there and they're not letting him down. We at home have the same responsibility! BUY MORE THAN EVER BEFORE.

PRIMARY ELECTION IS MONDAY, JUNE 5

Monday, June 5, is Primary Election Day in Iowa, and although preelection political campaigns have been comparatively quiet this year, it is still of the utmost importance that all citizens who have reached voting age, should exercise their privilege of voting.

Farmers are busy, business men are busy, housewives are busy, but it only takes a few minutes to cast your vote, and polling places are so situated that no one needs to travel very far to do this.

It takes a majority of the votes cast to elect a candidate for public office. No one, therefore, who hasn't taken the time to vote at election time, has any reason or right to criticize the choice of a candidate by the majority vote of the people.

ALL KINDS OF BATTLES—

The U. S. Army and Marine forces have all kinds of battles to fight. Foremost among them is the battle against our Nazi and Jap enemies with guns, tanks, bombs, torpedoes. .

But our fighting men, now scattered to the "four corners of the earth" have other battles to fight, which are often as dangerous as facing gunfire: the battle against disease, which is lurking everywhere in outrageous proportions in war torn areas, is one of them.

Even here at home members of the armer forces have been engaged in battles—they have been called in to preserve order in labor-industry strike disputes, and more recently they have given their utmost to fight the forces of nature, helping to guard human lives and property against the raging torrents of floods caused by ceaseless rains.

WITH OTHER EDITORS—

Such a colossal undertaking as the invasion of Europe is beyond the comprehension of the average person, but it does seem sheer nonsense to think the nazis can prepare adequate defense for 2,000 miles of coast line. It may be set down as a certainty that military leaders long since have made estimates of the situation and have built their offensives accordingly. This, of course, does not mean the nazis are going to be disposed of without heavy losses on our side, but the nazi claim they have erected an impregnable fortress is a myth.—Swea City Herald.

Vacillating policy in the matter of man power and induction of men into the armed services has worked an injustice upon many patriotic Americans. We have heard of more than one instance where men have given up good positions or disposed of business enterprises on the understanding that they were to be called, only to learn later that their services were not needed for the present. Such men are out on a limb. They have given up their means of livlihood in good faith, in order to answer what they understood was the call of duty. Now they are informed that duty does not call.

The situation is unfortunate, to say the least, and it seems that it might have been avoided if those in authority had been able to make up their minds as to what they wanted to do. It makes no difference to a brass hat in Washington, but it makes a lot of difference to the man who has given up his job or sold his business, only to find that he is not wanted after all.

A definite, clear cut man power policy would have prevented all this. It is unfortunate that it has not been provided.—Grinnell Herald-Register.

It appears as certain as anything political can be in advance, that Franklin D. Roosevelt will be the democratic nominee for president while Thomas E. Dewey will head the republican ticket. This situation will make a battle royal for New York State. Roosevelt has never failed to carry New York while Dewey was elected governor by almost 65,000 majority. It does not necessarily follow but the chances are the candidate who carries the Empire state this year will be elected.—Webster City Freeman.

Early reports from the fishing fronts indicate that there are plenty of fish to be had in Iowa streams this year. But the latest reports from the gasoline rationing front indicate that an unusually large proportion of those fish will still be there when the season is over.—Cedar Rapids Gazette.

It has been noticed that a goodly percent of the number of cars which come to town the past several days have been driven by women. This means just one thing—the men are attempting to be in the field. With farm women driving a car is not a luxury but a necessity. It is the wife who runs the errands, who goes for repairs and takes the cream and eggs to market. In this respect alone she replaces at least "a half a man" on the farm.—Thornton Enterprise.

A showdown is coming between organized labor and the people. Prior to his recognition of the necessity of the labor vote next fall, President Roosevelt had said that he would never sign nor would congress ever pass a law compelling any individual to join a union to gain the privilege of working. It certainly seems unconstitutional. That a man has to join a union or go without labor with which to earn money to buy bread for his family, seems unthinkable. And still that is exactly what the closed shop means—it is closed to all but union workers.— Humboldt Republican.

READING & WRITING

BY Edwin Seaver AND Robin McKown

Vicki Baum has followed her immensely popular "Grand Hotel" with another novel about a German hostelry—"Hotel Berlin '43." Hotel Berlin, like its predecessor, has a varied assortment of fascinating guests, but things have changed radically under a war-torn Nazi regime.

VICKI BAUM

The windowpanes are still shattered from the last air raid. The heavy brocade curtains have tears in them, and the stuffing is coming out of the deep luxurious chairs. But the hotel is still the best there is, and to it come people of high position, Rumanian officers, Nazi officials, famous actresses. To it also comes Martin Richter, underground leader, and there he is hidden in the deep wine cellars by two sympathetic French waiters.

On the walls of houses, on the cars of the crowded underground trains, there often appears a scrawl, "You can kill Richter—but you can't kill his spirit." Service crews go around and wipe it off; guards are posted to watch the exposed spots. But the next morning, there is the handwriting again.

The influence which Martin Richter, who is a symbol of courage and freedom to the oppressed, has upon the residents of the hotel, is the main thread of Miss Baum's novel.

The Greeks of Homer's time, writes H. E. Jacobs, in "Six Thousand Years of Bread," were contemptuous of the Scythians, who ate oats like their horses. The Romans cherished the same contempt for the oat-eating Germans. And many centuries later, Samuel Johnson, in his famous English dictionary, defined oats as "food for men in Scotland, horses in England." To which, it is said, the indignant Scots replied, "England is noted for the excellence of her horses, Scotland for the excellence of her men."

Storekeepers in America's early days were somewhat indifferent to orderly inventories, Thomas D. Clark tells us, in "Pills, Petticoats and Plows." There is the story, for instance, of the merchant who couldn't find the handle to a pump he had ordered. In an impassioned letter, he informed the wholesale house that they had maliciously left him in the lurch. But before he could seal the letter a boy came in to say he had found the handle. Instead of destroying the letter and forgetting the matter, the storekeeper added the mildly apologetic postcript, "Never mind what I have said. We have found the darn thing," and sent it on.

None of us have been able to complain, as yet, about the chow—roast beef, roast pork, chops, chicken, salads, ice cream, pie, etc. A few of the eighteen year olds in the car behind have developed the habit of going up to the diner for seconds when the skipper comes around for a final check to see if everyone has eaten. Don't believe they're putting anything over on him, even though they do get by with it.

Have turned our watches back one hour already at Bismarck and will do it again at Missoula. That means 2 hours of lost sleep coming home, but it also means we'll get home 2 hours quicker.

Never have enjoyed scenery so much as that we saw climbing up to Homestake Pass, 6,328 feet above sea level, from Livingston. And every word said about the beauty of the valley in which Butte lies, as you see it from the top of the Pass, is true.

Dear Gang:

This column is being written while on the train just after leaving Butte, Montana with 350 miles yet to go to reach Farragut, our destination. We've been in these troop sleepers for three days and nights.

P—P

Speaking of Butte, we all agree that it is the nicest city along the road we've seen yet. During the 10 minute stop at the station 5 women of the Butte Women's Voluntary Service Association met the train with their arms full of Hershey bars, cigarettes, matches and postal cards. We were told to take as much as we wanted, it was free.

P—P

In visiting with one of the ladies she told me the organization numbered 350 women from that city. 40 per cent of them are service men's wives, the rest are high school girls and older women. They have been organized for more than two years—meet 7 trains daily at 3 depots at a cost of nearly $50 a day. The money is raised through gifts, dances, sales, etc. Yes, Butte won't be quickly forgotten by us.

P—P

After leaving Des Moines Sunday night, having spent the night in this hotel (?) on wheels the railroad routed us east to West Liberty, north to Cedar Rapids and back to Iowa Falls. It took us 11 hours and 20 minutes to go the 70 miles from Des Moines to Iowa Falls.

P—P

The trip, all the way, has been interesting, the group of thirty in our car have gotten well acquainted. After all we have one thing in common, all but one of us are fathers, and he said he would be, too, if he could find the girl. The closer we get to Farragut the more sore our arms get. It's all in our head, though.

P—P

Going through central North Dakota the sight of thousands of ducks in the marshes made me think I should warn some of the local hunters to get an extra shell or two. One or two of 'em might fly over Belmond. Incidentally a few of us are going to get off the train for 10 minutes in Mandan N. D. on the way. There's a store there whose shelves look just like our No. 79 in Belmond used to look before Carl Wenzel went to California and took it all with him. And the price—ah, that's the best part of it—very reasonable, very.

One of the boys on board here told about a friend who gave the barber 50c not to cut his so short. The clippenman put the coin in the center of the top of the "boot's" head, went snip, snip, buzz, buzz and the only hair left was the long tuft under the coin which the barber kept.

Dear Miss KITCHEN..
1. My young son won't drink his quota of milk!
2. How can I make the most of my ham and bacon drippings?
3. Tell me a way to "glorify those" pork chops!

1. Try a molasses milk shake! To a glass of cold milk, add 1 tablespoon of molasses. Stir until blended A few drops of flavoring, a pinch of cinnamon or a bit of grated nutmeg adds a varied flavor.

2. Eggs are delicious fried in either bacon or ham drippings. When muffin or quick-bread recipes call for melted shortening, use either for perfect results. When cooking dried navy or lima beans, add some of these drippings for delicious flavor. They may also be used on your cooked green vegetables such as bacon drippings on snap beans.

3. Trim six pork chops, dredge well with flour, sprinkle with pepper and salt, and let stand for 10 minutes. Heat 2 tablespoons shortening in frying pan, and brown chops well. Add one sliced onion and contents of a small can of evaporated milk. Cover and cook gently over low gas flame for 1½ hours. The milk will cook away, so add water to make a rich brown gravy. Serve with mashed po-

2 eggs
2½ cups milk
1 pound sausages
1 cup sliced mushrooms
3 tablespoons enriched flour
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Remove crust from unsliced loaf of day-old bread. Divide entire loaf into 6 thick slices. Guadalcanal Rain

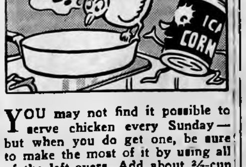
U. S. Marine Corps Photo

Guadalcanal, scene of the first United Nation offensive operation against Japan, has two seasons—the rainy season, between November and May, and the wet season. "White men leave and natives die" during the rainy season, according to natives. Above is a typical Guadalcanal scene during the rainy season. One Marine reports that every time he crawls into his "sack" (bed) he gets seasick.

Aid to Enemy

"Any American who wilfully neglects to pay his taxes on time or to invest every cent he can in War Bonds is surely giving aid and comfort to the enemy . . . We have a job to do and we are all called for service to our country. Our dollars are called to service too. Let us all ask ourselves, 'Shall we be more tender with our dollars than with the lives of our sons?' " — Secretary Morgenthau.

The Kitchen Front



YOU may not find it possible to serve chicken every Sunday—but when you do get one, be sure to make the most of it by using all of the left-overs. Add about ⅔-cup of cooked noodles to 1 cup of left-over diced chicken and broth, and combine with a can of corn. Place in a pan over medium gas flame and thicken mixture with crumbled salted crackers. Add 1 teaspoon butter or margarine, and serve.

A small amount of left-over chicken will make a delicious chicken salad. Combine small pieces of chicken with diced celery, add mayonnaise and salt and mix thoroughly. Serve on crisp lettuce.

A small quantity of pieces of left-over chicken and remaining broth or gravy added to fluffy white rice and seasoned to taste, makes a satisfying main dish.

WAR FACTORY

I think we should be mighty good to the men who are fighting this war.

So I am horrified at the suggestion of Mr. Ickes that the government do something pretty cruel to the war veterans on their return—give them the factories the government has built for war work.

This would be handing the boys something like 16 billion dollars' worth of white elephants.

What would the soldiers make in the buildings? Baskets? Who would run them? Top sergeants?

Mr. Ickes shows a total misconception of industry. He ought to know that an industry is more than a building. The average industry is the result of years, maybe decades, maybe generations of planning, worry, saving, striving, building, growing.

I don't know what to do with the buildings. If they can be sold on some very reasonable basis to going industries, that will give jobs to a lot of soldiers.

Save Corn—Sell Corn

Never in the history of this country has the need for corn for critical war and civilian needs been as great as it is today. Several of the largest corn processing companies, making products badly needed by our fighting men, have had to close because they were unable to get corn.

Many BIG GAIN MINERAL STOCK FOOD users tell us that this combination of high quality proteins will save one-half the corn over no supplement or 1-3 the corn and 1-3 the supplement over most single source protein supplements.

CONGRESSMAN FRED C. GILCHRIST
REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE FOR REELECTION

Experience, Ability & Integrity Make a Good Congressman!

Mr. Gilchrist's achievements in the State Legislature and the National Congress are outstanding. He believes that our first duty is to win the war and to that end he has supported appropriations for the Army, Navy, Air Corps and Lend-Lease.

He says that farmers ask nothing more and should have nothing less than parity and equality with others. He supports soil conservation, rural electrification, farm to market highways, and many other farm measures.

In recent days Mr. Gilchrist has addressed the Congress in favor of the G. I. Bill of Rights for soldiers. Gilchrist supported adjusted compensation and mustering out pay. He helped to simplify income tax returns, and to guarantee bank deposits, and to give social security and old age assisttance. He believes in free enterprise and individual opportunity and is against bureaucracy and wasteful spending of public funds.

Such service and fidelity to his constituency merits support.

Mental Exams For Air Corps Resumed

The authority to resume giving the official army air forces aviation cadet mental entrance examinations to young men who are between the age of 17 and 17 years and nine months, even though actual enlistment in the reserve will not be accepted until a future date, has just been granted to the Civil Air Patrol in Iowa by the Commanding General of the Army Air Forces

Regular air corps officers will act in an advisory and coordinating capacity where mental examinations will be conducted in the larger cities of Iowa prior to the closing of high schools for the summer and will be given at the postoffices in Clarion and Belmond, Monday, June 5 at 10 a. m.

Civil Air Patrol officials state the resumption of mental examinations for the air corps enlisted reserve will enable young men to know whether they meet the mental qualifications and to lay plans accordingly. When actual enlistment is resumed, those men who have passed the mental examination will then have only the physical examination to take, which if successfully passed, will qualify them for immediate enlistment in the Air Corps reserve.

"V-Pledge Day" In Wright County Follows Closely After "D-Day"

Urge Signing Bond Pledges Friday, 9th

Quota For Belmond Is $212,860

The Fifth War Loan, which calls for the largest sale of War Bonds yet requested by the U. S. Treasury Department, opens in Wright County with "V-Pledge Day" on Friday, June 9, following closely on the long-awaited "D-Day", which came this week, June 6, 1944.

Citizens all over the county are urged to go to their various polling places (or other designated places) on Friday to sign pledges for the Fifth War Loan, which are to be fulfilled by the purchase of bonds some time between June 12 and July 8.

Roy Henderson, chairman for Belmond, announced yesterday that all citizens in the city of Belmond are requestd to go to the CITY HALL to sign pledges. The hours from 12:00 noon until 10:00 p. m. will be observed in accordance with county plans. Mr. Henderson urges every one to sign pledges on June 9 so that it will not be necessary to make personal solicitations.

Chairman Henderson says, "Show our boys, who are advancing through the white caps of the storm in the English Channel, through Cherbourg, Le-Havre, Caen on their way to Paris and Berlin that we at home are behind them every long hour and every hard mile of the way, not only with our prayers but with every dollar we can dig up for the Fifth War Loan."

In connection with the Fifth War Loan Campaign, a window sticker will be given to bond purchasers when they buy their full quotas, and will be evidence that they have supported the campaign by fulfilling their pledges.

The committee assisting Mr. Henderson in the city of Belmond Friday includes the Misses Carrie Courtney, Eleanor Barry, Ruth Fulton, Mrs. W. H. Dempsey, Mrs. L. M. Helland and Marvis Hake.

Chairmen of the drives in the townships in this area are as follows:

Norway, Orphie Anderson
Belmond, Harold Simerson.
Pleasant, Rex Fetrow.
Iowa, Joe Ziller.
Grant, Stanley Anderson.

Belmond's quota is $212,860; Wright county's, $1,034,000; the state of Iowa, $228,000.000. These figures represent an increase of 16 per cent over the quotas assigned in the Fourth War Loan held in January, but are not in excess of the total amound of bonds sold in past war loan drives.

Auto Use Tax Stamps On Sale June 10

Must Be Displayed On Autos By July 1

E. H. Birmingham, Collector of Internal Revenue for the District of Iowa, announced today that auto use tax stamps in the denomination of $5.00 will be placed on sale in all postoffices and offices of Collectors of Internal Revenue on Saturday, June 10. The stamps will evidence payment of the tax for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1944, and must be purchased on or before that date. The stamps will be serially numbered, will be gummed on the face, and will have provision on the back for entry of the make, model, serial number and state license number of the vehicle.

Sale of the less than $5 denomination use tax stamps in post offices has been discontinued. Such offices will stock the $5 denomination stamps only and motor vehicle owners liable for payment of the use tax for periods of less than a full year must obtain their stamps in lesser denominations from the Collector of Internal Revenue.

It is the desire of the Bureau of Internal Revenue that the use tax stamp shall be placed on the windshield in a location that will not be in conflict with State requirements. Mr. Birmingham stresses the fact that the use tax law has not been repealed and cautions motor vehicle owners that failure to purchase and display the new use tax stamps on vehicles using the public highways after July 1, 1944, will subject the violators to severe penalties imposed by law.

Solution: Custom Work

Suggestion Made By County Extension Office

Machinery renting and custom work among Wright County farmers can do much to meet the heavy demand for custom work entailed by extensive spring rains, according to County Extension Director Aaron R. Bowman.

Farmers with machines which might be operated many more days in a season often are reluctant to do custom work. They fear costly and delayed repairs, often dislike to charge their neighbors for use of machines and they want to save their machines for the period of machinery scarcity.

To overcome objections, C. H. Van Vlack, extension agricultural engineer at Iowa State College, says that custom rates should be high enough to get farmers to do all the custom work needed in the community. Studies have shown that days of annual use have little, if any, bearing on the life of machines kept in good repair.

Van Vlack says that in general, rental rates are on a "time basis—per hour or per day. Custom rates are applied on the "work done" basis. When a machine is rented, the lessee operates it. He and the owner should inspect it before and after the rent period, with the lessee paying for any damages beyond normal war.

Rate figuring may be facilitated by consulting a bulletin, AE-396, available at the County Extension [illegible]s Office. Local conditions, [illegible] prices, and labor rates should govern final price determination.

Illustrating custom rate figuring with the aid of the bulletin, the equipment cost of a 10-hour day might be figured on this basis: tractor, $3.60; combine, $7.80; labor, one man at $6-$8; fuel, 20 gallons at 10 cents; $2; and oil and grease, 50 cents. An additional 30 per cent might be added for owner responsibility caring for the moving machine and other costs, raising the total to $29.20. At a rate of 1.2 acres per hour or 12 acres per day, the per acre cost would be about $2.50.

However, it might well be determined that the operator should have an additional charge of 50 per cent rather than the 30 per cent suggested above. And operating conditions might be severe enough that 10 acres or less per day would be all that is covered, in which case the per acre charge would mount to nearly $3.00 an acre.

When machinery is rented, cost of sharpening shares, shovels sweeps, cutting knives, the cost of binder twine, baling wire and the like should be borne by the lessee. Oftentimes a compromise adjustment for heavy operation in custom work is made by the lessee providing the fuel. The acres covered in a 10-hour day can be estimated conveniently by using a formula which is: width of the machine cut in feet times the feet of machine and miles per hour.

"D-Day" Was Invasion Day at Shahan Farm

"D-Day," June 6, 1944, was also an invasion, in one sense of the word, at the Lee Shahan home.

Seventeen friends and neighbors arrived with tractors and other equipment, and in no time at all overcame the delays in spring work on the Shahan farm caused by rain and by various hardships which the family had suffered recently.

The "invaders" included Arthur Ruka, Merle Ruka, Frank Ostendorf, William Tyrrell, Erven Ruka, Lloyd Pringnitz, Harry Carpenter, Milford Benson, Herman Heginger, Donald Burk, Lee Bamford, Kenneth Burns, Harry Ruka, Wilmer Hauge, Mike Kurtz, Raymond Cline and Paul Lau.

Community Club Is Now Chamber Of Commerce

Is Affiliating With The National

Report on "Smokes For Soldiers Fund

At a meeting of the Belmond Community Club held Tuesday evening, the members present voted to affiliate with the National Chamber of Commerce. The local organization, therefore, will henceforth be known as the Belmond Chamber of Commerce.

This change was made in order to cooperate with General Mills, Inc., and also to further benefit the town and the local business-men, C. C. Christie, president stated today.

Present officers were re-elected for another year as follows: President, C. C. Christie; Vice-President, Fred Thompson; Board of Directors: B. C. Hewlett, Dr. A. M. Larson, George Hake

A report was given by Secretary Hoyt Klemme in regard to the "Smokes for Soldiers Fund." This money is collected in various places of business in Belmond by donations from the public. Mr. Klemme reported that there have been four different shipments of cigarettes to service men in the Pacific theatre of war and that the local Community Club had received many acknowledgements from service men, thanking the organization for the free cigarettes. Persons contributing to this fund may read some of the messages which came on postcards and are attached to the milk-bottle receptacles around town. Each shipment contained 50 cartons of Chesterfields and the next shipment will be sent to the Atlantic Theatre of war. The Belmond Chamber of Commerce urges the public to support this fund since it has been so definitely shown that the cigarettes are reaching the boys overseas.

A committee was appointed to discuss with officers of the American Legion their plans for Legion Day to be held late in July. This committee consists of C. C. Benson, chairman, Dr. Alan M. Nelson and Fred Fulton.

FIFTH WAR LOAN

'TWO ROADS TO ONE DECISION'

By Harry Boyd, Editor
The Gazette, Cedar Rapids, Iowa

Yes, these war bond drives do come close together. No, the pressure doesn't ever seem to let up.

That's right, the taxes and other pay deductions are so heavy now that there's hardly enough left of a paycheck to make ends meet.

War is a tough business, isn't it?

But who ever said it wasn't? Who ever supposed it would be easy or pleasant for a nation of 130,000,000 people to put aside what it was doing and throw nearly all its energies and resources into a big job for which it had no liking and practically no experience?

Of course it's rough. It's roughest for the boys out there in the midst of the fireworks. The demands on them come close together, too. The pressure never lets up much for them, either.

But we expect them to take it. We expect them to face the pounding of enemy guns and bombs until they think their nerves will break if it doesn't stop, and then go on facing it.

We expect them to fight until they feel like dropping in their tracks, and then fight some more. We expect them to die, if necessary, rather than let down.

We should complain that it pinches us to buy extra war bonds!

But maybe that argument palls. Perhaps it's getting tiresome to hear how much easier it is to buy bonds here at home than to do what the boys in uniform have to do in the fighting areas, whether they like it or not.

All right, forget it. Make self-interest the only consideration.

How else can anyone do himself a better turn than by putting his spare cash into war bonds? Where will his money be safer? Where will it pay him a better return and still be quickly available in any unforseen personal emergency? Where will it do more to preserve the buying power of the money he can't put into savings

Either approach leads to the same conclusion. Both the interest of the nation and the interest of the individual make the same urgent appeal: Lend every dollar you can spare to your Uncle Sam.

SOME PRICES ARE VERY HIGH

A recent annoncement by OPA indicated that a program to strengthen price control of apparel and yard goods had been presented to Price Administrator Bowles by the OPA consumer advisory committee.

The announcement said "The program is designed to stop price inflation in clothing and textiles, to check quality deterioration and to make more low-priced goods available."

It has been evident for the past year or more that the administration's effort to check inflation was not working in all directions. Food prices, on one hand, have been controlled pretty well; the prices have gone up but have not showed an unreasonable increase. On the other hand, prices of clothing, particularly women's and children's clothing, have in many cases doubled, and this increase in price has been accompanied by a decided decrease in quality. It is time that this situation is being studied and investigated.

TEACHER PROBLEM SOLVED EARLY

Superintendent Johnson announced last week that all positions in the teaching staff of the Belmond schools were filled for the next school year with one exception.

Last summer the administration of the local school was kept busy hiring and rehiring teachers to fill an extremely high percentage of vacancies. Teachers, like a good many other people, were restless. Some of them wanted to go to new places to teach, others wanted to give up their profession to try something new. And what was true in the teaching field, was also true in many other lines of work.

The Belmond school is fortunate this summer to get the teacher problem solved so early. More than that, however, the situation in the local school might be considered a good omen, since it is more than likely duplicated in other school systems. It may well be an indication that some of our war-time restlessness is being controlled if not entirely overcome.

WITH OTHER EDITORS—

Remember the drought we had a few years back when our farmers got only from 50% to 75% of a crop because everything was so terribly dry. Even in those days no matter which direction you drove from Eagle Grove the farther you got away from Wright and Humboldt counties, the drier it was and the smaller the percentage of crop was raised.

Now today the reverse is true. Everything is being flooded. We had occasion to drive north and west Saturday and the further we went the wetter it was. Instead of just a few fields being under water it was much easier to count the ones that were out of water. Many, many fields were still untouched by spring work. Last year's corn stalks were sticking out of several inches of water. And from the reports in the daily papers that is quite general all around the state except here in Wright and Humboldt counties.

Yes, we may be a little wet but we aren't standing under water and we haven't been washed away and we can still truthfully say we are the garden spot of Iowa. For which we are truly thankful.—Eagle Grove Eagle.

Much of the time since the establishment of the office of war information, there has been an open season on that agency. Just about everybody with a gripe against any restraint imposed by the war found OWI a convenient target.

This week, however, when the question of financing war agencies was before the house appropriations committee, there was a significant departure from that established pattern. Instead of rebuke, there was praise. And the praise was supplemented by a 20 million boost in support funds.

Here's a paragraph out of the Associated Press report of the committee's action:

"The appropriations committee commended OWI for 'making a valuable contribution to the war effort and in direct aid of military operations.' Even the domestic branch, which last year was assailed sharply by the committee and threatened with abolition, won praise for 'fulfilling an important function as now organized and conducted.' "

It's just possible that there's a moral in all of this for those persons who habitually resolve all doubts againt those who are charged with responsibility for the conduct of our war in all of its various phases.—Mason City Globe Gazette.

Do you hear anything in Washington about the coming big Allied offensive? You do—plenty. Practically all of it is precisely what you can hear at any Cedar Rapids luncheon table or informal bull session. Apparently even the best informed news men in the capital don't know any more about when or where the invasion will come than we do.—Cedar Rapids Gazette.

Prittle... Prattle...

By R. H. Gowdy, A|S

Dear Gang:

Another wonderful day has gone by at Farragut Tech—Wonderful because it's one less day to stay here. The longer I'm here, the more I feel like I am back in college, only under military discipline. That is the way it should have been when I went to college the first time.

P—P

The four men who went to Farragut together from Wright county have done all right. We stuck together all the way through, ending up in the same company. Since that time each one of us has been given a responsible job: Capt. of the guards; Cpl. of the Guards, Master at Arms and Company Clerk. I think we all welcome the extra work to keep us busy for sure during every minute of our waking time between 4:30 a. m. and 9:00 p. m. In addition we're allowed extra privileges such as cutting the hour of setting up exercises occasionally, a private laundry and are allowed to smoke in the office at any time. We also get a chance to go to Ships Service more often.

P—P

There are now 41 companies in Camp Bennion, one of the six camps here. Each company totals from 120 to 135 men. I marvel at the way between 5 and 6 thousand men are fed in an hour and a half, three times a day. The mess hall is a huge affair and to give you some idea of the size, just imagine Hokel's Cafe spread out over two-thirds of a square block and then turned into a Cafeteria for six separate lines of people to be served at one time. What's more, if Henry had the same set-up for getting help as they do here he wouldn't have a worry in the world along that line, for each week one company in the camp is detailed to do the work in the mess hall.

P—P

Our company has, each day, a certain (censored) list of men who failed to comply with some rule of the Navy or Barracks, and they're given the dirty jobs for the day. Even a slightly unclean towel at inspection gets them one of those jobs. Can remember when a dirty towel at home worried me not a bit, but I know that it did Miriam even though she never put me on that kind of a list.

Was sitting in the smoking pit last Friday when someone spoke to me. Turned around and there was Doug Walrod who had just come in that day and is now located topside in our barracks. .. almost like "old home" week around here without the home and all that goes with it.

P—P

I do miss that morning and afternoon cup of coffee at Brewers and the extra cups of coffee and cokes drank elsewhere, throughout the day. Can see the early morning breakfast club as it gathers in the West End: Lunk Helland, Harold and Ardell Johnson, Jack Meints, Ben Blake, Claire Bonte, Ace White, Wayne Springer, the Tudor boys, Glenn Russell, Dave Erickson and others.

P—P

Wouldn't mind being able to walk in on the regular monthly business meeting (?) of the Fire Company next Monday night. There is one swell bunch of men—a democratic organization if there ever was one.

P—P

A bunch of recruit petty officers was sitting around in the office this morning before chow, shooting the bull, and before we knew it, all of us were talking about what we were going to do first when we get home after "boot" training. Then we reaized that we still had about six weeks to go. There are some wonderful things going to happen. I for one am afraid that the habit of getting up at 4:00 a. m. will be so strong that I won't be able to sleep after that hour when I get the chance.

P—P

While young in years, our C. P. O. or skipper, is old in the experience of turning out companies. Ours, Company 608, will be his 12th in 22 months.

Dear Miss
KITCHEN..

1. What is Chinese Rice?
2. My home-made pies always boil over!
3. Tell me a different way to serve my home-canned tomatoes.

1. Chinese Rice is made like this: Cut ¼ pound boiled ham or cooked pork into small pieces, add ⅛ teaspoon minced garlic and brown in oil in a skillet; add 2 tablespoons soy sauce; mix well. Then add ¾ cup cooked rice, 2 or 3 finely chopped young green onions, 1 tablespoon minced green pepper. Mix well, pour over mixture 2 well-beaten eggs, cover skillet, and cook all gently until rice is heated and eggs are done.

2. A small funnel or a 4-inch stick of macaroni placed upright in the center of your pie will keep juices from overflowing into the oven—for the excess will rise in the funnel instead.

3. Try a tomato casserole; sauté stale bread cubes in hot fat until golden brown, then pour tomatoes into a casserole, top with cubes, add more tomatoes and again more bread cubes. Sprinkle with grated cheese and bake until cheese is brown in the oven of your gas range, preheated to 400 degrees F.

Following congratulations a reception was held in the church parlor for 80 guests. The tables were attractively decorated with candles, ribbon grass, lily of the valley and tulips. The bridal table was centered with a three-tier wedding cake, topped with a white bell and a miniature bride and groom.

The couple left the same afternoon for a brief trip and will be at home after May 29 on a farm near Meservey.

'FIX MY BUDDY FIRST'

So pleaded a badly burned sailor, though his scorched flesh hung in shreds.

His selflessness should echo in the heart of every American as a stirring example of how our fighting men have sub-ordinated their personal desires to everything else that helps towards making our country secure again. You've seen them, several million strong, laying everything aside they've cherished for years and marching off to balance the books against foul blows like Pearl Harbor, Wake Island, Bataan.

But how about you? Who are you "fixing up first?" December 7, 1941, proved with soul searing clarity that no man, woman or child could afford to place his personal needs before those of his country.

It's a simple job, this buying War Bonds. You don't have to blast your way through a hail of ack ack fire or lay for hours in a muddy fox hole. Yet it is vitally important that you fully uphold your end of this task that faces us all.

Special for Chickens

Besides the proteins, fats, carbohydrates, and minerals chickens must have for growth and energy, at least a dozen different vitamins are recognized as indispensible for the normal operation of the body processes and rapid, sound all around development. Some of these vitamins are found in the grasses and farm grains but rarely in sufficient abundance to support modern demands for rapid growth and early egg production.

Big Gain Developing Mash is especially made to develop hardy, vigorous chickens that will be ready for early markets, or able to stand the strain of heavy, long egg production periods. It is rich in the best known natural sources of vitamins. It has proved itself best for a host of poultry raisers who will accept no subsidies.

Ask your dealer for Big Gain Developing Mash.

To Sponsor Ten Acre Corn Yield Contest

Farm Bureau Announces Rules For Entering

The Directors of the Wright County Farm Bureau voted to sponsor the 10 acre corn yield contest in Wright County for 1944.

The contest in Wright County will be limited to commercial adapted hybrids. This rule was adopted so that management practices used in growing corn in the high yielding fields would be of value to other farmers in the county.

The contest is open to any farmer in Wright County who qualifies according to the rules of the Iowa Corn and Small Grain Growers' Association, the state sponsoring agency.

A Master Corn Growers Medal will be awarded by the Iowa Corn and Small Growers Association to all entrants whose fields produce 100 bushel or more per acre in accordance to the rules. A special certificate is awarded to yield of 125 bushels per acre or more.

The name and address of each entrant, together with an entry fee of 50c for each entrant, must be supplied to the Wright County Farm Bureau office at Clarion on or before July 1st.

The standards set for the 1944 10 acre corn yield contest are as follows: (Representatives of the local sponsors will check entrants whose fields indicate a yield of 100 bushels or more per acre.)

a. At least 3 individuals must enter the local contest.

b. The yield must be from 10 acres n a rectangular or square block.

c. The yield must be calculated on the basis of one sample taken from each acre in the contest area. The length of each acre sampled shall not be more than two times its width.

d. (1) In checked corn the yield must be on 50 consecutive hills in a row, including missing hills, and no adjustments are to be made for missing hills. (2) In drilled corn the length of row harvested must be EXACTLY 50 TIMES the width between the rows. (Example: Where rows are 40 inches apart the length of row harvested must be 166 feet and 8 inches.)

e. The yield must be calculated on a uniform basis of 15 per cent moisture, ears, selected at random, to be taken from each harvested 50 hills.) The shelled corn for the moisture sample must be placed in a moisture proof container.

f. The rows must be not less than 36 inches apart.

g. Information indicated on proper farms must be supplied to the Iowa Corn and Small Grain Growers' Association by Nov. 20, 1944.

h. This contest in Wright County is limited to commercial adapted hybrids.

Changes Made In 4-H Boys Exhibit Rules

Two Enforced This Year, Third in 1945

Three changes have been made in boys' 4-H club rules. Two will be enforced this year, but one will not be effective until 1945, Aaron R. Bowman, county extension director, announces.

The regulation changes were voted last month by a committee of county extension directors meeting to lay plans for the 4-H Club program for 1945. Most important changes in the state regulations concern exhibiting at fairs and shows.

After this year, a 4-H member may not exhibit at more than two statewide or interstate shows. That means that one may exhibit a baby beef at the Sioux City Interstate Show or at the Ak-Sar-Ben and the International but not at all three.

The other two new regulations will be effective this year. An animal will be ineligible for future competition after it has gone through a sale ring. The regulation states that, "Any animal going through an auction sale at a fair or show is considered as having changed ownership (even if it is bought back by the original owner) and is not eligible to be exhibited at other fairs or shows as a 4-H animal."

The third regulation requires that an animal must be shown by the owner unless excused by the superintendent of the show. The superintendent must also approve the substitute who will exhibit the animal.

A wartime clause added to the third regulation, however, provides for boys entering military service after enrolling. Bowman points out that he will be considered a member in good standing for the entire year, and some member of his family of club age or another 4-H club member can show the animal for him.

"D-DAY CAME"

The long awaited "D-Day" arrived last week, and the announcement of the invasion of Europe and the continued discriptions of the huge undertaking kept the American people hovering near their radios all through the day and far into the night in much the same manner as they did two and a half years before when the Japs attacked Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941.

But on June 6, 1944, there was quite a different feeling in the hearts of the American people.

Back in December, 1941 we were not prepared very well to fight, we didn't want to fight even though most of us had thought for months that it was inevitable, December 7, 1941, made us MAD, but that didn't keep us from feeling afraid, insecure.

On June 6, 1944—"D-Day" we were still mad. We haven't gotten over the rage we felt toward the Japs for bombing Pearl Harbor or at the Nazis for their destruction in England and for enslaving millions of people in occupied countries.

But our anger today is different. It is accompanied by confidence that our armed forces have the courage and the strength and the equipment to get the job done and that the folks here at home have the willingness to back up the boys by continuing to cheerfully accept the burdens of wartime restrictions and regulations which are so necessary to win complete victory.

DIG DOWN DEEP FOR FIFTH WAR LOAN—

The desperate call in the Fifth War Loan is for American dollars to enable our fighting men to carry through the grim, bloody assault to a successful conclusion and victory.

The Fifth War Loan is a call for your dollars, the dollars in your pocket, the dollars in your savings account.

You must buy WAR BONDS now! More than you bought last time. Whoever you are, ask yourself this question: "What have I done today that some Mother's son should die for me tonight?" Then buy EXTRA BONDS.

Your Government is counting on you. Your boy—and your neighbor's boy—millions of them—are counting on you. Just as desperately as you are counting on them in this fateful hour.

Don't let them down! Do your part—as they are doing theirs.

Dig down, America, dig down Wright county, dig down Belmond—dig down deep! While there is still time. This is America's Zero Hour—Civilization's Zero Hour. BUY MORE BONDS.

THREE WAYS TO ACQUIRE WEALTH—

"There seems to be but three ways for a nation to acquire wealth. The first is by war, as the Romans did, in plundering their conquered neighbors. This is robbery. The second by commerce, which is generally cheating. The third by agriculture, the only honest way, wherein man receives a real increase of the seed thrown into the ground, in a kind of continual miracle."

—Benjamin Franklin.

—V—

WE HONOR HIM ON FATHER'S DAY—

In an age that has seen so many wars that most fathers are in this one or saw service in some other, we make a low bow to all Dads and the part they have played in keeping this country great and strong.

But regardless of the military side, father is always a soldier. His fight for his family never ends. Through bad times and good he must get through with bread for us all. . . and he has done it.

As the family grows he takes great pride in the various advances of each member Maybe he carries a picture or two in his pocket for the right occasion, and he is liable to haul them out on the slightest provocation.

Yes, Dad was a soldier. . . And still is!

WITH OTHER EDITORS—

This period of war prosperity, with net farm income higher than ever before in history, is the time when mortgages should be paid off.

Yet the latest government report shows that the mortgage debt on Iowa farms was slightly greater in early 1943 than in early 1940.

Over the nation as a whole, farm mortgages have been cut, altho not as much as desirable. But Iowa, Minnesota, Indiana, and some of the southern states, have actually increased their mortgage load.

Much of this increase is caused by buying land with a small down payment.

For 1944—which may be the last year of war prices—the rule should be:

Buy no land; stock up on war bonds; pay off the mortgage.—Wallace's Farmer.

Prittle... Prattle....

By R. H. Gowdy, A/S

Dear Gang: Tonight is as good a time as I'll find for the rest of the week to get my copy in. I'm on duty at the desk in Battalion headquarters from 8:00 o'clock until 12 midnight, which is one of the duties of a company yeoman.

P—P

My principal duty during this watch is to check all companies in the barracks, secure and report same to Regimental Headquarters at 9:00 o'clock. From then on the only problem is to keep awake, which a job as you can see from the description of what we did today that follows.

P—P

We hit the deck, as usual, at 4:30 a. m., secured our quarters, ate chow and spent from 8 until 9 on the grinders going through the 16 count manual of arms with our rifles. The next hour was a swim period where we swam 100 yards and trod water for seven minutes, which was easy and pleasant for me in that nice warm water. Also learned how some of the Navy issue can be used as a life preserver in case a life jacket isn't handy when needed. Pillow covers, mattress covers, our white hats, even a pail will hold a man up for many hours when filled with air. This Navy issue wasn't made to use for only one thing.

P—P

After swimming we took an hour's physical exercise, jumping rope and strained away on a hawser at tug-o-war between the two platoons, then to noon chow.

P—P

After chow, found ourselves back on the grinder for two hours, learning the semaphore with signal flags, part of which I missed. Had to take a detail to the cobblers and pick up 108 pairs of shoes that had been half-soled. I must say that if any repair man in my civilian life had treated shoes like they did here, he would do it over or buy a new pair.

P—P

After semaphore we marched to Camp Hill—about 1½ miles—to take a half mile cross country run but found it so crowded our skipper marched us back to the Camp Bennion obstacle course, which was a daisy.

P—P

Also a half mile in length we ran up and down hills, climbed a cargo net and scrambled down a hatchway, jumped over fences and climbed up and fell over walls. We messed our way through a tangle of rope and skinned up a Jacob's ladder. Crawled through a tunnel on our hands and knees and were hand over hand on vertical ladders. Don't believe we've seen the last of the place yet.

P—P

After chow in the evening we attended class from 6 to 7:30 and after a shower the lucky ones fell into bed too tired to dream. From the looks of tomorrow's schedule, it will be even tougher with our day starting at 4:00 a. m. and ending at 10:00 p. m. Oh well, that's what we're here for and the faster they pour it to us the quicker we can get to our real jobs.

P—P

I know this, that after only two weeks here I feel the best physically that I have felt in a long time My muscles have finally decided to make the best of it and quit complaining.

P—P

Just one more opinion! Maybe the soldier boys won't agree, and if not I'd be willing to do my best to prove that a sailor just out of "boot" camp after seven to eight weeks is just as tough, if not more so, and physically fit as any man in the army who has trained for the same period of time.

P—P

I never realized how well an organization can take care of such a large number of men in such things as diet, cleanliness, exercise, education. It is no wonder our Navy is the best in the world.

P—P

By the way, I am just like some of the readers of the Independent who would like to know some of the news that isn't printed.' How about checking up on that detail? That goes for those of you who read this, too. Dick.

RHUBARB

Rhubarb fresh and tender from the family garden, is welcome on the spring menu, says Miss Bertha Stebens, vocational homemaking instructor. Though old-time American housewives believed the stalks of this plant had special health properties and religiously gave it to their families as a spring tonic, its chief value actually lies in its refreshing tart flavor and attractive color which makes it a good appetizer.

The first cuting of rhubarb is the most flavorful, juicy and tender. As the plant grows older, the stems become tougher and more strongly acid.

Trim and cut stalks about 1 inch from leaf spread. Wash thoroughly. The young stems should never be pealed, since color is one of the appetizing qualities of rhubarb. The skin also holds the pieces in shape so that they do not cook down to mushness. Cut in ½ to 1 inch lengths. Add ½ cup sugar to each quart and let stand to bring out the juice. Bring to boil. Rhubarb may be baked rather than boiled before it is packed into the jars.

After precooking, pack the hot rhubarb and syrup which has formed into hot containers to within ½ inch of the top of the jar. Process pints or quarts 10 minutes in the boiling water bath.

In preparing rhubarb for freezing, trim, wash thoroughly and cut into desired lengths. The longer lengths seem to retain a better flavor. Rhubarb may be frozen without sugar or covered with a sugar syrup. Pack in airtight containers, leaving ¼ inch of headspace for quarts and ½ inch for pints. Quick-freeze as soon as possible after rhubarb is packed.

AMERICA'S WAY

Raising a country is something like raising children.

I want my children to have spirit. I want them to be free, happy, independent individuals. I want them to live their own lives—not to be carbon copies of me.

That means I must not try to keep them in the nest too long. I must let them learn to fly, though they will have some falls that will hurt them and me too. I must leave them alone a lot.

Of course I want my children to realize responsibilities. I have to give them a little guidance and discipline—but not nearly as much as my instincts dictate. I could pester them to death with directions if I didn't hold back.

All these things may be right, too, for a government and its citizens. Shall a government encourage its citizens to have spirit and to be individuals? Shall it let them learn to fly? Or shall it produce a nation of mamma's boys, scared to let go of its apron strings?

COME ON AMERICA...
IT'S TIME FOR THE SHIRT

WE'RE hitting our stride in this war. Planes, tanks, guns, supplies . . . and men . . . are flowing in a tremendous stream. But more are needed. The crucial hour is at hand.

That is why Uncle Sam, in the 5th War Loan, is asking us to BUY MORE BONDS THAN EVER BEFORE. We must keep up the pace. We must match the efforts of our men in uniform. They are going at full speed. We can not lag behind. It's time to roll up our sleeves—in fact, to pull off our shirts.

The farmers of America have done a great job of Bond buying up to now. But yesterday's Bonds are today's exploding bombs and shells. Spent bullets can never be used again!

The 5th War Loan is the greatest Drive for Dollars in all history. Our individual quotas are bigger than ever—of grim necessity! So be prepared to buy more than ever before when the Victory Volunteer calls at your house.

Remember, the Victory Volunteer is working for Uncle Sam . . . not himself. He is helping meet an urgent demand for money to finance this war. Don't make him come again. Don't tell him you can't afford more Bonds. Be prepared . . . before he comes . . . to BUY MORE THAN BEFORE!

And Here Are 5 Extra Reasons for Buying More Bonds in the 5th!

1. War Bonds are the best, the safest investment in the world!

2. War Bonds return you $4 for every $3 in 10 years.

3. War Bonds will assure the funds to replace worn-out farm equipment, machinery, and buildings.

4. War Bonds will help win the peace by increasing purchasing power after the war.

5. War Bonds mean education for your children, security for you, funds for retirement.

Calling ALL-CROP HARVESTERS

Harvest More SEED This Year!

Allis-Chalmers All-Crop Harvester Owners! There is an emergency need of SEED for grass and legume crops.

Every All-Crop Harvester owner can be a one-man army in this campaign. Here is the plan:

1. Harvest more high protein seed crops, especially legumes and grasses.
2. Rotate pasturing. Don't pasture too short or too late. Grow an emergency crop of some kind for feed if necessary — but give your hay crop a chance to set seed.
3. Cut hay early, when it's fine-stemmed and high in protein; then harvest the second crop for seed.
4. Have us recondition your All-Crop and attachments under the 24 point Farm-Commando plan, insuring maximum yield of bright, clean seed.

If you are not an All-Crop owner, we may be able to direct you to an owner who does custom work.

RATIONING
came over on The Mayflower

They Rationed Everything

The Pilgrims knew they were ill-prepared for one of the cruelest winters that resolute men, women and children ever had to face. Foreseeing trials that would challenge their endurance, they treasured their scanty store of food and rationed every helping.

But, when a Spring and Summer of strenuous labor rewarded them with an abundant harvest, the Pilgrims were grateful—but not alone for food. They felt they were well on their way toward an established home in a new world, bright with freedom, security and a promising future for their children. America's goal has never changed. And for such a goal rationing is a small price to contribute. "Food Fights For Freedom".

In addition to supplying the armed forces with glider and bomber fuselage frames, wing parts, gun turret parts and foodstuffs, Anheuser-Busch produces materials which go into the manufacture of: Rubber • Aluminum • Munitions • Medicines • B Complex Vitamins • Hospital Diets • Baby Foods • Bread and other Bakery products • Vitamin-fortified cattle feeds • Batteries • Paper • Soap and textiles—to name a few.

What ration points bring to our tables today would have seemed like banquets to generations of our forefathers—but you have Budweiser, too, to make simple wartime meals taste better.

HELPFUL FRIENDS

Will Vaughan, Emmetsburg appreciates the help his friends offer while attempting to land some big fish, but the assistance seems to backfire. Last year, Vaughan lost a big northern pike when Bob Daley offered to help land it. The line broke and the pike escaped. Early this fishing season, Ted Girard tried to assist Vaughan when the latter had hooked a larger northern pike. Girard seized the line and was leading the pike in close to the boat when the line snapped. Later in week, Vaughan and Daly caught several northern pike in Lost Island.

contract, for the account of Commodity Credit Corporation [illegible] sale to processors of vital [illegible] material.

Commodity Credit Corporation will enter into contracts with producers of corn whereby the Corporation will pay at the time the contract is signed 50 cents per bushel on the number of bushels contracted. Upon delivery of the contracted corn to the elevator, the elevatorman will pay the remaining amount due the seller on the basis of class, grade and weight delivered. The elevatorman shall also pay for shelling and delivery (The contract shall be completed in duplicate and returned to the county office when signed by the seller and the person negotiating purchase on behalf of Commodity Credit Corporation. In the case of a sale of only part of the content of a particular bin or crib, the quantity sold may vary not more than 10 per cent from the number of bushels stated in the contract. When an entire crib or bin is offered, payment will be made on the entire number of bushels delivered from such crib or bin.

Sight drafts on Commodity Credit Corporation will be issued by a member of the County Committee for the initial 50 cents payment as directed by the seller. The contract of sale of corn insures the seller of receiving the charges of shelling and trucking for a period of 60 days. The County Committee urges all persons who have corn for sael to make delivery as soon as possible before this order is lifted. Bond Queen Contest In Wright County Opens Friday, June 23rd

4 Winners In State Get Trip To Hollywood

C. of C. Offers $25 Bond To High Belmond Candidate

Wright County is one of many counties in Iowa sponsoring Bond Queen Contests in connection with the Fifth War Loan drive which ends on July 8, with the grand prize in the contest being a free trip to Hollywood which will be awarded to four winners in the state.

The contest for Wright county will begin Friday morning, June 23, and close at midnight, July 8. This contest is open to any girl or woman in the county interested in the promotion of war bond sales.

In the interest of Bond sales and to encourage local candidates in Belmond and vicinity, the Belmond Chamber of Commerce is offering a $25.00 war bond prize to the local candidate receiving the most votes through Belmond issuing agencies which include the First State Bank, Post Office and Lyric Theatre. An advertisement as well as the official entry blank will be found on page eight of this issue.

Each entrant must fill in the Official Entry Blank, which may be clipped from this paper or secured at any bond issuing agency in the county, and send it to the county contest chairman, Mrs. Clyde L Burt, Clarion, or leave at Independent office. The contest is based on the sale of "E" bonds only.

Contestants will solicit their friends to purchase E Bonds during this contest period. When these solicited people purchase their bonds at any of the public War Bond Issuing Offices in Wright County they will receive printed ballots, good for so many votes, on which the purchasers will fill in the name of the queen contestant to whom they wish their votes credited. Each ballot will then be marked with the official war bond stamp. and be placed in a sealed vote box. Votes will be given as follows:

$25 War Bond, 25 votes; $50 War Bond, 50 votes; $100 War Bond, 100 votes; $500 War Bond,. 500 votes; $1000 War Bond, 1,000 votes.

After the close of this contest votes deposited in the various ballot boxes will be counted and audited. The committee of judges is made up of representatives of the newspapers in the county including the Belmond Independent, Chairman; Eagle Grove Eagle; Wright County Monitor; Dows Reporter; Goldfield Gazette.

The state is divided into (4) four districts, based on bond quotas. Wright County is a member of District Group (3) three, comprised of counties with E Bond Quotas of from $400,000 to $750,000. The Bond Queen from the County making the highest percentage of its E Bond Quota in each District will be designated State Queen, and (3) three Maids of Honor, respectively. The four district winners will be awarded a trip to Hollywood of one week, to be entertained by movie stars.

Although Wright county's Queen Contest is carried on during only the last weeks of the Fifth War Loan Drive, the county Queen will be credited with the total E bond purchases issued in this county, based on Federal Reserve figures, during the entire campaign, when she goes to the state party to compete as a district queen.

Since the state and district contest is based on percentages of county quota, county war bond committees are confident that Wright County has a fine chance of sending its queen to Hollywood.

This contest is sponsored by the Retailers Division for the Fifth War Loan, which includes the following: J. J. Eilers, Clarion, state retailers Chairman; C. H. Crowe, Clarion, member of the state retail board. In Belmond, Chas. McGuire, member Wright County Retailers Committee.

5th War Loan Drive Passes Half-way Mark

Local and County Sales Still Under 50% Of Quota

$74,042.75 are the total bond sales in Belmond credited so far to the Fifth War Loan campaign according to latest reports yesterday. Belmond's quota is $212,860.00.

In Wright county so far a total of $405,173.50 in bonds have been purchased towards the county quota of $1,034,000.

Both Roy Henderson and Paul Henry, local and county chairman of the bond campaign respectively are urging the citizens of Wright county to get busy and buy their bonds. They remind them, "With both the local and county total sales still below 50 per cent of the quotas set, we still have a long way to go in the last half of the campaign, which closes July 8, if Belmond and Wright county expect to go over the top."

Anticipate Shortage Of Truck - Bus Tires

There will be a shortage of heavy and medium duty truck and bus tires for replacement purposes during July, August and September, Fred C. Eslick, district manager of the highway transport division of the Office of Defense Transportation at Mason City, Iowa, warned today.

The Office of the Rubber Director allotment to the ODT, as the claimant agency for tires for all forms of domestic transportation, is 795,945 heavy and medium duty truck and bus tires for the third quarter, an increase of about 18 per cent over the second quarter allotment of 674,891 tires in these categories, district manager Eslick said. Ten ply and over tires in sizes 7.00 x 20 and up are substantially below requirements, while the supply of tires in smaller sizes is reasonably adequate, Mr. Eslick expalined.

The number of tires for original equipment on new vehicles in the nation for the third quarter is 160,058, an increase of about 65 per cent over the 97,156 tires required for this purpose in the second quarter. This leaves a total of 635,887 tires remaining for replacement purposes in the third quarter, as compared with a total of 577,735 replacement tires in the second quarter.

"The gain is not great, however" the ODT official warned. "The net effect is that the number of tires available for replacement purposes during the third quarter will exceed the second quarter total by only about 10 per cent, while the normal seasonal increase in replacement demands between the second and third quarter is at least 25 per cent.

"The estimated monthly replacement requirements in sizes 8.25 and up during the third quarter is 165,000 tires," Mr. Eslick said, "whereas the total production allotment available for this purpose will permit an average monthly rationing quota of not more than 140,000 tires. This means a net deficit of approximately 25,000 tires a month."

In the face of this shortage, it is imperative that truck and bus operators practice the most rigorous conservation measures, the ODT officials warned.

"Otherwise we may not be able to avoid a severe curtailment of essential motor transport services. Excessive speeds and over-loading must be iliminated; tire maintenance practices must be kept at the highest possible level; and re-caps must be substituted for new tire replacements in every case where possible."

Belmond Has Home Canning Clinic 28th

Information Center At ABC Grocery

Home canning has played a big part in the war effort by releasing commercially canned food for the armed services. The home maker will again be asked to do her part by continuing to preserve the family food supply. There will be questions regarding methods of canning or freezing and causes for food spoilage constantly arising Some of the new canning equipment may also be strange.

In an effort to help home makers, canning information centers are being established. They will be held regularly at different times during the canning season.

The first information center in Belmond will be on Wednesday, June 28th at the ABC Pals' Grocery store window located across from the hotel on main street. It will be held from 2:00 p. m. to 5:00 p. m. and from 7:00 p. m. to 9:00 p. m. There will also be a pressure cooker gauge tester to test the guage from cookers. Gauges should all be tested regularly at the beginning of the canning season in order to determine their accuracy. It takes only a few minutes to test gauges and it is necesary to bring only the guage.

Please feel free to come in and ask any questions and to look over the exhibit.

Lt. Johnson In Belmond

Home After Pacific Duty

Describes Life on New Zealand

Lieut. Paul Johnson arrived in Belmond on the 8th of June, having landed in San Francisco by plane a few days before, after 18 months' duty in the Pacific area.

Entering the U. S. N. R. in September, 1942, Lieut. Johnson was assigned to overseas duty just six weeks later and was sent to New Zealand where he spent the next 14 months. He has been doing dental work the entire time he has been gone from the states and says, "There was plenty of work to do. We did lots of operative work, extractions and made many full and partial plates."

Johnson describes New Zealand as an interesting and pleasant country, and the people living there as hospitable. He found the climate wonderful, similar to that of southern California, and he informs us that on the North Island of New Zealand where he was stationed, it never snows and flowers bloom the year around. The people of New Zealand have a very long life, which they attribute to the fact that they don't keep too warm. None of the New Zealand homes have central heating systems, and compared to American homes, are often uncomfortably chilly. Johnson says that that New Zealanders are quite a few years behind the U. S. in dress and in industrial development.

The last four months before his return to the states Lieut. Johnson spent on an advanced base in the Solomons. He makes this enlightening statement, "All the boys who come back to the states will tell you that the tropics aren't romantic, as the movies crack them up to be, and I heartily agree."

In the fall of 1942, he made the trip across the Pacific by ship and had smooth sailing, but he indicates that travel by air is far superior to any other mode. He was particularly enthusiastic about the meals which were served on the plane during his trip home.

Lieut. Johnson has been visiting at the home of his mother, Mrs. S. L. Johnson, and among other relatives in Belmond and has spent part of his leave with his wife in Lake Mills, where he had practiced dentistry before entering the service. His brother, Sgt. Leonard Johnson was fortunate in getting a five-day furlough from Baer Field, Fort Wayne, Indiana, to come home while his brother Paul was here.

Lieut. Johnson has been assigned further duty at Great Lakes, Ill., where he will report on the 5th of July.

"A CHEERFUL LOT"—

Wright county farmers are a cheerful lot. All spring they have been working under the greatest difficulties, but you don't hear them complaining a great deal. Most of them are of the opinion that the "weather man" will give them a break sometime during the summer growing season.

—v—

POSSIBLE BUT NOT PROBABLE—

Daily reports of the advances of our Allies in the Pacific theatre of war are about as encouraging as the success of the invasion of Europe through northern France. It would be a wonderful feeling and a great day if the collapse of both the Nazis and the Japs were accomplished at about the same time. In all probability this is entirely too much to hope for, but still it is not outside the realm of possibility.

—v—

NEED MORE LAUGHTER—

It seems to us that there has never been a time in the history of mankind that there was an oversupply of first-rate humorists. There is something about our scheme of living that demands the services of those who can make us laugh and see the funny side of things. It must be that humorists are born and not made. If this is true, Mother Nature is inclined to be reluctant about turning too many humorists loose in the world at once. We recognize that life is a serious matter and there isn't much time to play at it in these days, but we are in favor of more humorists. We can stand to laugh more than we do. The Army and Navy must believe this, keeping Bob Hope and other screen and radio funny men busy helping to entertain and cheer millions of men in the service with their gags and wise cracks.

—v—

TOUGH SPOT!—

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt is in a tough spot—a considerable number of people profess not to like her while she is in this country and it irritates them when she goes to other countries.

—v—

PLAY SAFE WITH WATER—

Iowa lakes and streams furnish recreation for thousands of fishermen, boatmen, and swimmers, but they are also the scene of almost daily drowning, mostly caused by carelessness. High water and resultant changing channels have made the streams particularly dangerous. Safety officials throughout the state have cautioned bathers to swim only at designated beaches.

The American Red Cross suggests the following hints on water safety:

Wait an hour or two after eating before going swimming. Don't stay in water after becoming tired. Swim only in supervised swimming places. Don't overestimate the distance you are able to swim. River currents are dangerous; don't try to buck them. Use the safest method possible to rescue a person in trouble in the water; use a boat or throw some floating object if possible. When a person accidentally falls into the water, he should remove clothing before attempting to swim out.

There are more than 10,000 pleasure boats on Iowa's inland waters, and a few simple safety rules governing their use will prevent many tragedies. Iowa laws require that all boats for hire must passs an annual inspection. Under no condition exceed the passenger capacity of the craft. Do not use an unseaworthy boat. Do not go on the water when a storm is approaching or when the water is rough. Don't wear boots or other hampering clothing when in a boat. Do not purposely rock a boat or permit any horseplay by other boat occupants.

If you are unfortunate enough to capsize, stay with the boat. Secure a firm hand-hold and wait for help or drift ashore with the craft.

There are no finer sports than swimming, boating, and fishing, and everyone can enjoy these pleasures safely if good judgment is exercised.

WITH OTHER EDITORS—

In glancing over the daily newspapers and noticing some of the things that were played up, one wonders who starts some of these things and why serious groups should be so silly. Did you read last week where a group of police officers selected a girl as the "girl they'd most like to arrest?" . . . A lady in the East left a fortune to her cat. . . A 21 year old lady married a 14 year old boy . . .—Clear Lake Mirror.

—v—

While American boys were giving up their lives on the embattled beaches of France in the great struggle to make the world free, labor controversies kept more than 15,000 men away from their essential tasks on "D" Day. At least 12,000 men were idle at the Wright Aeronautical plant at Lockland, Ohio, which produces air plane engines. And what was it all about? It was because of a protest against mingling white and Negro workers.

The Tinken roller bearing plant at Canton Ohio, reported that near 1,000 C. I. O. men had left their work as a result of a seniority dispute.

More than 1,000 members of an independent union were out at the Du Pont rayon plant in Old Hickory, Tenn., in a strike over reinstatement of two workers while 350 A. F. of L. adherents and others ceased work at the Victor Chemical Works in Mount Pleasant, Tenn., because a switchman was suspended.

It seems to us that these thousands of men who left their work on such trivial pretexts on this day of days might well have bowed their heads in shame. We cannot understand their attitude. Neither, we believe, can millions of other Americans. --Grinnell Herald-Register.

—v—

The people of Italy are certainly entitled to a lot of sympathy. They were dragged into the war by Mussolini and had reasons to believe that if they kicked old Mussi out and joined the allies they would soon enjoy peace. But it has not turned out that way, as the German forces in Italy were much stronger than supposed, and large sections of the country have been devastated by fierce war, and the end is not yet. As a matter of fact, the allies could not restore peace to Italy as soon as they thought they could.—Webster City Freeman.

—v—

Numbered among the 5 million volunteer war bond salesmen are people of all parties, races and creeds with one common denominator—they are all true Americans.—Thornton Enterprise.

—v—

It is all right for the international "experts" now to predict there will be a thousand years of peace after this war. Nobody who hears them will be alive to see whether or not they are right.—Manly Signal.

—v—

Some day after the war there will be hundreds of Jeeps on the farms in this territory. The scout car has great possibilities for farmers in that it can be substituted for the horse, the tractor, the independent power unit or a light truck. In no one of these fields will it be anything but a substitute, however the Jeep can be used in so many ways and with such success that it will probably be a very popular design and its manufacture will continue after the military need for it has passed away. — Summit, Forest City.

Prittle... Prattle....

By R. H. Gowdy, A|S

Dear Gang;

Life As it Isn't At Farragut, U. S. N. T. S.

Yes, this is certainly a fine place-with more than the conveniences of home. We sleep as long as we wish in the morning--our breakfasts are served to us in bed and when each man's valet pulls up the shades, after drawing back the drapes, our bath is drawn and cool sports clothes laid out for the morning.

P--P

Each man has a big, oversized double bed covered with the softest innerspring mattress and box spring, and clean white sheets and downy blankets leave nothing to be desired. Oh yes, we also have maid service throughout the day to keep our private rooms clean. The desk clerk is very kind and keeps us well informed, via telephone, as to appointments and social affairs of the day.

P—P

Our skipper is very courteous to each one of us and always says, "Sir" when he speaks to anyone in his hotel. In fact he is a wonderful host. The meals are [illegible] and tasty, and are served [illegible] best of style on the finest of [illegible] and best quality Irish linen. Waiters are always at our beck and call

P—P

The dais certainly aren't boring by any means and always include a full itinerary of boating, sight seeing trips, fishing, mountain climbing and sports of all kinds. It is really hard to describe just how pleasant life at Farragut is. Even as I write this, a 12-piece salon orchestra is playing soft after-dinner music.

P—P

Since being here, our host (the skipper) has planned and always executed many trips to the most interesting parts of our country's northwest. He has always arranged the trips, when possible, by airplane in order to cover the most territory in the short time we spend at this resort.

P—P

Probably, the evening is the most enjoyable time of all, as we gather in the huge lobby of our hotel. We sit in comfortable chairs in front of a blazing fire and tell stories, each of us cuddling in his hand a tall, cool night cap. And as we empty our glasses, after hearing a thrilling recital of someone's experience for the day (such as when he met a bear face to face) we wave to a waiter and have 'em filled again.

P—P

Thus go our days, one by one, and as the end of our wonderful vacation approaches, each and everyone grows sad as that hour nears. We know we'll leave with tears in our eyes, planning for the day we can come back again!

P—P

Now dear reader, if you think think the above is a olt of "Bull" you're right and how! as we used to say years ago.

Sincerely, Dick.

READING & WRITING

BY Edwin Seaver AND Robin McKown

The war brings suffering to many millions in many different ways. Just one phase of this vast tragedy is related in James Norman Hall's novel, "Lost Island," the story of what happened to a tiny atoll in the South Pacific when the American armed forces established a base there.

JAMES NORMAN HALL

James Norman Hall everyone knows best perhaps as collaborator with Charles Nordhoff of "Mutiny on the Bounty," the saga of Captain Bligh and his crew. He was an ace in the last World War, was shot down and taken prisoner in Germany. Since then he has spent most of his time in Tahiti, so he knows from firsthand experience what destruction the blast of war has wrought to the peaceful isles of the South Sea. "Lost Island," his first novel under his own name, is part of the June dual selection of the Book-of-the-Month Club, along with "Fair Stood the Wind for France," by H. E. Bates.

The narrator of this story is Colonel Dodd, formerly a Detroit engineer, commissioned into the Army after Pearl Harbor to do a rush job of construction on a tiny Polynesian island. He has two weeks to survey the idyllic scene before the freighter arrives with machines and supplies and troops. The job is important and must be done, but Colonel Dodd, a sensitive man, suffers at the thought of breaking the news to the island's inhabitants. He knows that inevitably its beauty and peace is doomed. Coral reefs must be blasted to make way for freighters. The whole village must be torn down—the thatched huts of the natives, Father Vincent's little church made of coral slabs, as well as his exquisite garden he has spent thirty years in cultivating. The two Austrian refugees, Professor Lehmann and his daughter, who have had eight months of security and happiness there, also have to leave.

This is the story that is told, simply and movingly, in James Norman Hall's "Lost Island."

One of the most remarkable heroines of the Civil War, according to Marjorie Barston Greenbie in "Lincoln's Daughters of Mercy," was Mother Bickerdyke, who one bitter night in 1863, on her own authority ordered an old Breastworks factory to be torn down for firewood, so that the 1,500 wounded men in her care could be kept from freezing. Morning brought out the Major, very much embarrassed, for her unauthorized demolition of the building had to be considered a breach of military discipline. "Madame," he said, "consider yourself under arrest." "All right, Major, I'm arrested," she retorted, flying past him with a hot drink for one of her boys, "only don't meddle with me till the weather moderates." He didn't, either.

What news will Gen. Eisenhower get from us?

You know now what we've heard from him.

We've heard that Eisenhower and his Americans have hurled themselves like a thunderbolt against the bristling defenses of Hitler's Wehrmacht!

We've heard that they are smashing at our foe — sparing neither steel nor sweat nor blood in one final, furious assault that marks the supreme military effort of this War!

And what news do Eisenhower and his men expect from us?

Men and women of America — what the Invasion is to our fighting men, the 5th War Loan is to us at home!

For us, as well as for them, this is the crisis — the time for tremendous, overwhelming effort! Make no mistake! The 5th War Loan will undoubtedly be the biggest, most vitally important financial effort of this whole War!

If the 5th War Loan is to succeed, each one of us must do more than ever before — must buy double . . . yes, triple . . the Bonds we bought last time.

Our men expect to hear that we are buying double — that we are matching their sacrifice as best we can — that the American nation, soldiers and civilians together, is making one gigantic effort to win this War!

That's the news our men expect to hear from us.

Will you personally see that they get it?

And here are 5 More reasons for buying Extra Bonds in the 5th!

1. War Bonds are the best, the safest investment in the world!
2. War Bonds return you $4 for every $3 in 10 years.
3. War Bonds help keep prices down.
4. War Bonds will help win the Peace by increasing purchasing power after the War.
5. War Bonds mean education for your children, security for you, funds for retirement.

VOL. 25 NO. 36 BELMOND, WRIGHT COUNTY, IOWA, THURSDAY, JUNE 29, 1944 THE FAMILY NEWSPAPER

To Recruit 1000 Workers For Corn Detasseling And Grain Harvest

Countywide Labor Canvass Is July 5-6-7

Directed By Farm Labor Committees

A countywide farm labor canvass will be made July 5, 6 and 7th to solicit 1,000 emergency farm workers for corn detasseling and grain harvest in Wright County.

There are 15% less farm workers on the farms of Iowa this season as compared with last season. Wright County's food production goals are higher than last year and with less experienced help than before. Seven hundred detasselers were needed last year for the 1800 acres of hybrid seed corn. A larger number will be needed to detassel the 2400 acres of hybrid seed corn under production this year, a 600 acre increase over 1943. Approximately 168,000 bushels of hybrid seed will be produced from the acreage under production. This is enough seed to plant over a million acres of corn in 1945.

Since most men and older boys have full time employment the emergency workers will have to be recruited largely from younger boys, girls and women. 80% of the emergency farm workers recruited last year for detasseling were boys and girls under 18 and women.

WAGE RATE HIGHER

Testimony received at the County Wage Rate Hearing, before the County Farm Labor Committee on June 15th, 1944, indicated that the wage rate for detasseling would be 60c per hour plus some additional for Sunday detasseling. Even with a higher wage scale than last year it is expected that there will be difficulty in obtaining enough detasselers to take care of the increased acreage. For this reason it is urged that everyone who is available register on the recruitment campaign. Children 14 years of age can be arranged in crews for detasseling part time during the peak season. Women, men and older youth will be arranged in crews according to ages for full time detasseling. All crews will be supervised.

$70,000 SEASON PAYROLL

The recruitment of all the local help in the county to assist in detasseling and harvest will mean a daily payroll for the county of approximately $3,500.00 or a season's total of over $70,000.00. This amount will remain in Wright County providing a sufficient number of workers can be obtained. However, plans have been made to secure war prisoners in case the local county supply proves insufficient.

UNDER LOCAL LEADERSHIP

The recruitment campaign for emergency agricultural workers for detasseling corn, grain harvesting and other farm work will be under the supervision of the farm labor committee in each urban community. The recruitment campaign in Clarion, Dows, Eagle Grove, Goldfield, Galt, Rowan and Woolstock will be by means of a house to house canvass made by local leaders. The farm labor committee of Belmond will conduct their recruitment campaign by means of a letter and a return card sent to each boxholder.

4-H CLUBS ASSISTING

Local boys and girls 4-H clubs are being solicited to assist in the emergency farm work, including the detasseling of corn, if they are not needed on their own farms during that period. They will also assist in soliciting other farm boys and girls who are not 4-H club members. Over twenty-five 4-H club members have responded to date with the return cards just beginning to come in.

WEED CONTROL

Farmers who are in need of crews of boys between the ages of 12 and 15 years of age to eradicate noxious weeds in grain, corn and soybean fields, should arrange to do this work before or after detasseling. Wage rates are to be arranged with the farmers engaging the help. Crews of boys are available now. Farmers should contact their local farm labor offices or the County Extension Office at Clarion.

If any workers are missed in the campaign they are asked to register and sign a recruitment card at their local agricultural labor office. These local offices in this part of the county are as follows:

Belmond — Belmond Independent Office
Clarion—County Extension office, under Post Office
Dows—Farmers Elevator
Galt—Farmers Elevator
Rowan—Rowan Grain & Lumber Co.

Begin Fifth Annual Survey To Control T.B.

X-Ray Conference Is At Clarion, July 7

An intensive search for unsuspected cases of tuberculosis in Wright County currently is being made by Miss Wilma Soehren, R. N., public health nurse.

Miss Soehren's work is the preliminary phase of the 5th annual tuberculosis survey to be conducted in this county by the county medical society and the Christmas Seal Sale Organization in cooperation with the Iowa Tuberculosis Association and the state health department.

At the request of the family physician, the nurse is calling upon persons known to have intimate contact with a case of tuberculosis as shown by records of the Iowa health department or any person whose x-ray film had shown a shadow in the miniature film program taken of all high school and high school personnel recently. She invites these persons and their families to have a tuberculin test and later a chest x-ray to learn "if they, too, have been infected with tuberculosis." This x-ray conference will be held July 7, starting at 9:00 a. m. at the Presbyterian Church, Clarion.

According to the nurse, tuberculosis is a communicable disease which often does not reveal its presence to the individual during the early stages of infection.

"It is possible," the nurse said, "for a person to have tuberculosis and not know it. Our purpose is to discover such cases before they reach an advanced stage. If cases are found and treatment started early in the course of the disease, serious ill health can be avoided in many cases."

The x-ray and the skin test are given at no cost to the individual as half the cost of the program will be borne by funds made available through the annual sale of Christmas Seals and the remaining cost will be met by the state health department.

CPL. DONALD STOFFER WRITES HOME ABOUT BATTLE AT TARAWA

The following is a letter from Cpl. Donald Stoffer which appeared in a recent issue of the Marshalltown Times Republican. Cpl. Stoffer is the son of Mrs. Mattie Riekens of Belmond and a cousin of Mrs. Lowell Trafford and Mrs. U. C. Nolte.

"I left New Zealand a few months ago and participated in the attack on the Gilbert Islands, then later was in on the landing at Tarawa which was the tough one.

"You've probably read about it in the papers. I believe it was the toughest and bloodiest battle of this war. The good Lord was with me again for I'm sure in as good shape as when I landed, in fact, I believe a little better. The fellow I ran around with all the time, I can't mention his name, but I sure do miss him.

"At the present time I'm again at a rest camp, anyway that's what the marine corps calls it. I've got another word for it.

"I'm on the island nearest home in the Pacific. There is little chance of my coming home, in fact I'll bet plenty that I won't get home until it's all over.

"I brought along some souvenirs from Tarawa. I have some Jap clothes, books and a rifle, but I gave the rifle away as it is too much to carry around. . ."

Cpl. Stoffer has been in the marine corps since June, 1940, and during this time has had no leaves. He received his "boot" training at San Diego, Calif.

Farmers Urged To Harvest Large Acreage Legume and Grass Seed

Because of a critical shortage of legume and grass seeds, farmers should make every effort to harvest as large an acreage as possible of such seed.

H. B. Vanderlip, Chairman, Wright County AAA Committee, suggests that farmers harvest red clover hay as soon as possible. This is one of the first steps to be taken to secure a seed crop. Experience has shown that cutting clover early greatly increases the chances for a seed crop. There is a shortage of red clover seed and every acre harvested will not only help relieve this situation but also will bring a good cash return to the farmer, according to Mr. Vanderlip.

In addition to the cash return, a payment of $3.50 an acre can be earned for harvesting alfalfa, red clover, alsike, white clover, orchard grass, bromegrass, sweet clover, and lespedeza. Credit will not be given for more than 25 acres per farm, and the amount which can be earned is dependent on the farm allowance.

Boy Scouts To Collect Waste Paper July 7th

Citizens Urged To Have Paper Ready

The Belmond Boy Scout Troop, under the supervision of Scoutmaster Clark McNeal, will make a collection of waste paper in Belmond on Friday, July 7, according to an announcement today by Mrs. H. L. Gowdy, chairman of the Women's Salvage Committee for Belmond.

All kinds of paper is needed, including newspapers, magazines, wastebasket paper, boxes and cartons.

The use of the city truck has been secured for this purpose, and Belmond business men and housewives are urged to keep the following suggestions in mind in getting waste paper ready for collection:

Have all papers and magazines securely tied with strong cord in bundles 12 to 18 inches high. Waste basket paper should be packed in a box or bag. Boxes and cartons should be broken down and securely tied. Place on curb for easy collection by the scouts and city truck.

Those living in rural districts are asked to bring waste paper, securely tied, to the Courson Agency any time before July 7.

In connection with the drive Mrs. Gowdy makes this statement: "Waste paper has become a 'weapon of war' and Uncle Sam urgently needs your cooperation. "I AM OLD GLORY"

The Fourth of July, Independence Day, is one of the many occasions during the year when we place particular emphasis on the significance of our American flag, the stars and stripes. In the following our flag speaks for herself and those things she stands for in these United States of America.

"I am Old Glory: For more than eight score years I have been the banner of hope and freedom for generation after generation of Americans. Born amid the first flames of America's fight for freedom I am the symbol of a country that has grown from a little group of thirteen colonies to a united nation of forty-eight sovereign states. Planted firmly on the high pinnacle of American Faith my gently fluttering folds have proved an inspiration to untold millions. Men have followed me into battle with unwavering courage. They have looked upon me as a symbol of national unity. They have prayed that they and their fellow citizens might continue to enjoy the life, liberty and pursuit of happiness, which have been granted to every American as the heritage of free men. So long as men love liberty more than life itself; so long as they treasure the priceless privileges bought with the flood of our forefathers; so long as the principles of truth, justice and charity for all remain deeply rooted in human hearts, I shall continue to be the enduring banner of the United States of America,

I AM OLD GLORY!"

AN UNKNOWN SOLDIER POET TALKS TO GOD—

(This verse was found on the body of an American soldier after a battle somewhere in Italy. The identity of the writer has not been determined. Reprinted from "Fleet City News," Camp Shoemaker, California, of which George C. Hansen, Prtr. 2|c is editor.—Ed. Note.)

Look God, I have spoken to You,
But now I want to say How Do You Do;
You see God, they told me You didn't exist,
And like a fool, I believed all this .

Last night from your shell hole, I saw Your sky,
I figured right then, they had told me a lie;
Had I taken time to see things You made
I'd have known they weren't calling a spade a spade.

I wonder God, if You'd shake my hand,
Somehow I feel that You will understand;
Funny, I had to come to this hellish place
Before I had time to see your face.

Well, I guess there isn't much more to say.
But I'm sure glad, God, I met You today;
I guess the "Zero Hour" will soon be here,
But I'm not afraid, since I know You're near.

The Signal — well God, I'll have to go,
I like you lots, this I want You to know;
Look now, this will be a horrible fight,
Who knows—I may come to Your house tonight.

Though I wasn't friendly to you before,
I wonder God, if You'd wait at Your door;
Look, I'm crying — me, shedding tears;
I wish I had known you these many years.

Well. . . I have to go now God — goodbye!
Strange . . . since I met you—I'm not afraid to die!

WHERE DOES OUR BOND DOLLAR GO?

Recently we have been hearing a lot about the B-29's, Uncle Sam's Super Fortresses that are pouring their loads of destruction right on Japan itself. At a cost of $1,500,000 for each of these giant planes, anyone can easily figure out where some of our War Bond money is being used.

WITH OTHER EDITORS

If the American people really want to know what kind of a military despotism they are fighting in Japan, they need only to read the Japanese "peace" terms published recently in a Japanese periodical. It was picked up in a Berlin broadcast and was published in American newspapers recently. Here is all that the Japanese want from us:

Confiscation of the entire United States navy.

All expenses arising out of taking over American ships by Japan to be paid by the United States.

All large ships of the merchant fleet to be put at the disposal of Japan.

All naval installations, naval stations, dock-yards, arsenals, colleges, and other centers of naval education to be destroyed.

In case of the scuttling of a single ship ten times its value to be paid to the Japanese government.

We presume that these demands are strictly for home consumption and are a good sample of the kind of trash that is ladeled out daily for the delectation of the uniformed and deluded masses of the Japanese people, but don't doubt for a minute that if Japan really did win this war which they now seem to be losing at a rapid rate these terms are mild compared with the ones that would really be imposed. There should be no delusions on that score.

The general tendency of Americans on reading these alleged "terms" will be to look on them as a sort of bitter joke, but they aren't any joke. They constitute a very revealing statement of the kinds of folks we are fighting and of the fact that this is a war which must be won. You can't have peace with a rattlespake. You have to smash his head.—Kossuth County Advance.

Those nine thousand airplanes that the United States is producing monthly is the main reason why the allies have the supremacy of the air in all important war sectors. Present indications are that the farmers will come out of this war in far better shape than they did out of the last one. Price controls may be partially responsible, but the main reason is that the majority of farmers remember what happened in the 1920s and have too much sense to let it happen again.—Council Bluffs Nonpareil.

Prittle... Prattle....

Have found several times that this is a small world and Farragut is no exception. No matter where you are there is always somebody who is acquainted with someone you know.

P—P

Yesterday while standing in chow line, in the mess hall, I noticed a man with the name "N. M Soma" stenciled on the back of his jersey. In speaking to him he said he was from Newell, S. Dak. and that he had cousins living near Belmond — which could be the N. G. and Joe Soma families.

P—P

In company 608—the company I'm in—a man by the name of Buller has a brother who attended the Agricultural College at Brookings, South Dakota. One of his brother's classes was taught by Paul Scarbro, who is remembered in Belmond by many as a well-liked former superintendent of schools.

P—P

Also in the same company is Ernest Jensen, one of the hundreds of Jensens, so he says, to be found around Graettinger, Iowa. Ernest knows the Jensen who runs the creamery at Sutherland and is the father of Mrs. Leland Lieuwen.

P—P

While it may seem like small potatoes now to those who read this and have gone through "boots" at Farragut, most of them, no doubt, got just as excited and tried just as hard to win the Battleship Award when their company's turn came.

Company 608 had their chance last week and came out second among the six competing companies much to our digust, since we had an excellent chance of winning first and missed it by two points.

Events competed in are shooting the .22 pistol, .22 rifle, 30.06 rifle, cross country race, boat race, soft ball and the least number of non-swimmers. The last mentioned was our biggest handicap as we started our schedule with 63 non-swimmers—a larger than usual average. Even at that all but two learned to swim 3 different strokes for 75 feet.

P—P

Our schedule—for Co. 608—is all down hill now—another two weeks and the men will be scattered in eight different states on boot leave, enjoying, once more, the comforts of home. Boot leave, for all of us, will probably be the most enjoyable period in any of our lives. For the most of us it has been eight long weeks of push and drive, assimilating the navy life and absorbing, on the double, information the most of us weren't even slightly acquainted with.

P—P

We've learned to live, talk, and act the navy way. . . we've learned how to operate life boats—the general procedure of operating ships and the kinds of ships—how to stand the different kinds of watches, and fire the several kinds of guns. Each of us knows the semaphore and the manual of arms and many other things. We're a well trained group of men—now used to discipline—as much as men our ages will ever be—and almost ready to go on to the job the Navy has for us.

P—P

Some of us—the young men—will make a career out of the Navy but the most of us are anxious to get our work done and head home as soon as the law allows.

Success of 5th War Loan Will Meet Acclaim of Men in Field and Prove Nation Is Backing Our Armed Forces

by Gen. Ike Eisenhower

"In moments of crisis involving the safety of our native land, the American people have invariably rallied against the danger with courage, faith and resolution.

"For the past two years we have been in one of these crises, perhaps the greatest in our history. On the battlefield and on the home front men and women are daily making great sacrifices so the freedom in our way of life may be preserved.

"There is now in progress the 5th War Loan Drive to raise money so as to insure that this conflict will be brought to the speediest possible conclusion and with the least loss in lives.

The complete success in the drive will meet the acclaim of the forces in the field and will be renewed proof that all Americans are one solid phalanx of determination in this great war.

"All of us profoundly trust that soon the world may be restored to a just peace. Until we can, with God's help, bring about that happy realization of our dreams, each of us must seek incessantly for ways and means by which the value of our services to our country may be enhanced. Right now we can do so by buying Bonds. Let's make this particular victory a quick and decisive one."

Obituary—Nellie Fekkers

Miss Nellie Fekkers, child of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fekkers was born in Franklin County near Latimer, Iowa, on July 18, 1901 Her parents preceded her in death. The father died in 1926 and her mother in 1917. Deprived of her parents, and without a home, she found a place of welcome in the homes of her sisters and brothers and also many friends. Here she made her stay at various times.

In her youth she fell victim to the dreaded affliction of infantile paralysis. In spite of this physical handicap, it did not deprive her of the determination to lead an active and useful life.

It was on February 26, 1922, that the departed made public confession of her faith and was received into the fellowship of the Meservey Reformed Church. She was also connected with the Rebecca Lodge of Thornton, Iowa.

The departed's last place of employment was at the home of Mrs. Deloris Hartwig. Here she was taken suddenly ill, and entered the Mercy Hospital at Mason City, submitting to a major operation. Hopes were held and prayers were offered for her recovery. But following the operation other complications set in With faith in her Redeemer and patiently bearing her afflictions until the end, it pleased the Lord to call her out of time into eternity on Friday afternoon, June 16, 1944, having reached the age of 42 years, 11 months, and 2 days.

Two brothers preceded her in death in infancy. She leaves to mourn her departure, three brothers: Henry Fekkers of Alexander; Reuben Fekkers, serving in the armed forces somewhere in England; and Engel Fekkers of Meservy. Six sisters: Mrs. Grace Vierkant and Mrs. Marie Steenhardt of Thornton; Mrs. Henrietta Bayliss of Belmond; Mrs. Ruth Wiemann and Mrs. Rubie Vander Strom of Alexander; and Mrs. Nettie Vanden Hull, of Hollandale, Minn., besides many other relatives and friends.

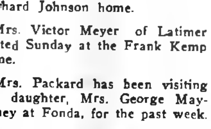
don herold says:



"Make work" cost billions— and did not work

A thing that few people realize is that the fancy relief and unemployment schemes this country tried previons to 1940 never did work.

We still had 10 million unemployed in the middle of 1940 before the defense program started.

In fact, the average for the years 1933-1939 was 10,617,000 unemployed, whereas the average for the seven years before that (1926-1932) was only 4,820,000.

I think that a depression which started in 1929 and should normally have ended within two or three years, was stretched out for 11 years by goofy experiments — until the war boom ended it.

This failure to relieve unemployment occurred in spite of increase of Federal taxes from $2,080,000,000 in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1933 to $5,925,000,000 in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1940. So sorry for all these figures.

"What a smart farmer you're going to make!"

"I hadn't realized, until my older boy went into service, what a helper I had in young Bud. He's 14 now, and he's pitching in and helping like a trouper. He's going to make a fine farmer . . . and he's going to have a good education to fit him for it!"

5TH WAR LOAN

And Here Are 5 MORE Reasons for Buying EXTRA Bonds in the 5th!

1. War Bonds are the best, the safest investment in the world!
2. War Bonds return you $4 for every $3 in 10 years.
3. War Bonds help keep prices down.
4. War Bonds will help win the Peace by increasing purchasing power after the war.
5. War Bonds mean education for your children, security for you, funds for retirement.

THOUSANDS of boys in service are getting fine technical training which will fit them for better-than-average positions later on. Boys and girls too young to go to war—as well as boys in non-technical branches of the service—should be given an equal advantage.

Whether your youngsters, or that boy in service, are going to pursue agriculture as a career, or whether they seem cut out for another type of profession, now is the time to make sure they get adequate schooling for future usefulness and happiness.

That's why, when we buy more War Bonds, we are really doing more than supporting our government and helping our boys on the fighting fronts. We are building financial reserves which, among other things, assure the education of our children.

So when you order your next War Bond, stop a moment and ask yourself: Hadn't I better buy two instead of one? Is there any other use for my dollars one half so important as the freedom of my country and the future of my children?

Let's buy War Bonds to the very utmost of our capacity!

YOU NEVER GET LESS THAN YOU LEND!

And you can get ⅓ more than you invest. When held 10 years, Series E War Bonds yield 2.9% interest compounded semi-annually. You get back $4 for every $3.

Of course, no one should cash a Bond unless he has to; but if an emergency comes along, Uncle Sam will redeem your War Bonds in cash—at full purchase price—any time after you've held them 60 days. Don't hold back a single dollar unnecessarily from the purchase of War Bonds. YOUR HELP IS NEEDED TO WIN THIS WAR.

GOODELL

Obituary—Mrs. W. N. Allaben

Mrs. W. N. Allaben, long time resident of Goodell, died at the J. W Head home in Traer Tuesday June 20th at the age of 78 years

On November 15th, Mrs. Allaben left Goodell planning to spend the winter with relatives in Rock Island and Chicago. It was while in Chicago that she was stricken with paralysis on December 27th. For two months she was cared for in the Eli Hetland home with her son Hamblin assisting. On Feb. 24th she was removed to Traer, and was cared for in the J. W. Head home. While deeply afflicted she was getting along all right, until a second stroke on June 11th greatly deepened her infirmities. On June 20th a third stroke caused her death instantly while she was sleeping, at 1:30 p. m.

Mary Lavinnie, daughter of Samuel and Abiah Redmond, was born on a farm in Delaware Co., New York, Jan. 16th, 1866. At the age of 16 she taught a rural school. Oct. 10, 1883, she was married to William Allaben of Margaretsville, In 1886 they came to Avery township, Hancock county, Iowa, to a farm belonging to his father, Rev. Wm. Allaben, Sr. They lived there 8 years then moved back to New York to care for his father, who was ill. Two years later they returned to Goodell and have lived here as long as they lived, living in their present home since 1900.

Mr. Allaben passed away in 1934, a daughter, Martha in infancy in 1889, Clara, age 5 in 1909, Mrs. Leora Buchanan in 1937 and son Vincent, in 1940.

Three children survive, Hamblin of Traer, Mrs. Edna McNutt of Goodell and an adopted daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Genes of Rock Island, Ill. Eleven grand children and 11 great grand children and one brother, Arthur Redmond of Roxbury, New York.

Mrs. Allaben will be remembered as a good wife, a fine mother and a friendly neighbor. For 54 years she was a faithful member and tireless worker of the United Brethren churche of Goodell. She was Sunday school superintendent, teacher of the Bible class and a member of the Ladies Aid and the Missionary Society. For 30 years she was communion steward.

The remains were brought to her home Thursday.

Funeral services were held Friday at 1.30 at the home and at 2 p. m. at the United Brethren Church, with Rev. H. R. Knight officiating. The male quartet sang and pallbearers were Messrs. W. F. READING & WRITING

BY Edwin Seaver AND Robin McKown

Clifton Fadiman, editor and book critic, is now a member of the Editorial Board of the Book-of-the-Month Club. His appointment is the first addition to the Club's board, since the organization was launched eighteen years ago, with Dorothy Canfield, Christopher Morley, Henry Seidel Canby, Heywood Broun, who died in 1939, and the late William Allen White, as the five judges.

CLIFTON FADIMAN

As the new judge, Mr. Fadiman will help to select the book-of-the-month from among the approximately 300 books submitted by the leading American publishers each month. Says Harry Scherman, President of the Club: "Clifton Fadiman's major interest has always been a deep concern with books, and the ceaseless cross-fertilization that goes on betwen literature and life. His highly individual book-judgments, and his acute critical conscience, fit beautifully into our editorial picture."

The Book-of-the-Month Club is the pioneer book club in this country and the largest organization of its kind in the world. Since the inception in 1926, the Club has selected, in advance of publication, a total of 257 books, many of which have since become land marks in modern literature.

Among these were "John Brown's Body" by Stephen Vincent Benét, "Kristin Lavransdatter" by Sigrid Undset, "All Quiet on the Western Front" by Erich Maria Remarque, "The Good Earth" by Pearl Buck, "Anthony Adverse" by Hervey Allen, Margaret Mitchell's "Gone With The Wind," "Forty Days of Musa Dagh" by Franz Werfel, and, more recently, "The Song of Bernadette" by the same author.

"Information Please" over which Mr. Fadiman presides as Master of Ceremonies, is popular with radio audiences not only for its sophisticated character, but also for the puns sometimes perpetrated by its participants. We were reminded of one in John E. Drewrey's "Post Biographies of Famous Journalists." When Guest Expert John Gunther correctly guessed the identity of the ruler of Persia, Fadiman asked, "Are you shah, Mr. Gunther?" Gunther's reply was, "Sultanly."

Also according to "Post Biographies," here are a few of the ways Clifton Fadiman worked his way through high school and college. He tutored a half wit; he read Shakespeare to a mad Wall Street plunger; he got ten dollars an afternoon on the golf links for trailing an earnest duffer around and telling him to keep his head down; he managed a country hotel; he lectured on French symbolist poetry at five dollars an hour. He ran errands for a butcher's shop; peddled magazine subscriptions in Weehawken; and he had a couple of amusement-park jobs. One of these was guiding women and children out of an imitation of the Cretan Minotaur's maze; the other was chasing boys off something called the Devil's Whirlpool.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"I can't think of anything else you'll need for your Victory garden, Judge . . . you've got pretty nearly everything."

"I think so, too, John. Ever get your asparagus patch going?"

"I gave that up last year, Judge. Tried it six years in a row with no luck. Just haven't got the right soil, I guess?"

"Well, I think you're wise, John . . . no use keeping on trying things you know won't work. Just like prohibition. State-wide prohibition has been tried in this country seventy-two times in the last ninety years. It has been adopted forty-seven times in the past thirty-three years and discarded everywhere except in three states. Same thing was tried in eight provinces in Canada and in Norway, Sweden, Finland and Russia but it was an admitted failure and universally abandoned.

"The reason is prohibition does not prohibit. All you get is bootleg liquor instead of legal liquor, plus no end of crime and corruption."

Urge Recapping To Solve Tire Shortage Problems

Supply of New Tires To Meet Demands Is Inadequate

Widespread failure of owners of passenger automobiles to make use of available tire recapping service is responsible to a great extent for the present tire rationing problems of local War Price and Rationing Boards, according to information received here from the Des Moines OPA district office.

"B" gasoline card holders became eligible to apply for new tires May 1, but their applications cannot be considered until demands of preferred mileage holders are met, it was explaine by Chairman C. C. was explained by Chairman C. C. ever, the local boards have been submerged by new tire applications of "B" card holders who apparently are unaware that there is little or no chance of favorable action for some time to come.

"The supply simply does not exist to meet the flood of "B" card applications for new tires," Chairman Benson declared. "Everyone should know by now that preferred mileage holders such as physicians and law enforcement officers must be served first and that there is already a backlog of 12,000 applications for new tires in the Des Moines OPA district."

The obvious solution to "B" card tire problems is still recapping. The district OPA office has advised that recapping work is almost at a standstill in many communities, indicating that this method of increasing tire mileage is being ignored by car owners.

Car owners have the mistaken idea that new tires can be obtained without difficulty. This leads us to emphasize that OPA regulations provide that failure to recap a tire in time is just reason to refuse an application for a new tire, asserts the OPA office.

Weed Spray Available At County Shed at Clarion

The county board of supervisors have received 12 ton of Atlacide, to dispense to the farmers of Wright county as a weed spray for weed control. The Atlacide, a chemical having a sodium chlorate base, will be dispensed at the county shed at Clarion in 100 pound drums at a reasonable price.

Spraying with the chemical to control weeds is most effective if applied when the following conditions prevail: 1—abundant succulent foliage providing a large absorbent area; 2—plants in the bud or early blossom stage; 3—abundant soil mixture and high humidity. Spraying should be done on cloudy days or in the evening to avoid evaporation from the plants after treatment. Usually two treat ments are required; one at bud or blossom time during the summer and another in the fall. It is important to thoroughly wet all the leaf surface in each application. This usualy required one to three gallon per square rod depending upon the thickness of the foliage.

Atlacide is usually used in the liquid form for summer treatments. Soutions are prepared by dissolving 1 to 1½ pounds of dry salt in each gallon of water. That will dissolve more readily, in warm than in cold water. For further information see your weed commissioner or contact the county extension office at Clarion.

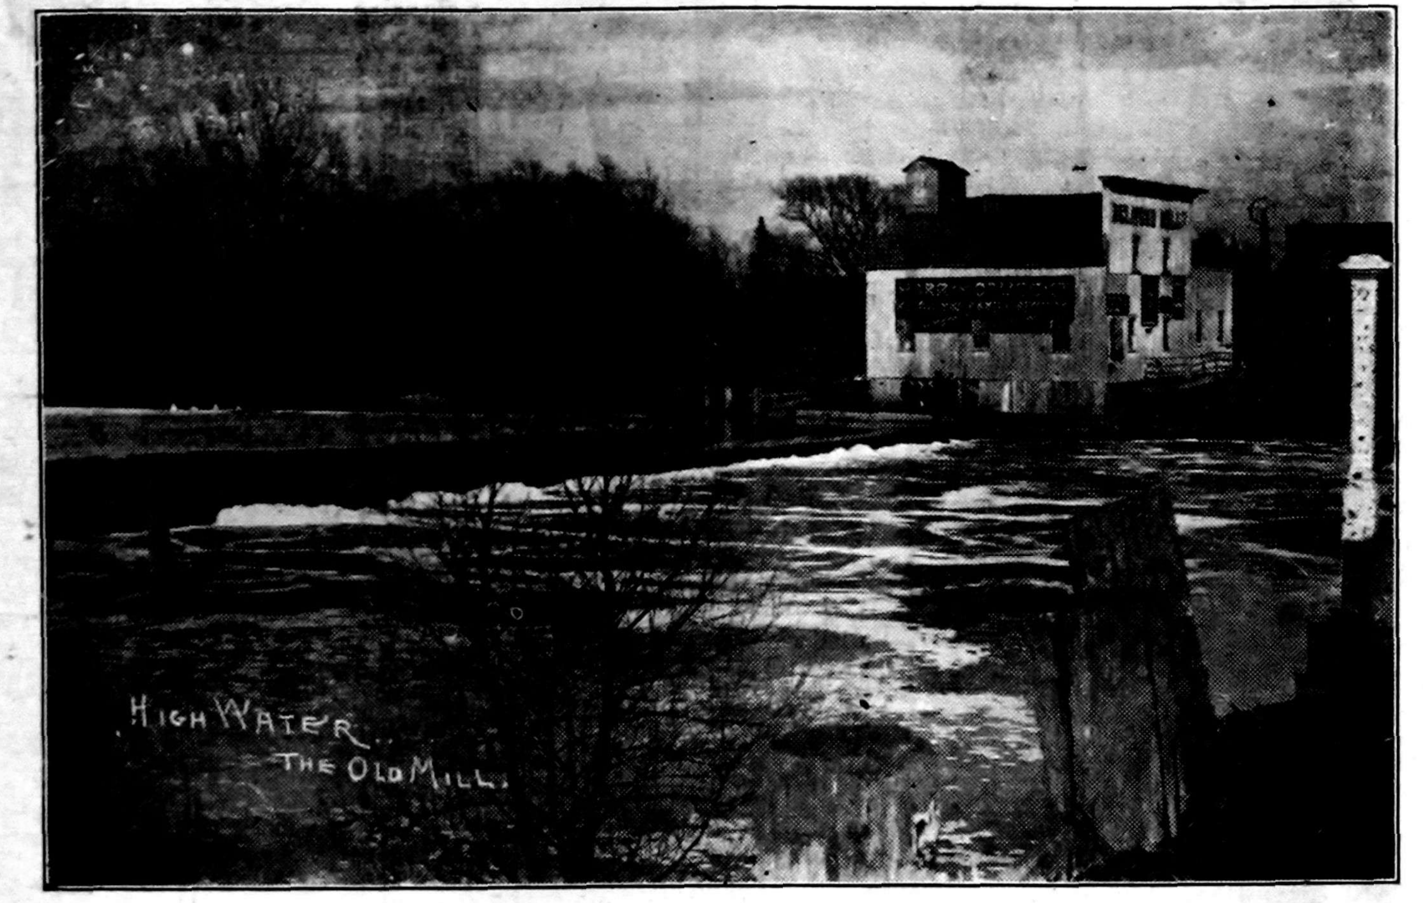
River Mill Was Belmond's First Important Industry



New Soybean Plant Is Far Cry From Pioneer Building

Speaking of mills, and General Mills fine new Belmond plant, reminds us that the first improvement ever to come to Belmond was a mill, as important to our pioneer forefathers here as our new soybean processing plant is to us.

Some early Belmond settlers located in Franklin Grove, now a part of the Tyrrell farm, because of the abundance of fuel and logs for building, but when the mill dam was built a mile up the river, the matter of the location of the town was settled.

Thus the first public improvement was a saw mill and flouring mill built by Dr. Cutler and Jas. M. Elder in 1856, but this building was washed away by floods a year later. The second mill was owned by Allen Thompson and Mr. Fulton, grandfather of Fred Fulton, a saw mill and flour mill run by water power. Mr. Fulton met a tragic death when he was caught in the water wheel and mangled.

Thompson made flour in this mill for nearly 40 years. In 1900, the mill site was purchased by T. S. Wallace & Co,. and a modern flour mill erected, in which Mr. Wallace made wheat, rye and buckwheat flours for 25 years.

The mill was the first local market for grain. As his fee for grinding, the miller took a certain toll of the grain. There was very little actual money in those early days and practically everything was bartered.

The new General Mills soybean processing plant is a far cry from those early days on the prairie.

Correct Planting is Aid in Preventing Weeds in Soybeans

Weeds in the soybean rows have limited yields in many fields. The correct rate of planting helps to eliminate weeds, thereby contributing to yield.

A good procedure to help insure higher yields of soybeans is to kill just before planting time the weeds that have started. Then, after the beans are up, kill the weeds in the rows before the weeds appear above ground. A harrow, weeder, or rotary hoe are good, speedy tools for this job. One of these tools should be used at least once a week on the bean field until the beans are 6 to 8 inches high.—Soybean Digest.

Brazil's Iron Deposit

Brazil's new iron deposit has been estimated at 15 billion tons, or 22 per cent of the world's estimated iron reserves.

President of Plant Named

W. H. Eastman Has Wide Experience With Vegetable Oils

H. A. Bullis, president of General Mills, has announced that Whitney H. Eastman will serve as president of the new vegetable oil and protein division of the company, established here in Belmond.

Mr. Eastman was graduated from Dartmouth in 1911 and has had a wide experience in this field. He joined the staff of General Mills as research executive on June 1, 1943, after many years of management experience with leading vegetable oil industries His appointment as President of the General Mills Vegetable Oil and Protein Division emphasizes the decision of the company to expand in that field, Mr. Bullis said.

The vegetable oil and protein division is the twelfth of General Mills' operating divisions. The others include the five geographical divisions—Eastern, Central, Western, Southwestern and Southeastern; Larrowe, Farm Service, Star Grain, Special Commodities, and Mechanical Manufacturing Divisions.

Cat-tails for Down

"Typha," the botanical name for cat-tails, is also the name being given to fluff processed from the cat-tail seed, now recognized as a highly acceptable stuffing floss. Wisconsin farmers are scattering the seed to promote greater growth in order to cash in on the present demand for down.

Use of Cork

Only 5 per cent of the cork used in the United States is used as "bottle stoppers." Much of the supply is now used for cartridge plugs, bomb parts, insulations of planes and tanks, life preservers and other army and navy needs.

Another Milestone Reached In The History of Belmond

Review Early Days Of City and Legend About Its Naming

The city of Belmond has reached another milestone in its history, as General Mills Inc. puts into operation its great new soybean processing plant. It is a long and interesting history, starting in 1855, when the first permanent settlers came by covered wagon across the prairies and staked claims on the west bank of the Iowa river in what is now Belmond township.

These settlers were three families, those of Archibald Dumond, Dr. C. L. Cutler and T. Oliver, and they erected a log cabin in which 21 people lived that summer. The town was platted by Dumond, who wanted to call the place "Crown Point" after his Indiana home. Others wanted to call it Dumond.

Legend has it that the name Belmond was arrived at in this manner. Dumond's daughter was a very popular young lady, the "belle" of the community, and the compromise in the name was made by the happy thought of honoring both father and daughter, the "belle" and the "mond" being joined into "Belmond."

Belmond is said to be the only town in the United States by that name.

The first frame house in Belmond was built by Dr. Cutler in 1856, in which building he opened the first store that year.

In 1860 the part of Pleasant township now called Belmond township was separated from Pleasant upon petition of Henry Luick and others.

Belmond township has the distinction of having had the first settlement in this part of the county, the original town being founded on the hill. The first cemetery was established there also, on the ground back of the John Baldridge residence, where three bodies lie buried today.

Other early settlers were Henry Luick, Dave Luick, the Gray family, Anthony Overacker. The first school building was on the ground where the cemetery now stands, built in 1856 by Edd. Lathrop and Charley Johnson.

Groceries and other supplies were first hauled to the settlers from Dubuque and the trip required two weeks. When the railroad came as near as Cedar Falls, it was considered very fortunate and this point remained the nearest market for many years. In 1869, Luther A. Loomis took the contract of carrying mail and stage passengers between Belmond and Alden, Belmond and Garner, and Belmond and Webster City. During the sixteen years Loomis drove the stage, he had a record of never having missed a trip.

The first 'iron horse" steamed into Belmond on Nov. 1, 1881, a branch of the Iowa Central railroad, built from Hampton to Belmond. This is now a part of the M. and St. L. railroad.

Belmond's first bank was established in a small frame building on the east bank of the river by Dr. Cutler. This business changed hands several times before the Belmond State bank was organized in 1891. The first newspaper was the Belmond Mirror, started by G. G. Pritchard and printed on a Lovejoy press in 1873.

Flumerfelt To Remain Here

Vice-President Will Go On Managing New Soybean Plant

Walter E. Flumerfelt has been named vice-president of the vegetable oil and protein division of General Mills, according to an announcement from the Minneapolis office. Mr. Flumerfelt will continue to manage the division's operations at Belmond, as he has for the past year. He has a background in soybean processing which dates back to 1929. He has been associated with several soybean processing companies and active in the affairs of the National Soybean Processors association.

Division Comptroller For Soybean Plant Is Announced

Carter M. Dewey will serve as division comptroller for the new General Mills soybean processing plant at Belmond, word from Minneapolis states. He was graduated from the University of Illinois in 1929 with a B. A. degree. After receiving his Master's degree from the Harvard graduate school of business administration in 1932, he came to General Mills and has served successively in the past 12 years as accountant, traveling auditor, assistant statistician and more recently as special cost analyst. His headquarters will be at the executive offices in Minneapolis.

Acorns for Poultry

Acorns of the willow oak variety are an excellent and potent source of vitamin A, according to tests conducted by the United States department of agriculture.

Two per cent or more of the acorns in the diet of chicks produced yellow flesh and this color increased with the quantities of acorns fed. As much as 20 per cent appeared to have no harmful effect.

Congratulations-- to General Mills on the completion of their new soybean processing plant and to the City of Belmond for this fine addition to its business horizon.

We appreciate the confidence placed in us by both General Mills and the prime contractors, McKenzie-Hague Company of Minneapolis, who intrusted to us the contract for a large portion of the mechanical equipment required.

Our best wishes for a long and prosperous life for the new industry.

Highest Total Farm Income Expected in '44

Rock Island R. R. Issues Report

The indicated soybean production for 1944 is the highest on record, according to a recent report by the industrial and agricultural department of the Chicago, Rock Island Railway company. The state of Iowa is expected to produce 40,000,000 bushels, or slightly more than were raised in 1943.

As a whole, our national food production is now estimated at five per cent more than the average of the years immediately preceding the War. In view of the farmers' handicaps of labor shortages and machinery shortages, this record of production is a most outstanding achievement.

Coupled with this high record is the uniformly high prices received for all crops, which is resulting in the highest total farm income on record. To those with goods to sell to the farmer, now or in the future, this means a tremendous backlog of purchasing power and should mean consequently continued high industrial employment.

Surveys by various communities and counties show that farmers will want to buy great amounts of material and equipment to repair and improve their farmsteads as soon as it is available.

Crop statistics by states indicates where this immense purchasing power will be found. In Iowa, corn production is expected to be 30 per cent above average but below last year's record crop. Soybean production is estimated to be about the same as last year.

The state of Illinois leads all others in soybean production, with an estimated 68,000,000 bushels this year. Iowa ranks second and Missouri third with an estimated 10,672,000.

Although the total crop yield in the midwestern states for 1944 may not quite equal the 1943 figures, the figures are still outstanding. The only major crops below average production this year were rye and sugar beets, according to the Rock Island report.

Important to Inoculate Seed

Wright County farmers were urged today by Aaron Bowman, county agent, to see that soybean seed planted next spring is properly inoculated especially on land that has not repeatedly grown the crop.

"Inoculation is cheap and is a simple operation, and is one that usually pays good dividends in increased production and in maintaining soil pertility," said Mr. Bowman. "Yet it is one that may be pushed aside in the rush of farm work in the spring. The nitrogen-fixing bacteria which inhabit the soybean root system must be introduced from outside sources if the crop is to be grown on new land. Even on land which has repeatly grown the crop it is regarded by experienced growers as cheap crop insurance.

Any practice which will increase soybean yield even a small amount is more than ordinarily important this year, since the Allied war effort is depending on the American soybean crop to maintain the vitally important stockpile of vegetable oils and proteins. Inoculation is a practice which will make a decided increase in the average yield.

"Inoculation by either commercial inoculants or by the use of properly inoculated soil can be effective, but the commercial inoculants are more readily used."

Seeds for Prisoners

The American Red Cross is sending 15,000 pounds of vegetable and flower seeds to American prisoners of war in German hands.

New Soybean Plant Is Real Skyscraper

Although the General Mills soybean storage bins loom above the town of Belmond like a series of great towers and are visible for miles around, the true size of the structure becomes apparent only when the observer is standing directly at the base of one of the bins.

Men, automobiles and trucks are completely dwarfed beside the huge concrete stacks.

The storage tanks are 130 feet high, while the great workhouse reaches the dizzy height of 230 feet. The tanks are 27 feet in diameter.

The concrete stack on the old sugar beet factory was only 200 feet in height and 9 feet in diameter.

Soybean Pioneer in Iowa

The late F. S. Wilkins of Ames was a leader of the soybean project at Iowa State College until his death in 1936. He picked the Mukden, most widely grown of Iowa's varieties, from the thousands of selections under his supervision. His work was recognized recently at the Silver Jubilee meeting of the American Soybean association.

Wright County Farmers Find

Cultivation Practices Are Important

In Production of Soybeans

Good soybean cultivation practices have played an important part in enabling Wright county farmers in common with those over the state to increase the average acre yield of soybeans for Iowa nearly 6 bushels in a few years.

Once an appropriate soybean variety is selected and the seed inoculated, proper cultural methods are the next step to successful production. Ed Dyas, extension agronomist at Iowa State College, outlines these practices based on experimental data at Iowa State College and on experience of Iowa farmers:

Seedbed preparation — If beans are to follow corn, plow, disk and harrow the land. Where beans follow beans, thorough disking and harrowing may be sufficient especially on highly fertile soil. Cultivation should be aimed at weed control. Using a tendem disk and harrow combination just before planting is a good weed control measure. Disking or harrowing several weeks before planting may aid in killing weeds if planting must be delayed.

Row spacing—Beans planted in rows 22 to 32 inches wide have yielded 1 to 4 bushels more than beans planted in either 42-inch rows or drilled solid in 7-inch rows. Spacing of rows should be as narrow as tractor tread and cultivating equipment will permit.

Planting rates—For 40 to 42-inch rows, the recommended rate is 45 to 50 pounds an acre; for 30 to 36-inch rows or a combination of 42 and 24-inch rows, 1 bushel per acre. If the beans are drilled solid —7 or 8 inch spacing—plant two bushels of seed to the acre. Rates should be adjusted according to germination and the number of cracked beans.

Planting time—Plant soybeans early—May 10 to 25—immediately after corn planting. If planting is delayed, use only the earlier maturing varieties. If beans are drilled solid or broadcast, seeding should be delayed until May 25 to 31, however. In this way, more weeds may be killed before planting.

Cultivation — The rotary hoe, weeder or harrow is useful in breaking any soil crust that forms before the beans come through the ground, and is valuable in killing small weeds. Cultivation to kill weeds should be started as soon as the beans appear. Use wide tools such as rotary hoe, harrow or weeder, at frequent intervals—about every 10 days—until the beans are about 6 inches high. Such cultivation should be done in the afternoon when the bean plants are less brittle. After the beans are 6 inches high, contine row cutlivation as long as necessary to control weeds. One to three cultivations should be enough.

Continuous Feeding

Keep feed before the growing chicks constantly, to help ward off trouble from coccidiosis.

Huge New Well Provides Water Supply for Plant

Ames Contractors Drill 545 Ft. Hole

Providing the water supply for the General Mills Inc. soybean processing plant was a great undertaking in itself. The contract was let to the Layne-Western company, water supply contractors with offices at Ames, Iowa, a large firm with branches and representatives throughout the country.

The well was completed to a depth of 545 feet, with a 15 inch hole being drilled to this depth. A 20 inch hole was drilled to a depth of 84 feet and a 16 inch easing set inside with concrete being placed from 89 feet to ground level, outside the 16 inch casing, to make a positive seal against all surface water.

The water is obtained through the cracks and crevices of the limestone formations between the depths of 89 feet to 179 feet and between 407 feet and 545 feet.

On final test of the well it was found to have a capacity of 500 gallons per minute, with a pumping level in the well of 44 feet. It is our understanding that the plant may require a capacity of 600 gallons per minute or a total of 865,000 gallons per day, when it gets into full operation. This one well can very easily furnish this quantity of water.

Digitalis Industry

Digitalis belongs to the fox-glove family and is a biennial sometimes grown as an ornamental plant. The young plants are started in greenhouses and transplanted to outdoor seed beds and later to fields. Growers are producing the crop under contract basis for medical houses.

Soybeans Can Provide Effective Smother Crop For Noxious Weeds

Soybeans, in addition to providing feed, protein and oil supplies, are effective as a smother crop on such noxious perennial weeds as Canada thistle, quack grass or bindweed. More than 1 year is usually required for eradication, but no crops are lost in the process. E. P. Sylvester, extension botanist at Iowa State College, says lower producing areas or those abandoned because of serious weed infestations can be brought into production by growing soybeans to kill the weeds. Soybean growth will leave the land in better condition at the end of the war emergency.

Launder with Chestnuts

A suitable laundry soap can be made out of chestnuts, according to an Amsterdam Nazified newspaper. This is the formula: "Dry chestnuts, remove husks, and grate the kernels. After boiling the kernels, press the mass through a sieve. The liquid thus obtained must be mixed with warm water, after which it is ready for use." However, the paper warned, this "ersatz" should not be used for fine fabrics.

Message From Pres. Bullis

General Mills Official Writes About Belmond Plant

(The following article was written by President Harry A. Bullis, of General Mills Inc., for publication in this special edition of the Belmond Independent.)

Since General Mills was first organized the company has been engaged in aggressive expansion into many new fields. Today this expansion is being accelerated, since it seems to us that the one way our company can best help meet America's postwar problems is to move forward rapidly....develop new products, build new plants, create new employment.

And so it is that the opening, this week, of our new soybean processing plant in Belmond is a source of considerable satisfaction to everyone in General Mills, for it marks the completion of an important step in that program.

We have every reason to believe we will have a productive future in Belmond. The soybean industry, although having made great strides, is still in its infancy. There is every indication that it will develop at an accelerated pace after the war—spurred on by research and technological developments.

In the research laboratories a wide variety of useful industrial products have been made in part from soybean oil and soybean protein...such as allsyd resins for protective coatings, polyamide resins for coatings and heat sealing, fire foam for fighting fires at sea and vegetable glues for the plywood industry.

Some of these new products will be manufactured by General Mills, some by other companies...but whichever is the case, the new plant in Belmond will be an important source of supply for the necessary raw materials.

During the war, our program in the vegetable oil and protein field will necessarily be curtailed, and will be limited largely to the processing of soybeans. However, as soon as conditions permit, we intend to begin production of several basic ingredients for industrial products.

Naturally, we hope that, as a reward for performing an economic service, the products which will be made in Belmond will bring General Mills a profit...but we believe they will have another value, too. For they will help create employment, not only in Belmond but in other parts of the country as well, and they will help build new markets for the farmer's crops...help him get a steadier, more dependable income.

John F. Flynn Is Office Manager for General Mills Plant

Office and traffic manager of General Mills new plant at Belmond will be John F. Flynn, officials have announced.

Mr. Flynn comes to Belmond from Minneapolis, where he has been assistant mill traffic manager for the central division of General Mills for the past two years. Prior to that he was employed as a grain and traffic clerk at Lowell Hoit & Co. at Chicago for a period of 17 years. Mr. Flynn's soybean purchasing and traffic experience provide a good background for his new duties at the Belmond plant.

Bruce P. Neil Is Appointed As Superintendent Here

Bruce P. Neil has been appointed productive superintendent of the extraction plant of General Mills soybean plant here, according to word from the Minneapolis office.

Mr. Neil has held several positions in the solvent extraction field prior to his association with General Mills. He served as extraction plant superintendent for The Glidden Co. at Chicago from the time the plant was built in 1934 until 1941 when he went to Skelly Oil company as Field Engineer to work with vegetable oil processors in solving their extraction plant difficulties. Mr. Neil has had considerable experience in the design and layout of efficiency procedures in extraction plant operations.

Expert Tells of Soybean Value

President Eastman Reviews History Of Important Crop

(This article was prepared in the office of Whitney H. Eastman, president of the General Mills Inc. vegetable oil and protein division at Belmond for publication in this issue of the Independent.)

The soybean industry has already shown remarkable ability to establish a place for itself in our agricultural and industrial economy There are some very sound and fundamental reasons which explain this remarkable growth and stability. The growth of the industry has been phenomenal, yet natural.

As the automobile and the tractor supplanted the horse during the early period of mechanized agriculture and transportation, some of the acreage devoted to oats was no longer needed for that purpose, and soybeans became a logical subsitute for oats in the farmers' crop rotation program. The farmer's surplus production of oats above his own farm feeding and seeding needs has provided a splendid cash crop for farmers throughout the corn belt. Soybeans—replacing and supplementing the corn belt farmer's oats crop—have provided a new and stable cash income to thousands of farmers.

In addition to the advantages of having a profitable cash crop, soybean farmers now realize on the basis of twenty years of experience with soybeans in the crop rotation program, that there are indirect and auxiliary advantages and dividends to be realized. The benefits from soil conditioning and improved fertility cannot be overlooked, even though it cannot always be measured in dollars and cents. The increased dividends from other crops grown in rotation with soybeans should be given due consideration in determining the overall returns from the crop. The price of a bushel of soybeans in relation to some other grain does not tell the whole story.

The soybean crop in the corn belt has over the past twenty years withstood the ravages of insect pests and weather hazards extremely well. The crop adapts itself well to our mechanized farming methods and compares favorably with other grain crops for low net production cost per acre.

From the growers' risk standpoint the crop has excellent versatility. If the soybean processors' price for soybeans does not seem attractive or there is some danger of the crop not reaching maturity, the grower can utilize the crop in diversified ways. The crop can be utilized for forage or cut for silage or hay.

In addition to the fact that soybeans have a natural and sound economic place in our crop rotation program in the United States, the soybean, because of its unusual organic structure, provides a source for a myriad of products for both the edible and industrial fields. In order to give some idea of the possibilities of producing a wide variety of products from the little Oriental wonder bean, it can be stated that a recent study made in the research laboratories of General Mills, showed an amazing list of 181 products—all of which might have numerous variations as to type and properties.

The scientists and technologists have been intrigued by the manifold uses for the constituents of the soybean and have scratched their heads long and hard in the effort to expand the fields of use. While each of the component groups plan an important part in the progress of an industry, the next great advance in the soybean industry awaits new discoveries by the research scientists. As the research worker unlocks the hidden mysteries of the soybean now obscure to us, a new and important chapter in the history of the soybean industry will be written. Research is destined to play an ever increasing part in the economic stability of this great industry.

Old Sugar Plant Facilities One Factor In Bringing General Mills To Belmond

Was Organized in 1919 and Ceased Operations in 1930

In view of the fact that the old sugar beet factory was partially instrumental in bringing General Mills Inc. new soybean processing plant to Belmond, a brief history of the old factory should prove interesting. Many Belmond people can easily recall those days in 1919 and 1920 when this venture was being promoted, while newer residents are unfamiliar with its story.

The Iowa Valley Sugar Company was actually organized in April, 1919, after considerable preparatory work by W. C. Tyrrell, Sr. and A. L. Luick. It was a million dollar company issuing 11,000 shares of preferred stock at $100 per share par value. Other members of the committee sponsoring the project were Ole Thompson, C. C. McGuire, J. N. Johnson, John Berg, B. Mennenga, C. O. Fitts, R. H. Klemme, Jos. Bohning, H. L. Luick, N. H. Janson, E. Bock, A. E. Martin, M. C. Barry and T. A. Davenport.

The purpose of the company was to erect a 600-ton beet sugar factory on a site south of Belmond on the Iowa river. Sugar beets had been produced in this farm territory for about eight years.

C. F. Fenton of New York, representing the outside interest in the factory, was elected president of the company, and offices were established both in Minneapolis and Belmond. Actually about $200,000 of the total capital was subscribed by Belmond people.

Contract for erection of the factory was let to the Dyer Company of Cleveland, Ohio and actual work was begun during the summer of 1911. The main building was 69x213 feet in size, but the plant also included a large boiler house, beet sheds, pulp dryer, pulp warehouse and office. The great brick and concrete smokestack, which rose 200 feet into the air, became a landmark for miles around.

A Sugar Beet Day celebration was held in Belmond late in September of 1920, with N. E. Kendall, W. C. Ramsay and Congressman Burton E. Sweet delivering addresses. At 2 a. m. on the morning of Oct. 12, 1920, the company started cutting beets for its first sugar-making campaign. By late November, the plant was running full blast night and day, with a working crew of about 225 men working in shifts of 12 hours each, seven to seven. The factory was rated at 600 tons of beets per day. It required 24 hours to complete the process which converted the sugar beets into the finished product, sugar. Beets were bought from local raisers who trucked them to the plant, but thousands of tons were shipped in from a wide area.

After processing beets for one year, the officials of the plant found it impossible to operate the second year, but reopened in the fall of 1922. From then on until the season of 1927, the factory continued to operate, the building changing hands three times during that period.

Failure to operate the sugar beet factory during its second season was due to lack of sufficient funds. The plant operated at a loss the first year, due to high labor costs, a drop in sugar prices and the fact that the company was undercapitalized to start with. In June 1921, a plan was outlined whereby each stockholder was to put up in cash 35 per cent of his original holdings, each to be secured by five-year notes at eight per cent interest. Thus the factory was able to resume operations in September, 1922.

In January, 1928, a group of western capitalists purchased the sugar factory from the Dyer company of Cleveland, holders of the first mortgage against the property. The new company was known as the Midwestern Sugar company and was a Colorado corporation. Thus the factory was operated during the 1928, 1929 and 1930 seasons, after which it was abandoned, except for its use as a sugar warehouse by the American Crystal Sugar Company of Mason City until October, 1943, at which time the plant was purchased by General Mills, Inc.

One other highlight marked the history of the sugar plant. On the night of December 20, 1928, fire destroyed the sugar warehouse and 167,000 sacks of sugar burned at an estimated loss of over $150,000. Fire companies from six surrounding towns battled all night to subdue the flames. The main building was saved, and the loss was covered by insurance.

Soybeans Being Used To Help Save Ships

U. S. Navy Releases Unusual Story

Shortly after a velvet-black midnight early last summer two blacked-out American ships carrying war-vital cargoes collided 60 miles off the Virginia Capes. One of the vessels, laden with ammunition sank like a stone when an explosion tore her apart. Almost all her crew was lost. The other, a tanker less than a year old that had cost $3,500,000 to build, was speedily aflame from stem to stern when the discharge pipes were ruptured.

As the tanker lost headway and settled by the bow, uninjured members of her crew went over the side. Only one man remained aboard. He tried vainly to adjust the valves and fire control mechanisms that would have flooded the ship with a fire-fighting compound derived from soybeans. But the wheels and valves were too hot to touch. He, too, went over the side. He later told a naval board of inquiriy that he never hearl the explosion that sent the ammunition to the bottom!

More than 107,000 barrels of assorted petroleum were in the tanker. All of it was vitally needed on the other side of the Atlantic. But the stores of firefighting compound on the ship were useless. The reason for the subsequent salvage of this vessel, and of 70,000 barrels of its precious cargo, was the proximity of one of the Navy's little-known firefighting schools at Little Creek, Va., about 60 miles away. And, of course, the supply of soybean compound the Navy had on tap there.

Informed of the vessel's peril, the Navy's firefighters went to work at once. Supplies of the soybean compound in liquid and solid form were sped to the burning tanker by naval tugs. More than 37 hours later, during which at one time the firefighters were without any foam, and while naval patrol planes maintained an air cover against the chance that the heavy column of greasy smoke might attack a submarine, the fire was out, the blistered, twisted tanker had been towed to a shoal off Cape Charles, and gangs of torchmen were at work cutting away ruined gear so that the ship could be admitted to a yard for repair. Naval experts estimated that $400,000 worth of work and materials would find her ready once more for sea.

What is this little-known material that so successfully battles oil fires at sea—conflagrations that are the most difficult of all fires to control?

It is a secret combination of soybean oil meal and certain oxygen-free acids, which upon its contact with the air creates a thick coating of sudsy foam that deprives any fire of its oxygen. In saving the tanker, more than 20 tons of the foam in solid form was used, plus a thousand gallons of the liquid variety.

Here was a flaming vessel with its fore-peak on the port side almost entirely cut away. The vessel was so hot that a spare propeller lashed to the aft deck melted into pools of molten lead. Into the damaged oil storage space each succeeding wave brought new supplies of oxygen, and as each wave receded the foam that had already been applied was carried into the sea. The oxygen introduced by the sea into the hold caused small explosions even deeper in the ship.

Yet with the erection of cofferdams by the Navy's firefighters this fire was bought under contol control and finally extinguished altogether. Soy foam, long used in stationary oil storage installations at Marcus Hook, Pa., and elsewhere, has licked the greatest menace for tankers and their crews—fire at sea.—Reprinted from the Soybean Digest, by Wm. H. Adams.

Increased Timber

Lumber and pulpwood production can be increased without stripping our woodlands. Selective cutting will assure greater returns for less time and labor, and will improve the stands for future timber crops.

Moisture-Proof Plastic

A tough new moisture-proof plastic, which seals radar and radio parts against harmful moisture, has just been developed. The new plastic will greatly lengthen the life of radio and other communications equipment used by Allied armies.

Soybean Success Aided By Variety Selection

Name Those Adapted To Wright County

Soybean success begins with variety selection, according to Aaron R. Bowman, Wright County extension director. He suggests farmers check the maturity of bean varieties grown in the county this season as an aid to selection of the kind they grow next year.

Richland beans rank as a favorite with many soybean growers in the Wright County area, Bowman says. Richland boasts four virtues—high yields, early maturity, high lodging resistance and high oil content. But Bowman says it may be too short on medium to poor soils. It should be planted by May 20 in Wright County.

In 5 years of tests made by the Iowa Agricultural Experiment Station in northern Iowa, Richland yielded an average of 5.7 bushels and had a higher lodging resistance than any of the six other varieties tested. The average maturity date was Sept. 26.

Earlyana is increasing in favor in northern Iowa It is taller than Richland, yields well and is good in oil content. However, it is not nearly so resistant to lodging as Richland and thus is not so well suited to the more fertile soils.

Several hundred bushels of Earlyana seed are being distributed by the Committee on Agriculture Development at Iowa State College, and several growers have fields of Earlyana that have passed field inspection for certification by the Iowa Experiment Association.

For less fertile soils, Bowman suggests the early Manchu strains—Early Minnesota Manchu, Wisconsin Manchu 606 and Wisconsin Manohu 3. Mukden and Black Hilum Manchu, later varieties, are other possibilities for the less fertile soils in Wright County. Habaro, although it is satisfactory in yield and matures early, is short, shatters easily and is low in oil content. It will give satisfactory yields in northern Iowa only if harvested promptly after it ripens. Shattering becomes serious if it is allowed to stand.

In choosing a variety that will be safe from frost damage, Bowman says, the date of maturity should not be later than the average date of the first killing frost. These average dates may be obtained from the weather division of the Iowa Department of Agriculture, State House, Des Moines.

Planting Date And Soybean Yields are Closely Related

A study of the effect of date of planting soybeans on yield and composition of the seed—conducted uniformly at three locations in the soybean belt during three seasons with five varieties—showed that the yields decreased as the date of planting was delayed beyond May 1, reports the chief of the Bureau of Plant Industry, Washington.

Plantings were at five dates, ranging from May 1 to June 15. Oil content of the seed decreased, whereas protein contene appeared unaffected by date of planting. Iodine number of the oil increased as the date of planting was delayed. The data gives some indication that within the dates represented, early planting will increase total oil yield per acre, which is a product of the two factors, yield per acre and percentage of oil.

Thawing Juices

In thawing fruit juices to retain the original flavor, it is important to thaw the juice quickly, keeping the temperature below 50 degrees Fahrenheit. If there is no hurry, juice may be thawed in the refrigerator. Small watertight cartons and cans of juice can be thawed by placing them in cold running water and shaking from time to time to mix contents. This takes about 15 to 30 minutes.

Corn Yield Increases After Soybeans

Experiments at Iowa State College Prove Fact of Statement

Farmers can expect a larger yield of corn following a soybean crop than if the field had been in corn the previous year, states H. R. Meldrum, extension agronomist at Iowa State College.

Experiments made by the Iowa State College Experiment Station in 1942 resulted in a yield of 63.4 bushels on Webster soil for corn following corn and 71.7 bushels per acre for corn following soybeans—a difference of 8.3 bushels per acre. On Clarion loam the corn following soybeans outyielded the other by an average of 9.5 bushels per acre.

Corn following soybeans may have a significantly lower moisture content at time of harvest. Another advantage of planting to corn following soybeans is the tendency of the latter to loosen heavy or clay soils. A third advantage is the higher nitrogen content of the soil following a crop of beans.

Provided the straw is left on the ground soybeans rank about average among the corn belt crops from the standpoint of removing mineral nutrients from the soil. A 25-bushel crop of soybeans will remove from the soil about the same amount of phospherous as a 60-bushel corn crop. It will remove about twice as much potassium, but only half as much potassium as a 2-ton crop of clover hay.

Use Lively Suds

"Tired suds" make tired women. Never waste soap, but always use just enough to keep suds lively so they can cleanse without undue aid of "elbow grease."

ROCK ISLAND LINES

Welcomes

GENERAL MILLS

TO BELMOND

We recognize this new local enterprise as an important part of one of America's fast-growing industries. ROCK ISLAND LINES extends its best wishes for success to the management and employees of General Mills' new Soy Bean Oil and Processing Plant.

SERVING THE SOY BEAN PRODUCERS

The ROCK ISLAND LINES was among the first to become active in the promotion and development of the soy bean; a great majority of the growers of Iowa live in territory that it serves, and most of the State's crop of soy beans moves over its lines.

This modern railroad, with its direct service to many important cities, transports Iowa soy beans to processors, and many of the finished products to centers where large quantities are consumed as nutritional food, and to plants where soy bean oil is employed extensively in industrial uses.

With its interchange of traffic to all points, and to all ocean ports, ROCK ISLAND LINES moves Iowa soy bean products on their way to markets throughout the world.

Well equipped with transportation facilities, and well maintained, ROCK ISLAND will continue to render vital transportation in America's post-war tomorrow.

Belmond and this community are very fortunate in having the General Mills organization locate one of its large plants here.

It assures a ready, steady market, at top prices for all the soybean crop the farmers in this area can produce.

And what is equally important in these times of restricted transportation, it is at our farmers' doordoor....a short haul from farm to plant.

No matter what may happen during the post war adjustment period, livestock must be fed and the beans that are raised must be processed. We will have all the facilities right here.

The establishment of this great plant in Belmond means that this community will have one of the largest soybean processing plants in the United States.

Iowa Soybean Baby Now Full-Grown Man

Brief History of New State Crop

Twenty-five years ago a new crop was introduced to the farmers of the Corn Belt. This, shall we say new baby, had been conceived years before when the United States Department of Agriculture sent Dr. W. J. Morse to China to investigate and send to the United States the results of his discoveries, together with identified samples of soybeans.

For a number of years farmers paid little attention to this new arrival. Some farmers planted soybeans for hay when they were short of roughage, but, for the most part, soybeans were a special crop and new skills had to be acquired to grow them. Long debates were held in the country elevators, and on cracker boxes in the village stores, as to whether it was better to broadcast, or drill, or plant in rows so the crop could be intertilled. Other debates were held regarding the rate of seeding, how hard soybeans were on the ground, the best way to inoculate, how to harvest and all the other details that are necessary for the farmer to know in order to successfully grow and harvest a crop. Agricultural colleges, through their experiment station, started to find the answers to these questions, yet some of them are still unanswered.

All this took place during the time we now look back to as the "Roaring Twenties." Most farmers were making fair money and interest was not as great as the advocates of the "wonder" crop wished. During this time the agricultural press described soybeans under such captions as "What's New in Agriculture."

The baby became an adolescent during the drouth years and depression of the thirties. Twelve cent corn and $2.50 hogs made 65 cent beans look like a gold mine. Lack of sufficient forage, due to the drouth and the killing of legume seedings, forced farmers to plant soybeans for hay. The Triple A programs encouraged this youth and industry started to afford a market for the grain.

A few feeders became acquainted with the meal as a source of protein for their animals, and the National Farm Chemurgic Council, with Henry Ford as the spokesman, told the American public about this youth that was becoming a man and phophesied great things for the future.

Then came Pearl Harbor and the loss of our source of vegetable oils from the Orient. This soybean youth, overnight, became a man and the nation looked to it to do a man's job, even as your lad and mine were expected to do their duty. The growers responded and in 1943 we produced the largest acreage of soybeans in our history.

The American Soybean Association, with a directorate composed of a soybean growers, met in December 1943 at Chicago and passed a resolution recommending that the support price of soybeans be fixed at approximately two and one-half times the price of corn, if the goals of the War Food Administration were to be reached. This action was taken after the conference with the American Society of Farm Managers, an organization having membership in the United States, Canada, and Mexico.

It is hard to convince the farmer that he is doing more for the war effort by producing 1500 pounds of beans per acre than by producing 3920 pounds of corn or 1600 pounds of oats both of which are used on the farm for feed. This is particularly true when corn will be far more profitable, and oats acreage has been cut to the minimum, from the standpoint of labor utilization and feed requirements.

The soybean youth has now attained his majority and is a full grown man. The farmers have nurtured him and are pleased with his characteristics. The same tillage tools, planter, cultivator, combine, elevator, etc., care for this crop as are required to care for other corn belt cops. Beans can be planted after the corn is in the ground, cultivated while the cutivator is still attached to the tractor and harvesed before the corn has to be picked. Therefore, from the standpoint of machinery and labor utilization soybeans fit well into the farm program.—Reprinted from the Soybean Digest. Written by H. L. Roach of Plainfield, Ia., president of the American Soybean association.

Soybeans Find Varied Use On Family Table

High in Protein, "B" Vitamins, Mineral Food Nutrients

The soybean has found a permanent place in the civilian diet. Soya flour, soya grits, bean milk, soybean sprouts, soybean oil and both green and dry soybeans are all being served at the family table.

Today's homemaker caught on quickly to this new food, because it's so high in important food nutrients. The soybean has about the same quality protein as meat, eggs, milk and cheese. And it provides the B vitamins so necessary to good health and energy in an inexpensive form. It also contains minerals—calcium and phosphorus to build strong bones and teeth, and iron to maintain red blood.

Part of the rising popularity of the soybean is due to its good flavor. Scentists have been successful in debittering the soya products, leaving a pleasant, nutty taste. A little soya flour used with wheat flour will add favor and food value to breads and biscuits.

Soybean sprouts rival the tomato in vitamin C content—the vitamin that helps to form good teeth and keep them from decaying. And these sprouts can be made in the home. Use them fresh in salads or saute them with a little onion and fat and serve them as a cooked vegetable. Follow the Chinese cookery using chopped sprouts with soy sauce and other seasonings in scrambled eggs or omelet.

When the soybeans have reached nearly full size but are still green and succulent, they make a nutritious green vegetable, either shelled or in the pod. Shelled, they are cooked much the same as green peas. Cold cooked green soybeans are excellent in salads.

Dry soybeans are cooked and served in practically the same manner as other dry beans, except they usually require longer cooking. Soak soybeans overnight before cooking.

Soybean "milk" does not equal cow's milk in food value but is used in the same manner—as a beverage or in cooking. It is of value for infants and other persons allergic to cow's milk.

Henry Ford Has Faith In Soybeans As War Rehabilitating Food Source

Soybean Dishes Made Up Menu at World Neighbor Luncheon

Dearborn, Mich.—A World premiere of Soybean milk highlighted the complete soybean luncheon served to home economists, dieticians and women journalists by the Ford Motor Company recently.

Introduced as a World Neighbor Luncheon, the menu was planned to present practical soybean dishes to the world's housewives and demonstrates Henry Ford's faith in the soybean as an important factor in rehabilitating war-devastated countries where dairy herds and food sources have been destroyed.

While tasted and tested in the laboratory, the soybean milk had never before made its appearance at a meal. Here it appeared as a beverage, in a soft cream custard, rich delicious ice cream and smooth butter. Henry Ford II, son of Edsel Ford, with his guests, commented particularly about the butter.

"It's a little softer in texture but that.s about the only difference between it and real butte ," he said.

Robert Smith, soybean chemist at the Carver Experimental Laboratory in Dearborn, pointed out that the milk offered unlimited possibilities for supplying the necessary protein to the children ol Europe where it will take years to rebuild dairy herds.

As a food source, Smith pointed out: "The soybean is one of the most complete vegetable foods known. It contains fat, carbohydrate, minerals and vitamins. The protein, of which there is 35 to 40 per cent, is as easily and completely digested as meat, and the bean contains all of the animo-acids necessary to life."

The first luncheon of its kind, even the coffee and soup were made from soy beans. The complete menu was as follows:

Celery Stuffed with Soy Pimento Cheese

Canapes of Soya Crackers and Soya Butter

Soybean Soup
Soya Melba Toast

Soy Cutlets
Soy Sprouts Creole
Buttered Green Soya Beans
Baked Soybeans
Parsley Potatoes
Soybean Coffee
Soybean Milk
Soybean Bread, Butter and Crackers
Soya Ice Cream
Soya Custard
Soya Cookies

All soybean food experiments are conducted at the George Washington Carver Memorial Laboratory in Dearborn, Mich., under Henry Ford's direction.

Seeding Soybeans Too Heavily May Cut Down Yield

Using a tool heavy seeding rate for planting soybeans cuts down the yield and may affect the quality of the crop, because it will lodge more and maturity will be retarded.

This was shown in four years of testing five varieties of soybeans seeded at rates ranging from .6 bushel to 2.2 bushels to the acre. In tests conducted on the agronomy farm of Iowa Agriculural Experiment Station, Ames, the yields from the different rates varied only slightly up to seeding rates of 1.8 and .22 bushels to the acre when the yield decreased.

For soybeans planted in rows about 32 inches apart, the rate of seeding for maximum yields with seed of high germination need not be more than 1 bushel to the acre.

Animal Pastures

Uncle Ab says that whatever the ceiling for hogs, poultry, or dairy animals, it is important to keep them on a floor of legume pasture.

General Mills Plant Here Will Have Big Power Demand

Requires As Much As City of 7000 People

Electricity is an essential commodity in the operation of the new General Mills Inc. Soybean processing plant. In fact the power needed will be more than that required to furnish all of the Central States Electric Company customers of all kinds and classes in the towns of Belmond, Britt, Dows, Garner, Kanawha and Klemme combined.

Needless to say, an electric company without adequate reserve capacity and an interconnected system of generating plants could not have furnished this large demand for power, and the local utility company has thus been instrumental in bringing to Belmond an industry that would normally locate in some large metropolitan center. Central States will furnish electricity for the operation of the General Mills plant from its steam-electric generating station at Iowa Falls. However, the General Mills substation is connected directly to the 33,000 volt transmission system of the Company, thereby making other network power plants available for service in cases of emergency.

The manufacture and installation of electric generating plant equipment requires considerable time, and loads must be forecast far in the future in order to have the necessary equipment available when the time comes. In the spring of 1941, a million dollar addition to the Central States power plant at Iowa Falls was designed and orders were placed for the necessary equipment. Delivery was expected in about eighteen months and under the priority schedules established during the early days of the war an A-5 rating was assigned. Later the Navy and other ship building requirements became so heavy that the company was unable to obtain the boilers and auxiliary equipment and the turbine was requisitioned by the Navy for use on a war ship. However, after a careful load survey last December, the War Production Board agreed with the company on the need for more generating capacity in this area and reinstated the company's request. An AA-2X priority was assigned for the entire project and AA-1 on many "specialty" items. Orders were placed at once and the high priorities enabled the company to obtain the equipment in record time. The installation of the new 9,375 KVA turbine and 150,000 pound high pressure boiler is now nearing completion at Iowa Falls and will be in operation about December 15th.

A part of the original project to distribute power in the central Iowa territory embraced a new, second circuit, transmission line connecting with existing lines of the company and extending from Blairsburg north through Belmond to Britt, and the War Production Board authorized the company to proceed with this work at the time the original application was made. The construction of this line has been completed at a cost of well over one hundred and fifty thousand dollars and Belmond thereby becomes a central power distribution center for a large area embracing a radius of more than 150 miles.

Central States furnishes electric service to sixteen thousand consumers in seventy five centarl Iowa towns plus more than three thousand farm line customers. The company also furnishes gas service to more than nine thousand consumers in twenty-one cities. The company's pride is the part it has played in the development of the communities it serves and as one of the Officials recently said, "Central States has only just started—we have great plans and we will carry on."

Oil From Nut Shells

Filbert oil is said to be one of the best of edible oils as well as being useful to pharmacists as a base for laxatives, for liniments, and as a base for perfumes. It has the property of absorbing and retaining odors. As the kernel of filberts contains from 50 to 60 per cent oil, the amount secured is exceptionally high.

Prevents Soil Erosion

Two or three pounds of timothy per acre, seeded in addition to the regular rate of alfalfa helps to assure a stand, assists in erosion and wind control, and produces a pasture safer from bloat.

Pulpwood Uses

Smokeless powder, blood plasma containers, cargo parachutes, aviator vests, shell casings, first-aid kits, and commando bags are a few of the many hundreds of things for which pulpwood is used.

Yanks Marry English

Between 30,000 and 40,000 American servicemen have married English girls, each with the approval of his commanding officer.

Battleship Oil Uses

An American battleship's oil is stored in tanks built between the outer shell and the inner bottom of the hull. Eight different lubricants are carried aboard a modern battleship—one-half the number of lubricants required before our entry in the war.

THE TOTAL ELECTRICAL DEMAND OF THE NEW GENERAL MILLS PLANT EXCEEDS THAT OF THE PRESENT ELECTRICAL DEMANDS OF THE TOWNS OF BEMOND, BRITT, DOWS, KANAWHA, AND KLEMME COMBINED.

THE FIRST REQUIREMENT OF ANY INDUSTRY, IN CHOOSING A NEW LOCATION, IS AN ADEQUATE AND DEPENDABLE SUPPLY OF ELECTRIC POWER. ELECTRICITY IN THE AMOUNT NEEDED BY GENERAL MILLS (EQUIVALENT TO A CITY OF MORE THAN 7000 PEOPLE) CAN ONLY BE AVAILABLE FROM AN INTERCONNECTED SYSTEM OF GENERATING PLANTS. HAD BELMOND BEEN SERVED BY A SMALL LOCAL PLANT — SUCH AS ONE THAT IS MUNICIPALLY OWNED — GENERAL MILLS WOULD HAVE BEEN FORCED TO LOCATE ELSEWHERE.

SEVERAL YEARS AGO YOU EVIDENCED YOUR FAITH IN US WHEN YOU RENEWED OUR ELECTRIC FRANCHISE—WE ARE KEEPING OUR FAITH WITH YOU.

Three Days Left To Fill Large Gap In Fifth War Loan Drive Quota

Belmond Bond Sales Fall Far Short

On Wednesday, July 5, with only a little more than three days to go before the end of the Fifth War Loan campaign, Belmond, as well as the whole of Wright County, was still far short of its quota.

Belmond's bond sales on Wednesday totalled $157,604.25 with over $50,000 yet to go in order to reach its quota of $212,860. Total sales in the county on Wednesday were $812,076 compared with the quota of $1,034,000. County "E" bond sales had reached $503,559, nearing the "E" bond quota of $664,000 as the close of the drive approaches.

Paul Henry, Wright county chairman of the drive, said yesterday, "We got to go to work and quick if we are to reach the quota by Saturday night."

Roy A. Henderson, chairman for Belmond made this statement, "We are still far below our quota and with only three days to go, it will require prompt and effective action by everyone in the community. Not only will it be necessary for those who have not yet purchased their quota of bonds to do so in the next three days, but persons who have already bought bonds, will also need to buy more bonds in the remaining days of the Fifth War Loan Campaign if Belmond's quota is to be reached."

The lack of response on the part of the people of the state to date was described as 'the crises brought about by success on the battlefronts." A state War Finance committee spokesman said that in some localities the success of the invasion has in a measure given many people the idea that final victory was very near, and that this has affected these counties.

"We are far from final victory and have only just entered the most costly phases of the war in Europe and the South Pacific," he said.

"Iowa has a fine record of performance in past war bond drives and we must keep that record clean," V. L. Clark, executive manager of the Iowa War Finance committee, said. "Today we are calling upon the people of Iowa as a whole to make this week of the campaign the biggest buying week of them all. If each individual will respond we will reach our goal."

Thompson Fields Need About 200 Detasselers

Women Needed For Emergency Work Demands

Bulk of Corn Detasseling Will Be Done By Youth

Indications are that boys and girls under eighteen years of age will have to carry most of the load of corn detasseling according to early registration in the County Extension Office in Wright County.

Out of over 200 emergency agricultural workers who have registered, 93% are under 18 years of age. Only 6% are women 18 or over and men make up the remaining 1%. Demands have been active during the month of June for seasonal workers and 44 were placed. Nine year around workers were placed on farms in Wright County during the same period.

Over thirty 4-H club members in Wright County responded to requests to assist on farms in Wright County, even for a few days when they are not needed on their home farms. These volunteer workers are experienced in farm work and have been assisting in operating tractors, cultivating corn and haying on farms requesting workers to assist them in catching up with their work. Two 4-H club members even volunteered the use of their tractors when they were not being used on their home farm.

A pool of volunteer workers is now being assembled in the county extension office from registrations and house to house canvasses, now being conducted, over the county. Farmers in need of seasonal workers will probably be able to get their request filled from the pool of workers now being assembled. Year around workers are harder to find but even here the supply has almost been able to keep up with the demand. Farmers needing help, either part time or full time, should

Will Begin Work After July 20th

R. B. Thompson, owner of the Thompson Hybrid Corn Company, announced this week that Thompson corn fields in the vicinity of Belmond will be ready for detasseling about the middle of July and that it will take from two to three weeks to do this work.

Thompson has 1500 acres of Hybrid Seed Corn under cultivation this year, about half of which is planted near Belmond. Mr. Thompson estimates that about 200 detasselers will be needed in the Belmond fields.

Men, women, girls and boys are being urged to sign up for both full-time and part-time work to help with the farm labor emergency in detasseling hybrid corn fields. Wage rates have increased this year, with 60 cents an hour being paid on weekdays and 80 cents on Sundays.

Mr. Thompson stated that transportation would be furnished from central points, such as Meservey, Alexander, Goodell or Belmond to the corn fields.

Persons wishing to register for detasseling may do so at the Thompson Hybrid Corn Company office in Belmond or at the Belmond Independent, which is the local agricultural labor office.

Belmond Boys Fighting In European Battles

Capt. Martin Commended For Leadership Of A. A. Unit

With the Fifth Army, Italy.—Captain Albert E. Martin of Belmond, Iowa, commanding officer of an ack ack battery on the Fifth Army front in Italy, was highly commended by senior officers recently for his unit's successful efforts in beating off a German air assault on a 3rd "Marne" Division artillery outfit.

The artillery gun position was attacked at noon by a small formation of medium bombers, but met with quick, fierce resistance from Captain Martin's battery of guns. Bombs were unloaded haphazardly, causing insignificant damage, and the formation was effectively disorganized. By sustaining its fire, the battery finally accounted for the destruction of one of the planes, as well as severe damage to another.

Captain Martin accepted the commendation with the remark: "The real credit belongs to the men on the guns. They've made a habit of doing a good job."

Prior to entering the service, the young Iowan resided at 5540 Broadway Avenue, Indianapolis, Ind. He is a graduate of Iowa State College and a student of Farm Management. He was employed by the United States Department of Agriculture and the Iowa Extension Service, and for a period was representative for the Farm Security Administration, with an office in Indianapolis. His family is living at Belmond during his service wth the army.

Duane Corwin Writes From Foxhole In France

Gordon Corwin of Sheffield has sent a copy of a letter he received from his son Duane "Hap" Corwin who is somewhere in France. Duane attended the Belmond High School and worked for the Hub Garage for two years before he entered service.

Somewhere in France.
June 20th, 1944.

A dreary old day here in France. Has rained the past couple of days. Reminds me of England.

Have received a few scattered V-mail letters and a couple of old air mail letters.

Well D-Day, the day every one has been waiting for has come—The papers have given a pretty good account of things. Although a little picturesque. Correspondent Ernie Pyle's articles have been about the truest to form.

At present I'm in the Aid Station, a "beat up" French house. . . Time for chow, "C" Ration. I landed in England the 3rd of June 1943—left exactly a year later. Didn't think I would be here that long.

I think I'm in the wrong business. With the fox holes and split trenches I've been digging—a way down and then under. And I mean deep. The fighting here is as bad as the Pacific. Snipers in every tree and helge row. It doesn't take long to hit the ditch. Right now I have a rather conspicuous rip in my trousers as a result. You've possibly read in the papers about the German 88's. They are really wicked. The shells whistle all the way. A bit of warning.

Well, don't have much time to write. Have a lot of paper work to do, mail to take care of. Just keep the mail coming. Don't worry about me. I'll be OK

Duane.

WAR WORKERS NEEDED!

Last week announcement was made that Wright County needs 1,000 Emergency workers for the detasseling of hybrid corn in the county and to help in the harvesting of grain crops.

This figure compares with the need of 700 workers for the same type of seasonal work in the summer of 1943. This year, with the greater need of workers because of larger acreages of hybrid seed corn, there is also a greater labor problem to solve since the ordinary supply of emergency workers has been so greatly depleted during the past months.

This being true, it is quite obvious that the Emergency farm workers will have to be secured in large part among folks who may not need the work for financial reasons and who may not really feel inclined to exert themselves unnecessarily.

But farm crops, Wright county's farm crops, are important! It is just as important to produce and harvest maximum farm crops as it is to meet war loan quotas, to help with work in the Red Cross, to man a ship, to carry a gun.

Your help is needed! If you have the TIME and the ENERGY to spare, register now to help in this emergency. Your local agricultural recruitment office is the Belmond Independent. Register now to help take care of Wright county's precious crops.

CONVENTION IN CHICAGO—

The quiet general description of the Republican convention at Chicago last week, as given by the political reporters, could be summed up in two words, "deadly dull." This description seems to about fit the occasion unless it should turn out that it might be better characterized as "deadly serious.' The party leaders assembled in Chicago were either just going through the expected motions or they intend to unitedly take advantage of every opportunity as an "opposition party", to capitalize on any and all errors of the dominant party, and make no move that will antagonize any considerable group of voters.

The nomination of Dewey had been certain for some time. Lots of voters had a preference for a more colorful leader, a candidate who had the earmarks of the "man on horseback" who would shout to the multitude "come on boys, we're going back" and in his pronouncements astonish the average citizen by being far ahead of generally accepted tenets.

Dewey, however, is probably a shrewder and more keenly efficient politician than his party leaders expected. Indeed, a study of Dewey's career seems to indicate that he models his moves on the political chessboard after the political maneuvers of the "old master." F. D. R. himself.

So much is that true that this year's campaign would likely be almost a replica of 1932 except for the war. The Republicans have done and will continue to do everything they can to keep the war and the campaign as two separate and distinct things. They can only go a certain distance in this respect, however, and almost certainly the progress of the war in the next four months will be the surest barometer of the progress of the campaign.

SCRAP PAPER DRIVE JULY 7

Belmond is due for another Scrap Drive this week when the Belmond Boy Scouts will spend Friday, July 7, collecting waste paper from the homes and business places of the city.

Let's be ready to help both the Scouts of Belmond and Uncle Sam, who, among many other things, needs vast quantities of waste paper for continuation of the war.

LET'S MAKE OUR QUOTA—

There are only a few days to go before the end of the Fifth War Loan Drive. At this writing, Wright county and the city of Belmond are still far short of their quotas. Let's beat the deadline—let's make our quota—It will take the cooperation of every potential bond buyer to get this big job done.

WITH OTHER EDITORS— WHEN NOT TO LAUGH—

Thursday was a bad day around the Editorial Manse. Nothing seemed to go right but the climax came about noon while the "Missus" was up to her neck in cleaning the house. She was washing the walls in the living room and was perched on a stepladder. Somehow or other she missed a step descending and in the fall landed against a window (and of course the biggest window in the house) and broke out the glass as well as cutting her arm slightly in a few places and upsetting her dignity as well.

The Editor spent the noon hour reminding her how awkward some people are, and how it would have been cheaper to have hired the work done, etc., all of which didn't help humor the better half too much, she just took the kidding and let us rave on.

The window was sent up to Jacobs for repair and in due time the job was done. The writer then went up and paid for the window and walked on toward the Editorial Manse, gingerly carrying the window so it would not drop. Everything was running smoothly, but just as we reached the step of the house, a gust of wind caught the window and WHAM! No window! It crashed against the sidewalk and broke into 2,998,634 pieces more or less. The writer broke out into a cold sweat and considerable profanity and we felt so low we could have crawled under the belly of a snake and not touch anything!

Considerable merry ha, ha, and haw, haw, filtered out from the house. More nasty remarks were heaped on us, when we again took the window to Jacobs for the second repair job. Our razzing the missus sure did backfire that time, so we resolved henceforth to let the women alone during housecleaning time. It don't pay.—Klemme Times.

Those who damn all labor unions because of the faults of some wartime strikers are barking up a tree without a squirrel in it. Labor unions are here to stay because they do deliver a service. But some clean-up in some leadership is advisable and will be done, by labor, not by anyone else. Kossuth County Advance.

The allied slogan of "unconditional surrender" by Germany is being questioned by some of the authorities we have read. It has been pointed out that the slogan is being utilized to promote a do-or-die spirit among the German people in the belief that if they lose the war they lose everything, including their national integrity. The purpose of such propaganda is to instill a spirit of desperation in the German people which will prompt them to fight to the last. If the allies would outline definite terms, giving the German people some idea of what they may expect, always supposing that Nazi officialdom would permit them to be informed, it might hasten the end of the war appreciably.

As everybody knows, a rat in a trap will fight to the last. Herr Goebbels and his assistants are trying to get the German people into the rat's frame of mind.—Grinnell Herald-Register.

Prittle... Prattle....

By R. H. Gowdy A|S

Dear Gang:

Yesterday the Navy paid each of us $5.00, took $1.50 away from us and then stuck us with a needle. Now, wasn't that some way to treat us. We're through with the needle--for a year, but not the pay, we hope. Have at least enough for cigarette money until we shake the dust of Farragut from our heels to go home on "boot leave" which should come in another week.

PP

For once during the day it is quiet in our barracks--the company has ships service tonight--the place where men go to buy ice cream and drink cokes or eat sandwiches. Some of the men have also gone to the movie. An old man like myself appreciates that quiet atmosphere, and for once I had the shower room to myself. Better yet, hot water was still coming out of the pipes. Hot water is something we don't see much of after 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon. One stoker has to heat enough water for the 480 men who use the washhouse as well as supplying hot water for the showers and wash basins for 240 men. It builds up quite a reserve at night, but just can't keep up under the daytime pressure.

PP

Evehyone from the lowly boots to the Lieutenant incommand of the 3rd Regiment had a Captain's inspection this morning. For the first time in six weeks we had a Captain's inspection by the commander of the Training Center. One has to be on the spot and in the service at a time like that, to appreciate how easy it is to get that jitterbug. Over 6000 men in the Regiment worked like beavers yesterday afternoon and again this morning until 8:00 to get every corner of every building in Camp Bennion immaculately clean. We swept and swabbed, washed windows and dusted from the deck to the overhead until our barracks gleamed like a new penny--one of the pre-war copper ones.

Clean bedding was put on our bunks, our peacoats were hung over our ditty bags according to regulations, even the boiler room was swabbed.

PP

After cleaning and then standing by outside the barracks we awaited the call from the Captain. Promptly at 11:00 his car drove up. He got out, looked at his watch, got back in and was driven to the Drill Hall. And that was that. Co. 608 once more got through unscathed.

PP

Our company, this week, has been on what is known as work week. One week--always the 4th week during training--each company is dismissed from all classes and drill and given a job to do. Some work in the scullery, others stand guard around the camp, some are in the serving line in the mess hall. Our job was general utility. Some of the expert swimmers helped instruct at the swimming pool, others acted as cleaning details in the recreation building and others Drill Hall. Still others worked in the Armory and in the kitchen at Ships Service. Another group acted as boiler guards in various buildings, while six men who were carpenters went from here to there making repairs.

Seven of us stood by in the barracks, acting as guards and a clean-up detail and also served as relief for any man who had to go to sick bay. All nine of the youngsters in our company became pin setters at the bowling alley for a week from 4:30 p. m. to 10:00 p. m. each day. Those boys were the only ones who received any extra pay, averaging from 40c to 90c a night, depending on the number of lines they set up.

PP

It has been seven weeks and two days today, July 6, since the most of us left our homes and families, and we're getting awfully "itchy" to get back to them.

PP

I am reminded of the story they tell out here about one foolish fellow who couldn't stand it any longer and decided to go A.W.O.L. He began climbing the mountain just south of our camp. After two days the fellow reached the top and awaiting him, with open arms, were the S. P.'s who said, "Come on sailor, you can't get out that way."

PP

Guess this is it and next week I hope to write PP looking at Farragut from a distance. Don't mistake my implications as expressed. Farragut isn't such a bad place. I can think of a lot more places I'd rather not be in.

Yours,

Dick

CORN DETASSELING!
In Thompson Seed Corn Fields
The Job Is Important -- Here's Why:

HYBRID CORN must be detasseled (have the tassels pulled) at the exact time when it's ready. This means the work must be done. (It's easy to do, but it's real work — and you'll know you did something important when it's finished. Anybody can do it if he or she is five feet tall and able to walk and use both hands.) It must be done because detasseling is the key factor in production of Hybrid Corn — and because America had hybrid corn, we were able to increase the 1942 yield by three hundred million bushels. If you detassel 5 acres of corn, you will make it possible to produce 180,000 bushels of corn. Think of that for a minute. Then think of the boys in Italy, and the South Pacific and Burma and in the Invasion.
